NO. 268—SIXTY-SECOND YEAR VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1920 TWENTY-FOUR PAGES

FOUR PROVINCES DECIDE AGAINST LIQUOR IMPORTS

Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Nova Scotia Declare Themselves "Bone Dry" by Considerable Majorities — Maritime Province Gives Most Emphatic Vote.

DOMINION ORDER-IN-COUNCIL WILL FIX ENFORCEMENT DATE

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—Manitoba will be a dry province in the future, as a result of today's liquor law referendum. The majority for the temperance forces cannot be given completely tonight, but the reformers say they will be well satisfied if it totals 7,000. The probability is that it will amount to more than that figure. While the city of Winnipeg has voted surprisingly strong for wet goods imports, the country districts will roll up large majorities for prohibition.

The total wet majority for the city of Winnipeg seems to be 6,329 and the rural majority vote is expected to be dry around 10,000 to offset the city's tendency. The large wet vote in Springfield is accounted for by the vote in St. Boniface, where 13 polls gave a "no" majority 1,164, and the drys only secured, all told, 674 votes. The city of Brandon was a "no" city by around 20 votes, but the constituency wiped that out and swamped the liquor supporters.

The ballots used in today's referendum were as follows:

"Shall the importation or bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? 'No!'"

"Shall the importation or bringing of intoxicating liquors into the Province be forbidden? 'Yes!'"

Winnipeg—No, 25,291; yes, 18,899.
Selkirk—No, 2,063; yes, 3,246.
Lisgard—No, 1,354; yes, 3,572.
Macdonald—No, 1,905; yes, 4204.
Portage—No, 1,136; yes, 2,632.
Brandon—No, 3,676; yes, 6,267.
Dauphin—Incomplete figures give 870 dry majority.
Nelson—Incomplete figures give 199 dry majority.
Souris—No, 2,228; yes, 6,679.
Springfield—No, 3,143; yes, 1,795.
Neepawa—No, 1,538; yes, 3,452.
Marquette—No, 2,049; yes, 3,853.

Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, Oct. 25.—Forty thousand is estimated the majority by which the drys won over the wets in the vote today on the referendum whether or not the importation of liquor into Nova Scotia will be forbidden. County majorities all the way from 600 to more than 6,000 piled up the huge majority which by all indications will eventually be recorded for the victorious drys. With the exception of Halifax and Dartmouth, no large centers of the Province had recorded a wet majority. Halifax gave the wets a majority of 1,094, while Dartmouth added 114 and Woodside threw in its lot by another 216, making a total majority of 1,434 for Halifax and suburbs.

Cape Breton county, with such large centres as Sydney and Glace Bay, New Waterford, Sydney Mines and North Sydney, recorded a majority for the drys of more than 5,000, while the largest county majority yet is that of Pictou, which, while still incomplete was 6,000 late tonight. Rev. H. R. Grant, the leader of the prohibition forces, who is in Pictou, said tonight that the returns showed that there would be a 40,000 majority when all the returns were in.

Saskatchewan

REGINA, Oct. 25.—Saskatchewan today voted to stop the importation of intoxicating liquors. Latest figures available estimated the majority of the drys at nearly 10,000. The returns show the following:

Regina city complete: Yes, 3,385; No, 3,714; a majority for the wets of 329. Regina constituency, exclusive of the city, with 87 out of 106 subdivisions, gives: Yes, 1,577; No, 1,180; majority for the drys, 397. The latest returns available from the other constituencies show: Yes, 21,027; No, 11,421. The voting was exceptionally light, less than 50,000 of the 200,000 registered voters in the Province visiting the polls. Only one other city, Prince Albert, besides Regina, shows a wet majority, while the constituency of Humboldt gives the following: Yes, 472; No, 504.

Alberta

EDMONTON, Oct. 25. — Returns compiled at the provincial prohibition headquarters at 10 o'clock tonight indicate that the vote of Alberta has decided by a majority estimated at 15,000 in favor of prohibition of the importation of liquor into the province.

Edmonton City has given a majority of 1,300 for the drys and Calgary 1,200, while Medicine Hat has a majority of 100. Lethbridge is the only city so far reported to go wet—by a majority of 216. It is asserted by the dry leaders that each of the twelve Federal constituencies will show a majority ranging from 1,000 to 1,500 in their favor.

The strongest vote for importation of liquor was recorded in the mining sections of the province and in the French-speaking districts.

Up to the present time it is very difficult to compile exact figures, as the returns have been arriving in a very fragmentary manner.

Prohibition Provisions

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—An order-in-council is to be passed by the Dominion Government fixing a date after which importation of liquor into the provinces which went bone dry today will be prohibited.

Under an amendment to the Canada Temperance Act, passed last year, it is provided that after the prohibition of importation is declared to be in force

NUMBERS OF JEWS ENTERING HOLY LAND

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Prof. Chaim Weihmann, head of the Zionite movement, in addressing representatives of various synagogues in Greater London today, declared 1,200 Jews were entering Palestine monthly, and that the number could not be increased until proper provision had been made for the reception of larger masses.

A plan submitted for the irrigation of Palestine has been accepted, he announced. He said the Zionist executive body was negotiating with the British Government for the acquisition of some state ground, and had plans for the cultivation of vast areas.

KING ALEXANDER HAS SUCCUMBED

Grecian Monarch Dies From Effects of Monkey's Bite—Question of Successor Gives Rise to Speculation

ATHENS, Oct. 25.—King Alexander of Greece died at 5:20 p.m. today. His death was due to wounds received when a pet monkey attacked him early in October, the King being badly mutilated.

Throughout last night the heart action grew weaker, his general debility became more pronounced and pulmonary symptoms were intense. Breathing at times was most difficult and alarming, and at noon today it was announced that the King's condition was hopeless.

The death of King Alexander gives rise to the question of succession to the Greek throne. Former King Constantine was reported, according to Swiss dispatches of October 17, as intending to take advantage of the situation created by his son's grave illness, by returning to Greece and claiming the throne.

About the same time a regency was suggested, and Constantine gave his opinion of this as follows:

"Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. I will not think of a regency yet. My plans are those of my people."

Premier Venizelos on Sunday expressed himself as confident that Prince Paul, Constantine's third son, would not be prevented from taking the throne by his father.

Both Prince Arthur of Connaught and Prince Charles of Belgium have been mentioned as possible candidates.

It is probable that the old chamber will be reconvened owing to the King's death to consider what steps are to be taken before the new chamber meets.

DEPUTY LORD MAYOR GIVES CORK'S BELIEF

CORK, Oct. 25.—Deputy Lord Mayor O'Callaghan, in a statement today on Lord Mayor Macswiney's death, referred to the assassination of Lord Mayor Maccurtain, who he declared was "murdered by the English," and asserted that Macswiney had followed in the same line.

"In the short interval since his imprisonment while I have been temporarily taking his place," he continued, "I have received notice of an official origin threatening me with a similar end. The only message, I, on behalf of republican Cork, can give today over the body of the late Lord Mayor is that Cork has definitely yielded allegiance to the republic; that the people of Cork will continue that allegiance unswervingly, and that those of us who man the municipal council will attempt, so far as in us lies, to follow the noble and glorious lead of the two martyred republican chief magistrates.

"The republican hold over the municipal chair in Cork ceases only when the last republican in Cork has followed Maccurtain and Macswiney into the grave. Murder will not terrorize us."

PETLURA TAKES IMPORTANT TOWN

LONDON, Oct. 25. — Winnitza, the principal industrial town of Podolia, has been captured by the troops of General Petlura, the Ukrainian leader, after a ten-day struggle, and the Bolsheviki front line has been broken through near Bar, to the southwest of Winnitza, according to news received in London today by the Ukrainian press bureau.

BELGIAN MINISTRY RETIRES FROM OFFICE

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25.—The council of ministers met today under the presidency of Premier Delacroix, who drafted the text of the cabinet resignation. It will be transmitted by wireless to King Albert, who is in mid-ocean on the way home from Brazil.

The retirement of Premier Delacroix was understood to be due to overwork and attacks upon him from all quarters because of his conciliatory policy.

MR. BOWSER SAYS PARTY IS READY

Conservatives Have Acted on Warning That Election Was Likely to Come Soon—Nomination of Candidates

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 25.—W. J. Bowser, leader of the Conservative party, arrived in the city this morning, and was closeted all day with party leaders.

He will speak at Milner Tuesday evening, and on Wednesday will visit the oil wells of the Fraser Valley. On Thursday he will address a meeting at Cloverdale, returning the next morning to greet Premier Meighen, whom he will accompany to Victoria Friday night, following the National Liberal-Conservative meeting in this city.

Announcement of the Conservative platform will not be made until after the nominating convention in this city on Tuesday, November 2, Mr. Bowser stated.

That there are already so many candidates practically in the field with the election only just announced, is considered significant by Mr. Bowser.

"It is evident that the weakness of the present administration has been generally recognized," is the deduction the Conservative leader draws from this circumstance.

Mr. Bowser said that the possibility of an early election had been realized by the Conservatives for some time, and accordingly instructions had been sent out to every section of the Province, warning the various associations to be in readiness. Consequently the party had had time to select the best type of men and women as candidates, and at the nominating conventions now scheduled to take place in the various ridings, the names put forward would be those of candidates well qualified to administer the affairs of the Province, he declared.

UNIVERSITY IS NEED OF CANADA

Every Stratum in National Life Must Be Influenced by Higher Education, Declares Sir Arthur Currie

Canada needs men of knowledge and spirit to solve the gigantic problems of the period, and the university will find these men for her, if given the chance, Sir Arthur Currie told an audience of over 300 persons yesterday at a Canadian Club luncheon in the Empress Hotel.

Twelve months ago the Canadian Club welcomed Sir Arthur as the leader of the triumphant military forces of Canada. Yesterday the club welcomed him with equal enthusiasm as the head of the nation's greatest educational institution, McGill University. As principal of McGill, Sir Arthur opened here a speaking tour that will carry him all through the Dominion in the interests of the university's drive for funds. Five million dollars are the objective of the campaign, and Sir Arthur impressively submitted his arguments in its behalf, declaring that the whole structure of the nation depended on the corner-stone of higher education. He spoke in matter-of-fact style, although at several points he attained a point of inspiring eloquence. He was given an attentive hearing and was repeat-

After the belt had come off the pulley, Arcand was engaged in putting it on again, when it caught him and whirled him to instant death.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE CONTINUED

Conference of Miners' Leaders With Mr. Lloyd George So Far Result in No Definite Decision—Renewed Today

MR. BRACE'S LINE APPARENTLY TAKEN

Government's Bill to Meet Possible Emergency Is Debated in House — Nation Losing Heavily on Railways

LONDON, Oct. 25.—After renewed conferences of the miners' leaders with Premier Lloyd George and other members of the Government today, and prolonged consideration of the Government's new offer by the executive of the Miners' Federation, no definite decision has been taken tonight. The executive will meet tomorrow to renew its consideration of the matter. Both sides continue secretive regarding the proposal of the Government, which, however, is believed to be framed along lines somewhat similar to that suggested by William Brace, president of the South Wales Miners' Administration, in the House of Commons last week. This was that the two shillings demanded by the miners should be granted temporarily pending creation of a permanent wages board, and that the whole question be reviewed by the end of the year.

The emergency bill providing protection against public disorder was debated in the House of Commons tonight on a second reading, and was referred to a committee of the House, the Labor motion for its rejection being defeated by a large majority.

This decision was followed by another debate on the Irish reprisals, for which the adjournment of the House was moved.

Answering questions on transport the Minister of Transport said that the miners' strike was costing the taxpayers on account of the railways a loss of between two and three million pounds sterling a week.

SUGAR REFINERS LET PRICE DOWN

Meeting Decides on Reduction of Two Cents Per Pound, Wholesale—Means Heavy Loss on Recent Output

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—It was announced this afternoon by four sugar refineries, the Canada, Atlantic, St. Lawrence and Acadia, that the price of granulated sugar would be immediately reduced 2 cents a pound, from 19 1-2 cents to 17.90 cents, less 5 per cent, which makes the amount received by the refiners for the sugar exactly 17 cents a pound. This will mean that the retail price of sugar, based on the 2 cents a pound spread as fixed by the defunct Board of Commerce, should be 19 cents, possibly less, since sugar has been retailing here at around 20 cents.

The Dominion Sugar Company, which chiefly handles beet sugar at present, has reduced its price to 16 cents a pound, which further complicates the position and makes the price of granulated sugar less secure.

It is figured that the Montreal cut in prices will entail a loss to the refiners of about $4,250,000, or a total loss of around $14,000,000, since the big decline in sugar prices started.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Refined sugar was quoted at 11 to 12 cents a pound wholesale here this morning. The retail price showed a wide variation, the uptown grocers asking from 14 to 17 cents, while several chain store companies offered it to the public at 12 to 13 cents.

HOLD CONTRARY VIEWS ABOUT MACSWINEY

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Commenting on the death of Lord Mayor Macswiney, The Evening Standard says:

"In contempt of nature and in defiance of his own priest, the Lord Mayor persisted in his design of suicide. The responsibility for his death is his so far as it does not lie with those who gave him countenance. It cannot be said in any measure to rest on the Government, who merely declared that under no circumstances could he be released. His death is clearly a case of self-murder, as if he had opened a vein on the first night of his incarceration."

The Westminster Gazette says:

"The Government may urge a thousand reasons to prove it could do nothing but what it did do. Nevertheless, it has been beaten by Lord Mayor Macswiney. Englishmen have never failed in generous respect for those who resist them to the death. They know that the death of this man is no victory for them."

Makes Linotype Record

SALT LAKE, Utah, Oct. 25.—Alder Hewitt, linotype operator of The Tribune, on Sunday night established what is said to be a world's record for linotype composition, setting 82,500 ems in six hours and 35 minutes, an average of 12,540 ems an hour. Hewitt's setting was entirely in nonpareil. The setting was in straightaway composition, and not in competition.

HAS NO EVIDENCE BACKING CHARGES AGAINST OFFICERS

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, Replies to Statement Made in House by Mr. T. P. O'Connor—Refers to Recent Remarks of Democratic Candidate

POLICE MEASURES AT BRIXTON PRISON

More Reprisals Reported at Bandon—Sergeant and Two Constables Shot Dead in County Sligo—Military Raids Cause Much Excitement in Sections of Dublin

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, replying to a question in the House by T. P. O'Connor concerning public charges that servants of the Crown were wounding or flogging men in Ireland, said he had no convincing evidence of such things, but he would make inquiries.

Mr. O'Connor had referred to a reported speech of Governor Cox, the Democratic Presidential candidate in the United States, denouncing frightfulness in Ireland. Sir Hamar said he had seen the alleged speech, and that Governor Cox had obviously obtained his information from those hostile to the British Empire and to Anglo-American relations.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Heavy police reinforcements patrolled the streets near Brixton prison tonight as a precaution against disorders which the authorities feared might arise from the group of ardent Macswiney sympathizers in London. The people, however, showed no disposition to make trouble.

Further Disorders

BANDON, Ireland, October 25.—Another reprisal occurred here last night when men said to be soldiers burned a large hosiery factory. Hundreds of terrified townspeople remained throughout the night in the outlying districts.

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—A sergeant and two constables were shot dead and three constables were wounded this morning, when 100 armed men ambushed a police patrol, between Grandge and Apamlinh, County Sligo. There were nine men in the ambushed patrol.

Exciting scenes occurred here today in consequence of numerous military raids throughout the city. Armed soldiers occupied the Mansion House and a search followed. Hotels and private houses were raided and shots were fired. One soldier is reported wounded.

BELFAST, Oct. 25.—A display of Sinn Fein flags in honor of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, resulted in rioting today, in Ballymacarret, suburb of Belfast, in which one man was shot and killed.

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—James McCormack, a shop assistant, was shot by two men, said to have been in uniform, when the men entered the shop on North Brunswick Street, Saturday night. The victim later died in the hospital.

Four persons are reported to have been wounded in police raids in Sackville and O'Connell Streets, Saturday night.

Prominent Man Arrested

BELFAST, Oct. 25.—The police and military Saturday midnight arrested Bernard O'Rourke, a prominent Irish financier, at his home in Inniskeen, County Monaghan, and conveyed him to the barracks at Dundalk. No announcement of the charges against him was made.

O'Rourke is director of the famous Beleek Fermagh pottery works and large works at Dundalk. His place was recently raided and searched by the authorities.

CHARGE OF SPYING IN JAPAN REFUTED

TOKIO, Oct. 25.—Frequent allegations in the Japanese newspapers that Americans have been indulging in spying have been followed today by an article in Nichi Nichi claiming that Capt. Edward H. Watson, naval attache, clandestinely visited Kure navy yard with the object of obtaining information.

Inquiry at the American Embassy today brought forth the statement that Captain Watson, with his assistant, in accordance with arrangements made in advance by the Navy Department, paid an official visit to Kure. The American officers wore their uniforms, and throughout the visit were escorted by Japanese naval officers.

AMERICANS LEASE SIBERIAN TRACT

Mr. Vanderlip Announces That He Has Concluded Extensive Arrangement With Soviet—Derides Rebellion Rumors

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Washington D. Vanderlip, of California, who recently visited Russia, has sent a telegram from Copenhagen, saying he has concluded an extensive arrangement with the Russian Soviet authorities by which an organization of Western American financiers acquires a sixty-year lease on a vast tract in Northeastern Siberia, with exclusive rights to develop coal, oil and fisheries. He stated that his associates are the heads of leading financial institutions west of the Rockies.

Vanderlip's telegram describes the tract as "all Northeastern Siberia east of the 160th meridian, including the peninsula of Kamtchatka, an area of some four hundred thousand square miles." He says that active operation begins in the Spring of next year.

He adds, concerning his recent visit to Moscow:

"I am highly amused by stories contained in recent foreign papers about the rebellions in Russia. Moscow is as safe as any city in the world. Reports of rebellions and street fighting are absolutely false, and are, I believe, foreign propaganda, designed to prevent legitimate American activity in this great Russian market.

"I have confidence in their power to carry out their part of any agreement we may enter into."

Drinks Carbolic Acid

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 25—After declaring his intention of committing suicide and leaving a brief note asking that his mother be called, Robert Townley, 757 Hastings Street E., tonight drank carbolic acid and died in the ambulance while being rushed to the General Hospital, according to the police.

Protest Against Mail Delay

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 25. — A protest against the delay in the transit of Oriental mails from Vancouver will be presented to Premier Meighen on his visit to the city, according to a decision of a special committee of the Board of Trade today.

Prime Minister Gives Case for Government

Makes Opening Address of Western Tour at Winnipeg—Refers to Tariff Revision and Replies to Charges of Liberal Leader—Union Ministry's Achievements

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—A defence of the Government's course over the past three years, an attack on what he termed the "political jig dancing" of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in his present Western tour, and a statement on the Government's tariff policy featured the address here tonight of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada, in the opening meeting of his tour of the Western Provinces. He was preceded by Hon. J. A. Calder, who is to accompany the Premier on his trip, and who reviewed briefly tonight what he considered some of the outstanding achievements of the Government in recent years.

"There must be," said Premier Meighen, "such a tariff as will make it pay Canadian industries to remain in Canada, and make it pay industries to grow and to make goods within this country. Up to that point, and not beyond that point, the tariff in Canada on any class of goods should go. I ask the people of Winnipeg if you first of all decide that you must take account of the needs of industries and the need of keeping them in this country, can you possibly adopt a more restricted principle than that? We do not intend to go further. There is no value whatever in a tariff that does less. I do not see how to find out what is necessary except by the most careful and thorough inquiry that can be made.

Definite Tariff

"That is the course the Government is pursuing, and before the electors of this country are asked to decide between our course and the vagaries of our various oppositions they will have a definite tariff from us in black and white. By the principle I have defined, by the limits I have clearly set out, that tariff will be constructed.

"If I am asked," he continued, "whether it will be possible to have a lower scale than prevails today, or not, I say we must await the completion of the investigation.

"For myself, I would hope that in the final result it would be found not to be higher, and perhaps to be lower than it is now, but I believe the interests of Canadians of every class of industry should remain Canadian, and that Canadian industries, and not American industries should grow with the growth of Canada."

Mr. Meighen declared that the language of the Leader of the Opposition on the stump, was "even more reckless than his language in Parliament." He defended the Government from Mr. King's charges that it had been autocratic in its methods, and assertion that the Opposition Leader's words on the Grand Trunk Bill con-

HUNGER STRIKER DIES AT CORK

Joseph Murphy Is Second of Eleven Prisoners in Jail to Commit Suicide by Abstaining From Food

CORK, Oct. 25.—Joseph Murphy, one of the hunger strikers in Cork jail, died tonight. His death occurred at 8:30 p.m. He was 25 years old and unmarried.

Murphy was a member of the Irish volunteers and was well-known as an athlete.

Joseph Murphy was one of eleven men incarcerated in Cork jail two days before Lord Mayor Macswiney was sent to Brixton prison in London. All the men in Cork jail immediately went on hunger strikes. Last week, one of them, Michael Fitzgerald, died. There were reports last month that Murphy was an American citizen. It was asserted that he was born in Lynn, Mass., and Secretary of State Colby was declared to be investigating the claim.

A dispatch from Cork, September 10, asserted that the American consul there had established the fact that Murphy was born in Lynn, Mass., but that he had been brought to Ireland when an infant by his father, who is a British subject.

Murphy's father, Timothy Murphy, a shoemaker, resides at Houladuff, a suburb of Cork. He said that he was the father of fifteen children, only six of whom are living. He emigrated to America in 1891, settling in Lynn, where three of his children, including Joseph, were born. His father declared that he took out his first citizenship papers in 1895, but that he left the United States before the naturalization became complete.

At the beginning of the war, one son, born in Lynn, according to Mr. Murphy, registered at the American consulate in Queenstown as an American. Joseph, however, failed to register.

It is asserted that the Government accusation against Murphy was that he had a bomb in his possession.

MANY RETURNED MEN OUT OF EMPLOYMENT

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.—That there were large numbers of returned men out of employment in Vancouver was the statement today of W. Millar, of the S.C.R., at a meeting of the committee appointed by Mayor R. H. Gale to report on immigration and labor conditions in Vancouver.

"There are 502 returned men looking for positions in the city, of which 98 were of the clerical professions," said Mr. Millar.

Mr. Butterworth, imperial representative of the S.C.R., said that something must be done to stop the flood of immigration which was pouring into Vancouver. "There are probably as many as sixty families coming into the city tomorrow from points outside the Province," he stated.

Killed by Accidental Shot

REGINA, Oct. 25.—Martin Bodue, aged seventeen, was accidentally shot and killed by his companion, Matts Stuson, sixteen, near his home at Vonda, Sask., Sunday afternoon. An inquest is being held.

LORD MAYOR DIES AFTER LONG FAST

Mr. Macswiney Passes Away in Early Morning Without Regaining Consciousness — Heart Failure Is Cause.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Terence Macswiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, the most prominent of the Irish hunger strikers, and said to have been the brains of the republican army in Ireland, died early today in Brixton prison. The end was not unexpected, for the Lord Mayor had been unconscious several days. He was entering the seventy-fourth day of his hunger strike as a protest against a sentence of two years' imprisonment on several charges, including one of having seditious documents in his possession.

Only his brother, John Macswiney, and his private chaplain, Father Dominic, were with him when he died.

Mrs. Macswiney and the prisoner's two sisters, Annie and Mary, were at a nearby hotel.

The Lord Mayor, who was terribly emaciated as a result of his long abstinence from food, had been delirious for many hours and was unconscious when death came.

It was several hours after he died before his brother was permitted to tell Mrs. Macswiney. She immediately went to the prison, accompanied by her parents and the Misses Macswiney and the family group, and, dry-eyed, prayed over the body as it lay on the cot.

Macswiney was unconscious for thirty-six hours before his death occurred, it is stated. Father Dominic therefore was unable to give him communion, but he administered extreme unction.

Due to Heart Failure

The cause of Macswiney's death was heart failure, according to a statement issued at the Home Office.

This statement is considered an indirect answer to the criticisms of Dr. Josiah Oldfield, the physician and publicist, who had declared it was wrong for the Lord Mayor's doctors to administer meat juices and brandy. He said brandy was a poison, and that a man at the point of death was very susceptible to poison. Dr. Oldfield added that when a man fasted a long time the first food he could endure was fruit juice.

When one of the officials was asked today regarding Mrs. Macswiney's absence from the bedside when death occurred, he replied by saying the restrictions which were recently imposed on the visits of relatives were urged by the attending doctors as vital to the prisoner's own interests.

There were no untoward demonstrations outside the prison after the news of Macswiney's death became generally known. A large force of police had been concentrated to put down any disorder that might occur. It was said at the prison that the reason for withholding permission to John Macswiney to inform the dying man's relatives of his condition was that it was in the prisoner's interests.

May Be Secretly Removed

It is well within the possibilities that the body will be taken to Cork secretly in order to avoid unpleasant results from whatever demonstrations may be arranged in England and Ireland along the route traversed by a train bearing the body. There is no intimation that any official advocates refusal to send it to Cork. The Home Office, in charge of prisons, which would control the movement of the body in England, said that no plan for the removal of the body had been officially considered. At the Irish Office it was declared that no plan had been formulated for the transfer to Ireland, and that final decision on this point would rest with Dublin Castle. It is within the power of the Home Office to give up the body of a prisoner in whatever way is deemed most expedient. It is pointed out that it could legally transfer it in secret to some out-of-the-way port and later to a Government vessel and deliver it at Cork.

London Clocks Set Back

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The annual Summer daylight saving spell in Great Britain ended at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, when all clocks were set back to 2 o'clock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The crew of six and two stowaways from British schooner Bordackie, from Oporto for Newfoundland with salt, and abandoned at sea, were brought to this port yesterday by the steamer Willfare. The men were picked up at sea October 18.

D'ANNUNZIO DENIES RUMORS AS TO PLOT

ROME, Oct. 25.—Reports printed here that Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio was involved in a plot to overturn the Italian Government, have been denied by Captain d'Annunzio, according to reports from Fiume.

He has issued a statement vigorously protesting against rumors that he intended to participate in a "coup de main," and adds that he has never been "addicted to plots."

ARMENIANS DEFEAT NATIONALIST TURKS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 23.—The Armenians have defeated the Turkish Nationalists at the foot of Mount Ararat, near the seat of the Chief Patriarch, according to advices received here today.

Georgia has sent an ultimatum to the Turks and Tartars threatening war unless they withdraw their troops from Georgia's frontiers and also cease menacing Batoum.

PREMIER HOPES FOR SETTLEMENT

Refers to Negotiations With Miners — Government Proceeds With Emergency Bill —Oppose Strike Idea.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Mr. Lloyd George said he was hopeful that the present negotiations between the Government and miners would obviate the necessity of setting up a tribunal to inquire into the best means of increasing coal production.

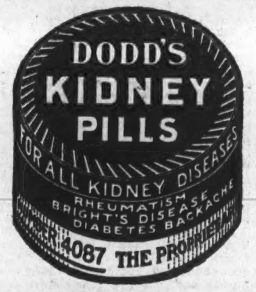
Contrary to expectations, it was announced in the House by Mr. Bonar Law, the Government leader, that the Government intended to proceed today with the bill introduced last week granting the Government unusual powers for dealing with an emergency such as might grow out of the strike situation. He moved the second reading of the measure.

In discussing his motion Mr. Bonar Law said the strike negotiations had reached a point where it was impossible to say anything whatever about them, but it was conceivable that a deadlock might arise.

Newspapers of this city continue hopeful, for the most part and express relief at the National Union of Railwaymen's decision to defer calling a strike. Such action, it is understood, will not be taken before Wednesday whatever happens. The Labor conference which was called by the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress will meet on Wednesday, and there are indications that a railway strike, even if eventually called, may be rather halfhearted. Many messages from local branches are said to have been received at the headquarters of the union expressing hostility to the idea of a strike, being accompanied by declarations that many of the men will refuse to obey such a call.

It is said that until a ballot of the workers has been taken the attitude of J. H. Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, will certainly influence a large number of the members.

In a speech delivered Sunday, Mr. Thomas while expressing sympathy for the miners, warned his audience of the dangers of a strike which he said he realized "might lead to the downfall of all of us." He declared he was firm in his determination not to lead such a strike.



CANNOT SUSPEND FREIGHT RATES

Chairman Carvell of Railway Board, Says Application Must Be Made in Usual Way at Ottawa.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—Applications for suspension of the order granting increased freight rates pending the reconsideration of the matter, was made this morning before the Board of Railway Commissioners by H. J. Symington, K.C., representing the interests of Manitoba.

Hon. F. B. Carvell, chairman of the board, refused to grant the suspension at the present time, declaring that the application must be made to Ottawa in the ordinary way.

"It will be some time before a new decision is handed down in the freight rates case, which was referred back to the Board of Railroad Commissioners for re-consideration," Hon. F. B. Carvell stated on his arrival here from the West.

The board has several matters to take up before it comes to the freight rates. These are, it is understood, a hearing on an increase in freight rates on ice cream at Ottawa; the telephone cases submitted by Toronto and Hamilton and to be heard at these points. These cases were on the board's agenda before the freight rates were referred back to the board.

LAURIER MEMORIAL HALL IS SUGGESTED

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—The Citizen this morning says:

"A new proposal that a national memorial hall be erected in Ottawa to the memory of the late Liberal chieftain, Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, one that will house official Liberals in Canada for many years to come, is now being discussed by the party, and may be carried into effect.

"It is proposed that a fine monument be put in Notre Dame Cemetery, where the remains of the late leader were laid. It is thought, however, that when the campaign for funds is organized, and properly carried through there will be enough money to spare to erect in Ottawa the Laurier Memorial Hall."

LEON BOURGEOIS TALKS ON LEAGUE

President Says Article Ten Is Not Considered Vital Element of Covenant—Surprised by U.S. Controversy

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25.—Leon Bourgeois, president of the council of the League of Nations, talking to American newspaper correspondents last night said that Article Ten of the covenant of the League of Nations is not considered by European statesmen as a vital and essential element of the covenant.

M. Bourgeois said he had been surprised that this Article Ten had caused so much emotion in the United States.

He stated that Article Ten could be eliminated without in any way modifying the effectiveness of the League of Nations.

"Article Ten," he said, "is scarcely more than a moral background to the covenant. It is not considered so important by Europeans as by Americans.

"There is really no sanction, or penalty, in this article. All penalties provided for in the covenant in order to make the League's action effective are in other articles."

M. Bourgeois, replying to questions regarding the prospect of revision of the covenant by the general assembly of the League of Nations which meets at Geneva November 15 next, said:

"The council of the League, being guardians of the covenant, are, of course, unable to go before the assembly with a project that alters the covenant. But individual states which are members of the league may, of course, propose such amendments as they see fit."

CANADA HAS STRONG FINANCIAL POSITION

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, who is here today to meet the bond dealers, expressed great optimism as to the financial position of Canada at the present time.

He again emphasized, however, the universal necessity for thrift and economy. To the reported prospective abolition of the Victory bond committees, Sir Henry said that these committees had done good work, and he thought they would probably be continued.

FATAL CLASH OCCURS AT PORT ELIZABETH

PORT ELIZABETH, Cape Colony, Oct. 25.—Fourteen persons were killed and about 30 wounded in a clash between natives and troops and police Saturday, following the arrest of Masalababa, president of the native workers' union.

The fighting began when a crowd tried to rescue Masalababa from the police station. After two or three vain attempts the mob succeeded in entering the station, whereupon the police called for the soldiers, who fired upon and dispersed them.

Among the dead were two Europeans, while several Europeans were wounded.

BOLSHEVIKI ORGAN TALKS OF SUBMARINES

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Isvestia of Moscow comments ironically on the warning to Russia recently by Earl Curzon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, that the British fleet would attack soviet submarines encountered on the high seas.

The newspaper, according to a wireless dispatch from Moscow, declares only one solitary submarine was launched on the Black Sea, when the British fleet was cruising where it had no right to be, providing help to Poland and Wrangel against Russia.

BOMB THROWN INTO SEATTLE RESIDENCE

SEATTLE, Oct. 25.—Explosion of a bomb, thrown through the front window of a house occupied by F. B. Shong, general claims agent here, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, wrecked the lower floor of the two-story residence early today.

Four persons in the house escaped without injury. Police found portions of the bomb near a fire place in the living room.

Mr. Shong was unable to assign any reason for the attack.

CANADIANS LIKE HIGHEST COURT

Viscount Cave States That Judicial Committee Stands Well With Dominion—Sentiment for Empire Is Strong

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Viscount Cave, member of the Privy Council judicial committee, the Empire's appeal tribunal, has just returned to England from a visit to Canada and the United States, where he addressed Canadian and American bar associations. Through The Times it is learned that he comes back deeply impressed by the strong affection which exists in Canada for the Old Country, and by the fervent imperial spirit which prevails in the Dominion. He is also convinced that among responsible and influential American citizens friendly feeling for Great Britain is unswervingly maintained.

Speaking of the place which the judicial committee of the Privy Council has in the legal system of the Dominions, Lord Cave said that in Canada the feeling toward the committee was, on the whole, one of complete approval. The committee is regarded as a link with the Dominions, and the people of Canada are impressed by the fact that it is the right of any part of the Empire which has a grievance to carry that grievance to the foot of the throne. It is exactly on these petitions which the committee pronounces.

Canadians are also impressed by a matter not generally known, the fact that a distinguished Canadian judge constantly sits as a member of the judicial committee and adjudicates not only on appeals from Canada, but on others from every part of the Empire. Canada, therefore, takes its full share in the decisions of the ultimate Imperial tribunal.

In regard to prohibition, Lord Cave would only say that it was a topic of great interest to everybody in Canada, as well as in the United States, and it came into practically every speech he heard during his tour.

The Times editorially says that the Privy Council itself may before long come into the closest political touch with the Dominions, if, as seems probable, care of their relations with this country should be removed from the Colonial Office and placed in charge of the Lord President of the Council. The Times adds:

"Lord Cave does not rate quite high enough the sentiment of opposition to the right of appeal to the judicial committee which prevails, if not in Canada, at least in some of the other Dominions. It is a natural sentiment which, however, we hope will not grow, and if anything is likely to impose upon it a restraint, founded on happy experience, it is the eminence of the British judges who compose the committee."

TO ATTEND MEETING OF LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, Canadian delegates to the assembly of the League of Nations, sail by the Empress of France on November 3. They will be met in England by Hon. N. W. Rowell, who will be the third Canadian delegate. Mr. Rowell has been paying a visit to South Africa.

Canada is entitled to send three delegates to the assembly—which meets in Geneva, Switzerland, the seat of the League, but in common with other state members, has only one vote.

GREAT WAR VETERANS DEFINE POSITION

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.—As an organization the Great War Veterans' Association will take no part in the approaching Provincial election. The organization does not propose to control the individual opinions of its members, but there will be no commitment to the policy of any party by the association as a whole.

This was decided at a meeting of the Provincial executive in the city on Saturday, when the political situation was thoroughly discussed and a recommendation considered from the sub-executive. The recommendation of the sub-executive was adopted, all those in attendance being in accord with the action.

Taking the In Out of Indigestion

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Are Nicely Balanced to Enable You to Eat What You Like Without Distress

Indigestion is about the most universal complaint of mankind. And when the stomach is sour, gassy, bloated-like and you get that peculiar bilious taste in the mouth due to indigestion or dyspepsia there is nothing more relieving than one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Many people are afraid of nearly all the good old savory dishes, the fried eggs, sausage, steak and onions and so on, as they usually experience the peculiar acidity which often follows such food. But Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were designed to supply the stomach with the alkaline effect to offset the acid condition. For this reason many physicians recommend these tablets and you can get them in any drug store at 60 cents a box. (Advt.)

CANADIAN WHISKY CHEAPER IN SPOKANE

SPOKANE, Oct. 25.—So plentiful is the local supply of "high-grade Canadian whisky" that the price has been reduced to $7.50 a quart, or only $2.50 a quart above the "pre-prohibition" price, Captain of Detectives Martin J. Burns declared in a newspaper interview today.

He said that although Canadian whisky is being received here "by the carload," the police are powerless to stop the traffic. "New quotations" on Canadian liquor were said to represent a reduction of $2.50 to $10 per quart from previous prices.

FRUIT IMPORTATION IS BARRED BY JAPAN

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Advices intimate that the Japanese government has placed an embargo on shipments to Japan of apples, pears, marmalades, peaches, apricots and plums, or their containers, from Canada, the United States, Europe, South Africa, Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand and Brazil.

The ban is intended to prevent the import of diseases that affect fruit.

MEETING DEALS WITH EDUCATION

Ministers From Various Provinces and Chief Advisers Hold Conference—Technical Training Is Chief Subject

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—For the first time in the history of Canada, the Ministers of Education of the various Provinces, together with their chief advisers, are meeting in conference here to discuss educational problems. The questions before the conference, which opened this morning, relate more particularly to technical education, and arrangements for the conference were made by the technical education branch of the Department of Labor.

The meetings of the conference are being held in private, but a statement handed to the press today announced that proceedings had been opened by a short address from Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor. The conference then appointed Hon. G. D. Smith, Minister of Education for the Province of Alberta, as chairman, and T. W. Gill, director of technical education, as secretary.

The following subjects relating to technical education are listed on the agenda papers for discussion:

Teacher training; pre-vocational classes and vocational guidance; courses of study; textbooks; conditions for entrance to technical classes; length of school year; length of school day; educational reports, method of preparing; general supply of teachers; and other subjects.

The conference on technical education will be followed immediately by a conference on educational statistics, which has been arranged by the statistics branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce. Under this head the following subjects are listed for consideration:

Statistical year; equation of grading; population of school ages, age, sex and grade tables; schools open table; attendance table; grading, experience and salaries of teachers; teachers in training; secondary schools attendance table; secondary schools table; secondary teachers' table; subjects of secondary education; financial statistics; statistics of special schools.

Following the meeting this morning, the various Provincial delegates attended a luncheon at the Rideau Club. It is expected that the conference will extend over two or three days.

RAILWAY ORDER IS NOTHING NEW

President Hanna Points Out That Employes of Government Roads Are Working Under Established Rule

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—In a statement given out here today, D. B. Hanna, president of the Canadian National Railways, declares that Canadian National Railway employees cannot accept nomination for any political office, and if any should do so they automatically cease to be employees of the road.

In the statement, Mr. Hanna outlines the reasons for this decision, which has aroused a storm of protest on the part of employees of the railway, who claim that such an order deprives them of their political rights.

"Considerable discussion seems to have arisen among certain classes of employees of the Canadian National Railways regarding the attitude of the company toward employees seeking Provincial or Federal parliamentary honors," stated Mr. Hanna. One statement which appears in the newspapers, that something new had been promulgated by the management, is denied.

"The fact is that so far as the old Canadian National lines are concerned the management then in control had a clear understanding that any officer or employee identifying himself with any party and seeking parliamentary honors automatically severed his connection with the company. This rule was strictly observed, and the same practice has been extended under the present board of directors," added Mr. Hanna.

Officials representing railway employees stated today in regard to Mr. Hanna's statement that they would await definite action on the part of the company. The men intend to take no steps for the moment, but will do so immediately word is received that an employee has been dismissed as a result of the company's stand.

President Moore's View

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—"The workers will look to the Government itself for the protection of their rights to take part in government," said Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, in an interview last night regarding the order just issued by the president of the Canadian National Railways forbidding employees of that organization from taking part in politics or holding public office.

Mr. Moore's opinion is that it is drastic, and a development which can not go unchallenged. He stated that, contrary to the assertion of Senator Gideon Robertson, that it was a matter for the Canadian National president, and not the Government to deal with, it was up to the Government to give redress for what he considers a countenancing of the taking away of political rights and the destruction of the principle of democratic government.

The order continues to cause widespread comment in labor circles, and it is more than likely that the question will be brought to Ottawa for action.

PREDICTS INDUSTRIAL TROUBLE IN BRITAIN

PRINCE ALBERT, Oct. 25.—That there is going to be considerable industrial trouble in Great Britain this Winter is the opinion of the Right Rev. J. A. Newnham, Bishop of Saskatchewan, who has just returned from a visit to England and the continent. He says that there is already much distress in the Old Country because of lack of employment, and the feeling of unrest is such that Canadians overseas were glad to get home.

Herodotus, the Greek historian, was by birth a subject of Persia.

Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels, you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing, and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment. VOTES OF CANADIANS IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A Washington special to The World this morning says:

"Democrats count on winning strength in New Hampshire from Canadians who became citizens of the United States and who are interested in seeing the League of Nations adopted. Senator Moses, who opposed the League in the Senate, needs their votes to be re-elected.

"Speeches of Senator Hitchcock are being circulated in New Hampshire in which he points out that the league guarantees independence for Canada from Great Britain. Senator Hitchcock believes this country has overlooked the fact that Canada is given a new place in the world by reason of privileges it won in the fight to form the League of Nations.

"In a speech in the Senate March 8, 1920, Senator Hitchcock said Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have constantly been acquiring greater independence, and that England was compelled to yield to them in the formation of the treaty. "Now," he said, "after these colonies have compelled the Mother Country to grant them this increase of independence, shall it be the United States through this reservation, that will attempt to slam the door in their faces."

Champion Sniper Dies

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Scout-Sergt. Cecil Maurice Carradus, twenty-six years old, a resident of this city, who was reputed to have been the champion Canadian sniper during the war, and was said to have the title of being the best shot out of 400,000 who had passed through the sniping school in England, died on Saturday at the sanitarium at Gravenhurst, Ont., from tuberculosis. He was twice wounded in the war.

POLITICAL CANDIDATES.

The possibility of a plethora of candidates being in the field for the coming Provincial election must be recognized, but the unsatisfactory features of such a situation are probably being exaggerated at the moment. It is desirable under our elective system that a successful candidate should represent a majority of the citizens. In Victoria, for instance, there are four seats, and it may be some sixteen candidates will offer themselves for election. The vote, under such circumstances, will necessarily be divided, and one or two, or even all the four successful candidates, may be elected without any one of them having secured a majority of the votes cast. For different reasons this would be an undesirable outcome. The Government, by its legislation of last session, has removed the necessity of a deposit being put up by candidates, a proceeding which throws the political field more open than ever before. On the other hand the brief time elapsing between now and nomination day will have a tendency to prevent many from being candidates, who, if the period were more prolonged, might have been willing to seek election.

In all political campaigns there are expenses involved on behalf of any candidate who seeks office. Propaganda work is considered necessary, halls have to be engaged for platform purposes, assistants have to be paid for doing the clerical work and for acting in a candidate's interest on polling day, either as scrutineers or in getting out the vote. It is these expenses which will be the obstacle to free lance candidates entering the field. The overwhelming objection we see to a multiplicity of candidates is the possibility that those successful will not represent majority sentiment in the Province. Whatever happens there are few who consider it desirable that there should be group Government necessary in British Columbia. Group government means a compromise administration which in its very make up carries the hall mark of vacillation.

UNIVERSITY EDUCATION

Sir Arthur Currie's speech before the Canadian Club yesterday on behalf of an endowment fund for McGill University gave an excellent insight into the capabilities which he has brought to bear upon his new career. The traditions of McGill are in safe keeping in his hands. His conception of what university training should, and does, so often mean is of particular value in this community because our Provincial University is in its formative period. The advice given by Sir Arthur can be laid to heart by those who are responsible for the educational movement in British Columbia, namely, that "What we need most of all is men (and women) of character. The university is more concerned in turning out men of character than in turning out a greater number of doctors, lawyers and engineers."

A particularly apposite part of his speech was that in which he deplored the fact that politics are so much avoided by the educated men of the country. In large measure this statement cannot be disputed, and the reason that only a comparatively small number of highly educated men are found in politics is undoubtedly due to the character of the criticism which is levelled at politicians, criticism to which the sensitive will not subject themselves voluntarily. Sir Arthur says, and rightly, that criticism of our public men should be "just, temperate and moderate," and we would add that it should be based on absolute facts and not on individual interpretation of motives and happenings. Here and elsewhere throughout the country irresponsible criticism of public men is rife. The moment a man is elected to public office he becomes the target for abuse, a practice which is a strange commentary on both our common sense and level-headedness.

What we consider the outstanding feature of Sir Arthur's address is that wherein he dwelt on the spiritual side of university life. This is what is being lost sight of amid the clamor for technical education and instruction along specific lines that will lead to material betterment. In this connection it is sufficient to give Sir Arthur's views, which we believe are incontrovertible. He says: "Nationality expresses itself spiritually, or in terms of the ideal. The spiritual must never be lost sight of by the university, as it was from the spiritual, the ideal, that the university was born. The universities were formerly children of the Christian Church."

THE HELLENIC THRONE

The death of King Alexander of Greece opens up a political problem in that country, the solution of which may well exercise a far reaching influence on Balkan affairs. The late King did not succeed, but was appointed to the throne on the deposition of his father, King Constantine, an event brought about by influence exerted by France, Britain and Russia because of the pro-German sympathies of the latter during the Great War. The causes which led to the retirement of King Constantine to Switzerland, including the visit to Athens of M. Jonnart, representing the Protecting Powers of Greece, are now all matters of history. Under King Alexander, and very largely through the influence exerted by Premier Venizelos, Greece participated in the war on the side of the Allies. For several years past the present Premier has been the mainspring of action in that country, and while there is a small but powerful group still anxious to restore King Constantine to the throne this procedure will not be permitted by the Protecting Powers, and it is doubtful if it would be tolerated by the people of Greece themselves.

So far as the public are aware no decision has been reached as to who will be King Alexander's successor. Among others Prince Arthur of Connaught has been spoken of as the new King, though the possibility exists that Greece may become a republic. Within recent years the prerogatives of the Crown in that country have been defined more precisely and the democratic character of the Greek monarchy rendered clearer. Britain and France are keenly concerned in the present political problem, though the former will be averse to any British Prince accepting the throne, the likely appointee being the third son of King Constantine. Whatever measure may be adopted, either that of appointing a successor to King Alexander or holding a plebiscite in the country on the question of a republic gives promise of the stabilizing influence which Greece now exerts in Balkan affairs being increased and being proportionately beneficial to the peace of the Near East.

AGAINST IMPORTATION.

Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Nova Scotia have voted for what is known as "bone dry" Prohibition by registering decisions against the importation of liquor for private consumption. It will rest with the Governments of these Provinces to say if liquor within their jurisdiction shall also be rendered unobtainable for medicinal purposes. It has been generally conceded, for some time past, that the Prohibitionists would win victories in these Provinces, and dispatches intimated the majorities on their behalf would range from 30,000 to 60,000. The majorities have not been nearly so large as anticipated, and the interest in the vote has been apathetic, for it is apparent a much smaller percentage of the electorate affected went to the polls than was the case in British Columbia during the recent plebiscite. It may even be questioned if the ballots cast in favor of a "bone dry" law constitute over twenty per cent of the total votes registered in the various Provinces affected.

No surprise will be occasioned by the decisions of these Provinces. It could hardly have been expected, for instance, that the sentiment in British Columbia, as shown at the polls last week would exercise any influence on the results in the Prairie or Nova Scotia. So far as the three Prairie Provinces are concerned, some of the elements of the population there differ from those which make up British Columbia, and it is not unreasonable to believe they think differently, at this stage, on such a question as Prohibition. The issue there and here was not the same, and those who fought against a "bone dry" law in yesterday's vote, for some reason, do not appear to have been particularly active. Whatever were the causes that inspired the decision of the Prairie and Maritime voters they are only of academic interest in this Province inasmuch as the same question was not at issue as that decided in British Columbia last week.

DISABLED VETERANS AND VOTE

The Attorney-General would be well advised to meet the claim being put forward that patients in military hospitals in the Province, who are so incapacitated that they cannot go to the polls, should be given facilities for voting in the coming Provincial election. The fact that such patients could not exercise their franchise in the recent plebiscite was first given publicity in a letter from one of them to this newspaper. The Veterans of France have taken up the question and ask the Attorney-General to have polling stations at both Craigdarroch and Esquimalt Hospitals. What the law may be in this respect we do not know, but a method can be devised whereby these patients should be permitted to vote. Great care was exercised in securing their names on the voters' list, and the same anxiety to see them cast their ballots should be evinced. It is not a question of party, or convenience, or diplomacy, or of anything else, but a matter of right that those who were incapacitated in the service of their country should be given the facility of having a voice in government through the use of the ballot. The greatest surprise will be expressed on every side at the knowledge that these patients were not permitted to vote on the plebiscite. The error of judgment shown in this instance can hardly be repeated by the Attorney-General.

The Voters' List

Sir,—In my letter of the 19th inst. re the above, I said that male residents who had attained the age of sixty (60) were entitled to be placed on the voters' list.

I find I didn't correctly interpret the "act." I should have said that all residents, both male and female, who have attained the age of sixty (60) are entitled to have their names placed on the municipal voters' list (free of charge) provided they apply to the City Clerk not later than the 31st of October.

Government Control

Sir,—A mandate has been given to whatever party may be in power after the general election to form a sound, just and equable liquor bill.

That Government Control will be one of the planks of every platform goes without saying, so that suggestions ought to be in order. Firstly, the Government ought to have complete control over all imports, export and manufacture of spirits, wine and beer, otherwise the whole object of Government Control falls. Having got this control the rest ought to be easy, and the mere handling of the liquor might be done as follows:

A licence of say $5 per head per annum with the following restrictions—all under the age of 21; not more than one in one family residing in the same house; habitual drunkards; the licence to be issued on the war ration system; so much per month; each ticket to expire at the end of month, that is, the unexpired tickets out of date to be cancelled automatically. Trading or transferring a licence or tickets a crime, followed by cancellation; the licence to have signature and the vendor a book to be signed by licence holder; treating a crime; bars and saloons, etc., open at 10 a. m., and close at 6 p.m.; shut all day Sunday; no alcohol to be sold anywhere except by Government vender in sealed bottles. Drunkenness: first offence fine; second cancellation of licence and fine; third imprisonment without the option of a fine.

The foregoing are merely suggestions, drastic perhaps, but bad diseases require drastic remedies.

MR. JUSTICE MORRISON DECIDES VEXED ISSUE

Judge Martin, of Appeal Court, Must Become Defendant in Suit as to Mortgaged Property in Victoria

In Supreme Court Chambers yesterday Mr. Justice Morrison handed down a written decision in the application recently heard by him in Chambers as to priority of action in the pending suits of Martin vs. Finlayson, and Finlayson vs. Martin. Much public interest has been evinced in this litigation, which, although it has not yet come to trial, has provided material for learned legal argument in Chambers. The learned judge has decided that the suit, in which Mr. Justice Martin, of the Court of Appeal, is made the defendant, shall have right of way in the Supreme Court. The judgment is as follows:

Two applications have come on to be heard before me at the same time, to stay one or other of the above actions.

Mr. White, solocitor for the plaintiff in Martin vs. Finlayson, before I have given my decision, has asked me for reasons for any judgment which I might hand down in contemplation of an appeal. I at first was disposed to refuse giving any such undertaking, as I could not recognize in the material before me any new point of practice nor any question requiring the re-annunciation of any principle of law. However, under the particular circumstances of this case, I accede to his request.

These applications, although made in cross actions, savor in their nature of one for consolidation of the two suits. However that may be, it is necessary to be satisfied of the true character of the main substantial claim arising from the dealings between the parties. Nothing is clearer than what was brought about by the passing of the Judicature Act, 1873, namely, that the Courts are empowered fully to grant all such remedies as the parties to a suit may appear entiled to in respect of any legal or equitable claim to the end that all matters in controversy may be completely determined without dilatoriness and without undue expense and multiplicity of proceedings concerning any such matters avoided where there are cross actions as here.

The Court therefore looks for a main cause of action or dispute; looks to see if the one arises incidentally out of the other or not. If so, then I would think that that one could be more conveniently and fairly disposed of along with the one in which the main dispute arises. In a foreclosure action, the result of which may lead to alienation of property, the plaintiff must prove his case conclusively, and in so doing anything in the nature of a defence can be raised in answer. To ascertain whether that is the situation here, a brief recitation of the alleged facts set out in the respective statements of claim is necessary.

Mortgagor Is Judge

The mortgagee, Miss Sarah Susette Finlayson, in her statement of claim, alleges that in 1899 the Honorable Mr. Justice Martin, one of the parties herein, mortgaged to Sarah Finlayson, Arthur William Jones, Roderick David Finlayson and herself jointly, certain properties in the City of Victoria, for $7,000, repayable in 1902. In 1907 there was an assignment of this mortgage to Roderick David Finlayson by the surviving mortgagees, Sarah Finlayson having died in 1906. In 1916 Roderick David Finlayson died, having by his last will devised this mortgage to his wife, Lilias Mary Finlayson, who remarried in 1919 a Mr. Brooks. In May, 1920, she in turn assigned it to Sarah Susette Finlayson aforesaid.

In 1904 there was $3,000 paid by the mortgagor in reduction; since then there has been default in payments. In 1912 a further mortgage was given by the mortgagor herein to Sarah Susette Finlayson on the same property for $2,000, and there has been default in payment of principal and interest thereon. Again in 1913 the sum of $6,000 was borrowed from Roderick David Finlayson on this same property, to be repaid in 1916. This mortgage was also bequeathed by him to his wife, Lilias Mary Finlayson; she assigned it to the said Sarah Susette Finlayson. Default has also been made in the payments thereon. In March, 1914, the sum of $14,000 was borrowed from Hannah Watts Jones on the security of other Victoria property. This sum was to be repaid in 1916. This mortgage was assigned the 27th May, 1920, to Sarah Susette Finlayson. There is default also in respect of this mortgage.

Foreclosure Threatened

On the 25th March, 1914, a further sum of $5,000 was borrowed from Sarah Susete Finlayson on adjoining property, to be repaid in 1916. Default has occurred in payment of this one. Then the mortgagee in her action makes the usual formal claim for an accounting and judgment, and also for consolidation of the above mortgages.

The mortgagor, on the other hand, in his action, which was commenced on the 27th of August, 1920 (the mortgagee's action having been commenced on the 30th of the same month), alleges that the said Sarah Susette Finlayson called in and demanded payment of the first mortgage on the property known as The Homestead, and threatened to foreclose. Whereupon the mortgagor began negotiations with a view to pay off this particular mortgage, leaving the others as they were.

It is also further alleged that the mortgagee refuses to allow him to redeem the said mortgage unless he redeems the other overdue ones. And then it is alleged that after the above demand was made, the said Sarah Susette Finlayson, mala fide and pursuant to a fraudulent scheme, prevented the mortgagor from paying off this mortgage by means of the several assignments aforesaid from Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Jones.

It is also claimed that in consequence of this alleged wrongful refusal to allow redemption without also redeeming the other mortgages, it is impossible for the mortgagor to raise a further loan. He therefore claims to redeem the mortgage on his homestead freed from all the other mortgages aforesaid and to have the same reconveyed to him; that there is no right to consolidate, and he seeks a declaration that the assignments are part of a fraudulent scheme, and are null and void as against his equitable rights of redemption.

Question of Priority

On this application the parties support their respective submissions by affidavits, Mr. Jackson, solicitor for Miss Finlayson, having been fully cross-examined on his.

On this material, the substance of which I have set out above, the mortgagor claims his suit should be heard first, and that the suit in which the mortgagee is pursuing her remedies under the various mortgages should be postponed pending the trial and determination of the allegation of fraud thus set up and of the question of the mortgagee's right to consolidate her mortgages. Against so doing there is a strong current of authority.

In my opinion there can be no question that the claim put forward by the mortgagor arises out of the substantial claim of the mortgagee for foreclosure, and particularly where there is no perplexing differences as to parties or subject matter, it occurs to me that the question raised in the mortgagor's action can be advanced as a defence to the mortgagee's action when the time arises to file a defence, and thus all the maters in dispute between the parties herein will be disposed of effectively in the mortgagee's action. Thomson vs. South Eastern Railway Co. (1882), 9 Q.B.D., p. 320; Miller vs. Confederation Life Association, 11 Ontario Pr.; Rep. 241.

The action, Martin vs. Finlayson, therefore will be stayed pending the determination of the issues in the other action herein.

(Signed) AULEY MORRISON, J.
Victoria, B.C., 25th October, 1920.

CAMPAIGNERS KEEP TRADITIONS ALIVE

British Campaigners Will Commemorate Retreat From Mons With a Dinner on Armistice Night

Arrangements are well under way for the coming dinner which the British Campaigners will hold on the night of November 11, at the Douglas Hotel, in commemoration of the great feat of the "Contemptible Little Army" in the retreat from Mons in 1914. It has been the custom of the British Campaigners' Association since the organization was formed when the soldiers returned from the South African campaign with a membership, including the veterans of the Empire's wars from the Crimea down to date—there are several who wear the ribbons of the Crimean campaign, others who served in the Indian mutiny and various other campaigns—to commemorate campaigns or battles of the Empire's army. Thus the traditions are kept alive. Previous dinners have celebrated the Crimean battles—Inkerman, Alma, Sebastapol—also the Egyptian and other campaigns, and this year the great event of the British army—the retreat from Mons—will be celebrated.

It is anticipted that one of the officers who took part in the retreat will be present to make the speech of the evening in dealing with that battle.

The ticket committee is composed of Captain Lincoln Smith and Mr. W. C. Warren, and they are busily engaged in making preparations to cope with the demand for seats. Admission is not restricted to members, and it is anticipated that there will be a good turn out of the general public of Victoria, particularly those who remember the dinners held prior to the European war, which were events of the season each year.

DOGWOOD IN BLOOM

Practical Reason for Name Given to Well-Known Tree Cornus

The much-abused weather has been the topic of conversation for some considerable time, including many prophecies for the coming months, and numerous lamentations on the past season, and amongst the other extraordinary evidences of the present late Autumn is the flowering of Dogwood (Cornus), which usually makes its appearance in the Spring, and is to be seen at present on the Malahat Drive, near Goldstream. Another phenomenon is the still-blooming broom on certain parts of Beacon Hill.

In the Spring months the hardy ornamental Dogwood is at its best growing throughout British Columbia, and as far South as California. The name by which it is commonly called "Dogwood" has often caused considerable reflection: Why is it so named? One might answer that no doubt it possesses a peculiar bark, but, according to the authority, L. H. Bailey, "the name Dogwood comes from the fact that a decoction of the bark of Cornus sanguine was used in England to wash mangy dogs."

Less than fifty copies of the New England primer survive of the 2,000,000 copies printed.

CONTINUE SERVICES OF ANNIVERSARY

Special Musical Features Marked Religious Exercises at Centennial Methodist Church on Sunday

On Sunday, at the Centennial Methodist Church, the anniversary services were continued, when Rev. James Sharpe, late of Nova Scotia, preached in the morning. In the evening a musical service was given by the choir, when Mendelssohn's oratorio, the "Forty-Second Psalm," was very beautifully rendered, Miss Bell taking the soprano solos, and the quartette was composed of Messrs. Alfred Adams, Morell, Pattison and Sedgman. Mr. Edgar Adams was at the organ, Mrs. George W. Deaville the pianist, and the choirleader of the church, Mr. G. W. Deaville, was the conductor.

The Rev. J. L. Batty being absent through sickness, Mr. G. E. Grist took charge of the service. He gave a brief address on the Psalm, and also made suitable reference to the composer of the music. The final chorus, as well as the other part of the oratorio, was remarkably well sustained.

SAANICH POLICE TO HOLD BIG FUNCTION

Ball in Saanichton Hall Tomorrow Night—Many Tickets Sold—Under Auspices of Commissioners and Council.

Plans have been completed for the first annual ball of the Saanich Police Department to be held tomorrow night in the Saanichton Hall. Chief Peter Brogan reports that practically all the tickets for the occasion have been sold and the event gives promise of being a huge success. Those in charge are particularly anxious to impress the fact that dress is optional.

Arrangements have been made for a late car into the city from Saanichton over the Interurban line.

The ladies of the district are cooperating to make the ball a big success. The proceeds are to be devoted to providing boots and a Christmas treat for the needy children of the district. Provisions will be provided during the evening and card tables will be available for non-dancers.

Dancing will commence at nine o'clock and will conclude at one o'clock.

The Saanichton Hall is being beautifully decorated for the occasion and the floor will be in its usual fine shape.

Tomorrow's ball is being held under the auspices of the Police Commissioners and the Municipal Council. At the last meeting of the Saanich Council Reeve George Watson impressed upon the councillors the fact that they were assured of a good time on Wednesday night.

Motors Collide—In a collision at the corner of Douglas and Yates Streets yesterday morning the motor cars driven respectively by Mr. E. B. Glass and Mr. H. Warner were slightly damaged, but neither driver was injured.

Will Arrange Supper—The local Prohibitionists intend holding a supper next Friday evening for their workers and supporters. All arrangements are in the hands of a strong committee, and the time and place will be announced later.

Christmas Boxes — The Ladies' Guild of the Victoria Seamen's Institute will meet on Wednesday afternoon next at the Connaught Seamen's Institute to commence the packing of the Christmas boxes for the lighthouses. Time, 2:30 o'clock.

Esquimalt Road Paving—The City Council yesterday formally passed a motion, agreeing that the city pay 50 per cent of the cost of paving Esquimalt Road, according to City Enginee F. M. Preston's report, provided that the Government pay 50 per cent also.

Civil Service Annual—The annual meeting of the Victoria Branch of the Provincial Civil Service Association will be held next Monday night in the Victoria Ladies' Club, sixth floor, Campbell Building, commencing at 8 o'clock. The chief business will be consideration of the annual reports, amendments to constitution, and election of officers.

Chinese Premises Looted—Choy Tuck Soon, 714 Fisgard Street, reported to the police yesterday that some time during the morning his premises were broken into, the rear door being forced, and trunks, etc., ransacked. Cash amounting to $93.50 and a gold watch were stolen.

Lecture on Japan—Those interested in missionary work will be glad to learn that Mr. E. B. Craig, from Japan, is in the city, on his way to Los Angeles and will speak on Japan and the gospel in that land, this evening at 8 o'clock, at the Douglas Street Gospel Hall, 2647 Douglas Street.

Boy Scouts' Annual Meeting—The annual meeting of the Victoria Boy Scouts' Association will be held in the I.O.D.E. rooms, Jones Building, on Wednesday, October 27, at 8 p.m. The election of officers will take place, and it is hoped that everybody who has the welfare of the boys of Victoria at heart, and especially those interested in the Boy Scouts, will attend.

Minister to Speak—Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, will be the speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon in the Dominion Hotel today. The programme is in the hands of Dr. P. Vye. He will be the last member to take charge of a luncheon under the alphabetical system which has been in vogue for some time past, and he promises "oceans of orchestral and vocal music."

Could Not Vote—That the bed-ridden patients of the military hospitals were disfranchised through lack of voting facilities last week is a condition that the Veterans of France are bringing to the notice of the Attorney-General, with the suggestion that at the December elections polling stations be at such institutions or that a returning officer call and collect the ballots, if lawful.

Accused Fails to Appear—Harry Woolley, bartender of the Manitoba Bar, who was charged in connection with the recent police raid on that place, by means of which two convictions of unlawful sale of liquor were obtained, was again called on remand in the City Police court yesterday, but failed to respond. Magistrate Jay ordered that a summons should be served.

Saanich Central Ratepayers — A meeting at which it is hoped there will be a large attendance of delegates, will be held at Tolmie School on Friday at eight o'clock, to organize and elect officers for the Saanich Central Ratepayers' Association. The subject of the proposed water works by-law to be submitted by the electors next January will be discussed.

Vagrancy Charge Dismissed—The charge of vagrancy against John B. Amherst was dismissed by Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court yesterday. Chief of Police Langley told the court that certain Vancouver people interested in other charges against the accused had shown themselves unwilling to bring witnesses to Victoria, and under those circumstances he would ask that the charge of vagrancy be dismissed.

Conviction Under Indian Act—Gus Morris, an Indian, was fined $25 by Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court yesterday on a conviction of having liquor, contrary to the provisions of the Indian Act. The defendant admitted drunkenness and indicated that that condition was so complete that he could not know whether or not he was found with the liquor in question, a bottle of Chinese whisky.

Good music will be provided and decorations appropriate to the mystic festival will enhance the pleasure of patrons. Mrs. Simpson will continue her dancing classes at her new quarters.

Concert and Pageant—Tonight at 8 o'clock the First Presbyterian Sunday School will hold an entertainment in the Schoolroom of the Church. A number of scholars will take part in the pageant, which will be most interesting, and the following will assist in the programme: Misses Evelyn Buckler and C. Hamilton, Stafford and May Braugan, Messrs. J. Petrie, J. Walker, M. Thomas, S. L. Saunders, R. Hardy, J. Buckler, Tupman.

Liquor Cases Remanded — Two charges of unlawfully having liquor for sale came up in the City Police court yesterday. Frank Turner, of the Panama Bar, pleaded not guilty to the charge arising out of Police-Sergeant Blackstock's recent raid on that place; and was remanded until next Friday. Henry Fortin, of the Carlton Hotel, pleaded not guilty to a similar charge, and was remanded to the same date. Mr. J. Aikman will appear for both defendants.

Unique Collection—A uniqie collection of Oriental china gathered by an American bishop in China during thirty-five years' residence in one of the missionary dioceses there, will be shown in Carter's Oriental Store, Fort Street, under the auspices of the Island Arts and Crafts Club shortly after the closing of their present annual exhibition. Some of the pieces in this interesting collection are unlike anything that has ever been seen in collections brought to this country heretofore, and the opportunity to see such rare examples of the Chinese potter's art should not be lost by any who are interested in china.

1. No person shall import, send, take or import into the province any intoxicating liquor.

2. No person shall, either directly or indirectly, manufacture or sell, or contract or agree to manufacture or sell, any intoxicating liquor to be unlawfully imported, sent, taken or transported into the province.

3. The carriage or transportation of intoxicating liquor through the province shall only be by means of a common carrier by water or by railway and not otherwise, and during the time any intoxicating liquor is being so transported or carried no person shall open or break, or allow to be opened or broken, any package or vessel containing any such intoxicating liquor, or drink or use, or allow to be drunk or used, any intoxicating liquor therefrom.

For a first offence a penalty is provided of not less than $200 and not more than $1,000, or imprisonment in default of not less than three months and not more than six months. For each subsequent offence the penalty is imprisonment for not less than six and not more than twelve months. Exception is made in the case of liquor intended for sacramental or medicinal purposes or for manufacturing or commercial purposes other than manufacture or use as a beverage.

Today's dry vote will close any avenue of liquor traffic which opened when the prohibition order-in-council was rescinded last December.

The order-in-council was a war measure, and passed under the terms of the War Measures Act. It prohibited both manufacture and importation of intoxicating liquor. With the termination of the order-in-council, however, a resident in dry territory could import for his own personal use, but not for sale. When the new order-in-council is passed all importation into the bone dry provinces will be prohibited. Today's plebiscites were the first to be taken under the legislation of last year.

Calgary's Vote

CALGARY, Oct. 25.—Calgary city polls voted dry by 1,100 majority today. There are 321 polls in the city limits in both ridings, of East and West Calgary. In East Calgary, where the majority of the labor vote resides, the vote was about even, there being a dry majority of about 100. In West Calgary the dry majority was more than 1,000.

The new election act system of registration resulted in a hopeless mess here during the early hours of voting. Many of the voters who appeared at the polls where they have voted for years found their names on lists in other quarters of the city, husbands and wives were separated into different polling divisions and almost a panic resulted this morning before things began to get straightened out. Many persons spent hours hunting for their proper polling places. Hundreds of votes were lost in this way. Out of 17,000 who registered here in the city less than half voted.

PEACE TYPE AEROPLANE

Most of the aeroplanes hitherto used for commercial purposes have been converted from models designed for bombing work during the war. British designers have, however, realized that better results could be obtained by designing the whole aeroplane afresh for its particular work of carrying passengers and goods. One of the first of the true peace type of aeroplane has lately been put in service on the London to Paris and London to Amsterdam routes. This machine is able to carry eight passengers (in addition to the pilot) and up to 500 lbs. of luggage. Alternatively, for goods transport only, it can carry a load of 2,240 lbs. The speed at 5,000 feet up is 121 miles per hour. Calculations show that this aeroplane can convey a load almost as cheaply as the average cost of transport by road. The seats are comfortably upholstered, and large windows are provided to give the passengers a good view of the country over which they are travelling.

ITALIAN BALLOON LANDS IN MICHIGAN

MOUNT CLEMONS, Mich., Oct. 25.—The balloon Triumphale VI., Italian entry in the international contest for the Bennett trophy, landed here this morning. The big ship, piloted by Major H. Madori, left Birmingham, Ala., at 4:30 Saturday afternoon.

For the greater part of the journey north the trip was made at an altitude of 13,000 feet and part of the time through a severe storm with a temperature at two below zero.

The course took the big bag through Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio and into Michigan. Lake St. Clair was sighted, and with only one ton of ballast left, the crew decided to land, bringing the ship to earth inside the city limits here.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY,

(From The British Colonist of October 26, 1870.)

Council Meeting—At a meeting of the City Council on Tuesday, a letter was read from the Spring Ridge Water Company asking for permission to excavate on Yates Street for the purpose of repairing a valve, and another from John Weller, complaining of a stagnant pool in front of his store on Fort Street.

Can't Get a Candidate—Poor Dufferin has opened the town, but can't get a single man to come out on the "No Terminus, No Confederation" platform. Extraordinary baits, such, for instance, as the weighty influence of The Standard, have been offered, but like fish won't bite. Therefore, as the mountain won't come to Mohamet, Mohamet must go to the mountain, and the Great I Am, as will be seen elsewhere in these columns, has abandoned the terminus most ingloriously.

Conquered France—A late London letter says: The Prussian organization of the conquered portion of France has gone on methodically. German railway officials are stationed on all the roads. Eight hundred German telegraph operators have charge of the wires from the Rhine to Paris. All the postal arrangements look like a permanent occupation. A new army of 150,000 men, with a heavy siege train, is moving rapidly on the beleaguered capital. This will raise the German forces in France to nearly nine hundred thousand. With characteristic economy and equity characteristic disregard for military usages, the German papers are now proposing to employ their prisoners of war like convicts, on the public works.

LATE ARCHDEACON H. STUCK

Famous pioneer Alaskan missionary who died recently in the North following a stroke of paralysis. The remains were interred on October 11 in a humble Indian cemetery at Fort Yukon beside many of the natives among whom he had spent his life. He was buried there at his own request. The services of the Episcopal Church were read. The pallbearers were members of the native council who bore the body a quarter of a mile to the grave. The picture is from a photograph in the possession of Mr. L. D. McLean, of this city, who met the late archdeacon in the wilds of the Far North some years ago and who speaks very highly of his late friend.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED WHEN GUN DISCHARGES

Leo Oswald Sundin, Aged Sixteen, Meets Death While Out Hunting With Brother at Prospect Lake on Sunday.

Through the accidental discharge of a shot gun he was carrying, Leo Oswald Sundin, aged sixteen years, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. Sundin, Prospect Lake, was almost instantly killed on Sunday afternoon not far from his home, when his shot gun was discharged, the charge entering his forehead.

What caused the gun to be discharged is not definitely known, but it was after the lad with his younger brother Ralph, having walked to the head of the lake, had decided to return home and the elder had asked the other to adjust the suspenders of his overalls in the rear, where they were held by a safety-pin. The younger lad handed his brother the 22-cal. rifle he was carrying while he complied with the request. Leo was carrying a double-barreled shot gun.

According to the story told by Ralph, he was adjusting the suspenders of his brother when he heard an explosion and his brother fell, shot through the forehead. Ralph screamed out, his cries being heard by Messrs. J. L. Hackett and W. S. Henderson, who were spending the day at the former's Summer cottage on the shores of the Lake. They ran to the injured lad and quickly saw he was beyond aid. The Saanich police were notified, Constable Rankin taking charge of the body and reporting the case to Coroner Hart. The body was brought into the city to the undertaking establishment of the B. C. Funeral Company.

Investigation by Constable Rankin showed that the right barrel of the shot gun had been discharged, the hammer being down. In the left barrel was an undischarged shell, the left hammer also being down.

Mr. Sundin, father of the victim, is a veteran of the great war, having gone overseas as piper with the 158th Battalion in June, 1916. He was discharged in April, 1917. Much sympathy is being expressed by residents of the district with Mr. and Mrs. Sundin in their sudden bereavement.

Coroner Hart held an inquiry yesterday, but no formal inquest was deemed necessary. The funeral will be held today at 2 o'clock from the B. C. Funeral Chapel, where services will be held. Interment will be made at Ross Bay cemetery.

Close to the pit-head of many coal mines there lie huge "tips" of small coal. Wen coal of good quality was cheap these tips were looked upon as waste, because the heating value of the stuff was so small that no one would pay enough to cover the carriage. The huge increase in the cost of coal has, however turned attention to the economic possibilities of these heaps of low-grade fuel. A large company has been formed to acquire the heaps and to transform the coal dust into briquettes of a form and composition suitable for domestic and industrial purposes.

CAR FARE PACT IS APPROVED BY CITY

Council Does Not Amend the Agreement as Submitted by Solicitor—To Start on By-Law Immediately

Suddenly speeding up the car fare negotiations, the City Council last night put the agreement with the British Columbia Electric Railway through its first, second and third readings, and it will be finally passed at the next session.

By the time the agreement is finally ratified, it is expected that a by-law will be prepared, covering the terms of the agreement. As soon as this is passed by the Council, the B. C. Electric will be able to put the new provisions into effect, and the company will probably act at the first opportunity.

The Legislative Committee was in conference with the legal representative of the B. C. Electric for some time yesterday afternoon and was again in session before the Council meeting last night. The clause referring to children's tickets, which will be sold at ten for twenty-five cents, was not agreed upon and inserted until 8 o'clock. Previously the company had held out for thirty cents as the charge. City Solicitor Pringle was at work on the agreement all day.

Briefly, the agreement provides as follows: The company puts into effect a six cent fare with transfer privileges, and a seven cent lighting rate. The agreement does not stipulate charges on car lines running outside the city limits, but this will be covered in a letter from the company, as the question is outside the jurisdiction of the city and, therefore, has no place in the agreement. The company also agrees to maintain the roadbed between the rails and eight inches on either side of the rails, with special provisions satisfactory to the city.

The city agrees to eliminate jitney traffic on all routes at present served by the street car lines.

Special fare rates are provided for children. Infants in arms will travel free. Children under twelve years will be charged at the rate of two children for one regular fare. Children attending schools will be charged twenty-five cents for ten tickets good during the period from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Ald. Fullerton was the only member of the Council to offer criticism, but he was pounced upon by several of his colleagues. He said that the city should get the same lighting rates as private consumers.

"Why didn't you bring this up before?" demanded Ald. Sangster.

"I didn't think of it."

"You're just killing time," declared Ald. Patrick. "You knew the committee was working on the agreement. Why didn't you bring it up then?"

Ald. Fullerton, long a champion of the jitneys, said he objected to the disparaging remarks of the aldermen, and said he ought to have a right to express his opinions.

Mayor Porter said the city was getting power from the B. C. Electric at a rate cheaper than it could produce at itself. "That's the reason we dispensed with our own plant," he said.

"I am pleased to see that a reasonable rate has been set for school children," the Mayor went on. "Many children have had to walk on account of the high charge."

"That was settled an hour ago," said Ald. Patrick, chairman of the Legislative Council. "We fought to the last ditch for it."

BOARD READY FOR WHIRLWIND DRIVE

Officials of Canadian City Bureau on Ground, Mapping Out Membership Campaign Commencing Monday

The Board of Trade's drive for membership will be set in motion when the council holds a special meeting tomorrow morning at 10:30 to discuss with officials of the Canadian City Bureau details of the campaign.

Representatives of the Canadian City Bureau, who are to supervise the effort, are already in Victoria and are prepared to launch a whirlwind drive within a few days. Monday has been set as the first day of the campaign, which will last about four months.

Mr. F. M. Letteney, office manager of the bureau, which has its head offices in Toronto, arrived in the city yesterday and he outlined the results that have been obtained in other cities. In Brantford, Sarnia, London, Guelph, and Winnipeg, the Bureau has done very fine work, and at present a campaign is being carried on in Medicine Hat. In these cities, Mr. Letteney said, the Bureau has been very successful in reorganizing the Boards of Trade and instilling into the communities a spirit of progress. He stated that one of the great objects of the work was to preach the spirit of enterprise—of reaching up to a higher plane, to get at the community spirit; and to work for the city's industrial growth.

Mr. Crosbie, of Toronto, the campaign manager, will be in Victoria in a day or two, and a publicity man also is coming. Offices will be secured at a central location as soon as possible and big results are expected as a result of the campaign. Mr. Letteney was confident, in view of the work that has been done by the Bureau in other cities, that its services will be of great benefit to Victoria, as he said that live, up-to-date men, working together for the best interests of the community, can achieve wonders. Part of the work consists in trying to band together men and women to make the best of the city, and as the campaign will be a most energetic one, and carefully planned, it is hoped to show that Victoria has plenty of the right spirit that will enable her to advance in growth and prosperity.

MISS BETTY BRAINERD IS SENT TO PRISON

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Miss Betty Brainerd, a newspaper woman, of Tacoma, Wash., charged with having kidnapped Baby Stagg, who was recently restored to his mother in Tacoma, today was committed to city prison for thirty days pending hearing on extradition proceedings. Governor Smith will hear the extradition proceedings Wednesday.

Miss Brainerd was out on $1,500 bail since her arrest two weeks ago, but was committed to prison on motion of an assistant district attorney, who said that when extradition was pending such action was warranted.

COAL RESEARCH

The economical use of coal is a problem which concerns engineers in all parts of the world. It is especially interesting in connection with the "carbonization" of coal at temperatures in order to obtain smokeless fuel, gas, oil and numerous valuable by-products. This problem involves a close scientific study of exactly what happens to different kinds of coal at various temperatures. Mr. Simkinson, of the Imperial College of Science, London, has hit upon a most ingenious method of discovering at what temperature coal begins to change into coke. He makes use of the fact that coke conducts electricity, while coal does not. By measuring the electrical resistance of a sample of coal as it is gradually heated, he has fixed the temperatures at which various coals enter into the critical stage at which they give off their valuable products.

The Marriage of Anne

(By May Christie)

XLII.—REALIZATION

I must have walked for hours and hours before I realized the time, or place, or anything. I was numb with pain and disappointment.

And then I noticed that I was far uptown.

I wasn't conscious of cold, or tiredness. Only of a great heartache that never could be healed.

Fred—my Fred—had failed me, under the cruelest circumstances. And there was no one I could turn to.

I had—quite literally—"burned my boats." There could be no going back to the old life for me.

Hours later I found myself at the railway station, dully watching the crowds that ebbed to and fro. How bright and carefree they looked tonight, these people! If they only knew my plight!

At last I pulled myself together. I went into the waiting-room, found a secluded corner and seated myself.

Then I dragged out my purse. I counted its contents. It only contained a couple of dollars.

But that was enough for bed and breakfast at a cheap hotel. So I went to a part of the city where hotels are many and not too expensive.

The first setback came speedily to me here.

"We don't take young ladies with no luggage." The woman-clerk at the desk was impertinence itself as she regarded me.

"My—my luggage is at the railway station," I stammered, flushing.

She gave me another cold stare. It was evident she did not believe me.

"We're full up, anyhow." She turned her back on me.

I went all the way back to the terminus, and got a heavy suitcase out of the baggage-room. I could carry nothing else, for my means did not now permit of taxis!

Again I sought the region of cheap hotels.

This time I was more successful, though not cordially received.

I got an inexpensive room on the sixth floor, and had enough money left for breakfast.

Then I unpacked. Great tears were rolling down my cheeks. How miserable I felt!

My aunt's words of wisdom came back to me — too late. Oh, what a wretched little fool I'd been!

I hated Fred Delaunay, who had brought me to this humiliating, wretched pass.

Never, never would I marry, not though he asked me on his knees!

"But there seems small chance of that!" I told myself, drearily.

And what about his "business deal?" Would anxiety for the obtaining of the fifteen hundred dollars not have driven Fred to me, despite his lack of love? (For I realized now that he did not love me.)

Then a thought struck me with the velocity of a six-inch shell! Freddie knew that the fifteen hundred dollars had been stolen. How did he know? Quite easy! He had stolen it himself!

It was a feasible explanation. I'd kept him waiting for an hour while I took tea at the Red Lion Inn with Neil Saunders. Freddie had seen that I'd left the precious bag behind me and—during that hour—he had returned and stolen the bag and the money.

Then, meeting me, he had feigned surprise at my forgetfulness. He took from me the thousand that I'd borrowed from Neil Saunders, and—

I gave a little cry of baffled rage! He'd only promised me an I. O. U. on receipt of the full amount! I hadn't got his I. O. U., though he had got the money. At least, he'd get a thousand of it. And I had not the slightest claim on him to get it back!

Such knowledge was a painful shock to me.

"Doubly I've been a fool!" I said aloud, seated on the edge of the hard bed that the cheap room contained.

Who was to pay back Mr. Saunders? Myself, of course! I, personally, had given my receipt for the money he had lent on Fred's behalf.

Well, I got myself into an appalling tangle! That was obvious.

And here I was in New York, with only a few cents in my pocket, over and above the sum that I must pay for this night's lodging and next morning's breakfast.

"I'll have to sell some clothes," I told myself, stifling down a sob. "The proceeds may be sufficient to keep me for a few days until I get employment. Tomorrow morning I'll rise early and look for work."

But I had little sleep that night. And when I slept I dreamed wild, unhappy dreams.

So I felt glad when morning came, although it brought only a fresh realization of my awkward predicament.

The hotel breakfast was a dismal affair. The cooking was bad. The crockery half washed and grubby. The waitresses were a slatternly lot. After I had paid for my room and breakfast I would have just ten cents left.

Yes, my new life was beginning, with a vengeance!

Tomorrow—Alone.

A SICKLY WIFE NO FIT MATE FOR ANY MAN

GIRLS AND WOMEN SHOULD LOOK WELL TO THEIR HEALTH AND STRENGTH

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as today.

No man finds happiness in a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be so easily maintained by Ferrozone, when the glow of health, is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferrozone is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferrozone quickly follows a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in ill-health.

Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferrozone.

Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive, vitalizing tonic.

It is specially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferrozone is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. H. Andrews. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Edith Huggett, while the bridegroom was supported by J. E. Marks. The bride was given away by Mr. W. Russell. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends to witness the ceremony. A reception took place immediately after at the bride's home, and later a dinner was served. The wedding presents were pretty and useful. The latter part of the evening was spent in music and dancing. The couple will make their homes in Victoria.

CITY BREAD BY-LAW AGAIN CONDEMNED

But Council Refuses to Listen to Plea of Bakers That It Is "Impossible From Practical Standpoint"

"Impossible from a practical standpoint" was the description given to the city's bread by-law last night by Mr. Harry Ampblett, secretary of the Victoria Bread and Cake Manufacturers' Association, in a letter to the City Council. He requested that revision be made to allow for shrinkage in weight, and said that the Victoria Council was the only governing body in Canada that had so far refused to grant this allowance.

The City Council adopted the same course with last night's letter as it did with a previous one—received and filed it. There will be no response.

Wrote Mr. Ampblett:

"We regret to note that you deem it inadvisable to make any alteration in the provisions of the present by-law. Owing to the unusual importance of this matter to ourselves as manufacturers and employers of a considerable body of labor in this city, we feel that it is impossible for us to allow the matter to remain in its present position; inasmuch also as the by-law as it stands today is totally impossible from a practical standpoint, and we cannot believe that you wish us to run the risk of constant prosecution because your by-law calls for conditions which cannot be carried out.

"There is not a public governing body, with the sole exception of yourselves, in the whole Dominion of Canada which has not been amenable to some allowance in weight such as we are asking for, and the suggestion for the alterations in the by-law embodied in our letter of July 21 were based upon the decisions arrived at by the manufacturing bakers assembled in Dominion council at Ottawa and agreed to by the Federal authorities as being a reasonable, practical allowance for reduction in weight caused by evaporation after the bread has been baked."

APPROVE TERMS OF BRIDGE PAYMENT

Council Will Meet Cost of Substructure Contract Within Sixty Days of Completion—Mr. Day Criticized

The Mayor and aldermen spent considerable time last night discussing whether sixty days is sufficient time to allow before making final payment for the building of the Johnson Street bridge substructure.

The special committee composed of Aldermen Fullerton and Dinsdale brought in a report, approving the proposed specifications for the contract, but asking the Council's endorsement of the sixty-day-payment clause.

Ald. Fullerton was inclined to think that more than sixty days should be stipulated. "We can't afford to take chances, and we'd better be wise than sorry," he said.

If proper inspection was provided for, sixty days was sufficient, in the opinion of the Mayor.

City Engineer F. M. Preston said that the C.P.R. was satisfied with sixty days in its contracts. If faults were to develop in the construction, they would be known within two months after completion, he said.

The clause was voted to stand as it was.

Members of the Council smiled appreciatively as a letter from Mr. J. B. Greenlaw, criticising Mr. John Day, was read. Mr. Day last week wrote to the Council condemning it for the labor conditions for bridge contract work, claiming they were unfair to Victorians and returned soldiers.

"Mr. Day went a long way out of his way to attack the Council, and what for?" asked Mr. Greenlaw. To gain favor with a certain class of labor or to make a name for himself. Well, never mind. There is no need to take Mr. Day too seriously."

The letter was ordered received and filed.

WELL KNOWN NATIVE SON PASSES AWAY

Mr. Thomas Chadwick, Nearly Forty Years Connected With Local Post Office, Died Yesterday

A well-known and highly respected native son passed away yesterday morning in the person of Mr. Thomas Chadwick, whose death took place at the home of his niece, Mrs. O. A. McDonald, of 419 Parry Street. The late Mr. Chadwick, who had been in poor health for some months, was born in Victoria fifty-seven years ago.

For the past twenty-five years the late Mr. Chadwick was in charge of the postal order department at the local post office, holding that position until his superannuation in March of this year. He joined the service in 1881. On his retirement he was presented by his fellow workers with a handsome gold watch, suitably engraved, Postmaster Bishop making the presentation and paying tribute to the reliability, honesty and kindliness of the veteran official.

The late Mr. Chadwick is survived by three brothers, George, Robert and Alfred Chadwick, residing in this city, also one nephew and three nieces. The funeral has been arranged to take place tomorrow at 2:30 p.m., from the Thomson Funeral Home. The Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick will officiate.

IN THE COURTS

Supreme Court

In the Supreme Court yesterday the suit of Beauchamp vs. Savery came on for hearing before Mr. Justice Morrison. The plaintiff is Mrs. W. Beauchamp, who is claiming $5,000 damages on account of physical injuries and expenses incurred as a result of being knocked down by defendant's motor car on the night of December 20, 1919, at the intersection of Rock Bay Avenue and Gorge Road. The plaintiff testified that she was walking with her niece and another lady in the Gorge Road on the night in question. It was a foggy night. She saw no lights on defendant's car, nor did she hear any horn sounded before she was knocked down. She had suffered a fractured leg; had been confined four weeks in hospital, and to her home for some time. After the learned judge had ordered an adjournment for the purpose of viewing the scene of the accident, other witnesses for the plaintiff corroborated her evidence. The defendant testified that the night was very foggy; that he had been driving not more than ten miles an hour; that his headlights were burning, and that he had sounded his horn. This evidence was corroborated by two other witnesses. The learned judge reserved his decision. Mr. W. A. Brethour appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. D. S. Tait for the defendants.

Supreme Court Chambers

In connection with an application, in Supreme Court Chambers yesterday, for probate of the will of the late Arthur Ward, of Saltspring Island, Mr. A. P. Luxton, K.C., asked leave of Mr. Justice Morrison to assume the death by drowning of the testator as having occurred on August 15 last. Mr. Luxton, in support of his application, read the affidavits of two residents of the island, one of whom had seen Mr. Ward get into a row boat and leave Ganges Harbor on the morning of the fatality, while the other testified that he had seen him pitch overboard from the boat and sink in the sea. The later deponent further testified that he cruised in a motor boat around the place of the accident, first of all in the hope of saving life, and afterwards in the expectation of recovering the body; but he had not seen anything of Mr. Ward after his sinking. Mr. Luxton further made affidavit that the body had never been recovered. The learned judge granted the application.

In Supreme Court Chambers yesterday Mr. Justice Morrison reserved judgment on the application of Mr. H. W. R. Moore, counsel for the Canadian Puget Sound Timber and Lumber Company, to quash the conviction of his clients by Magistrate Jay, in the City Police Court, last July. The conviction was upon a charge of infringing what is commonly known as the Smoke Nuisance By-Law, and the evidence adduced by the prosecution at he hearing of the case showed that cinders and unburnt sawdust from the appellant's city sawmill had been showered on houses and gardens in the neighborhood. The Magistrate imposed a fine of $20. City Prosecutor Harrison objected to the granting of the application on the ground that the appellants had exhausted their right of appeal by writ of certiorari, inasmuch as they had abandoned previous appeal proceedings, taken by way of a stated case by the Magistrate. Mr. Moore contended that his clients had not exhausted their remedies of appeal, inasumch as the merits of the case had never been heard on the former appeal. Mr. Moore also argued that the city by-law under which the prosecution had been brought was in excess of the power conferred on the municipality by the Provincial Legislature.

County Court

In the County Court yesterday His Honor Judge Lampman gave judgment, with costs, for the plaintiff in the suit of Williams vs. Parker et al. Plaintiff's claim was for balance of sum of money due for work done and moneys expended by plaintiff in behalf of defendant. Judgment was given for plaintiff in amount claimed, viz., $504 and costs. Mr. J. A. Aikman appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. F. C. Elliott for the defendants.

VICTORIA MINISTRY HAS MAJORITY OF ONE

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Latest advices from Melbourne, Australia, indicate that the Victorian state government of Hon. H. S. W. Lawson, Nationalist, will have a majority of only one as a result of the elections last week.

The government will have to depend for its existence on the Country party, which has hitherto acted independently of the Nationalists and Laborites, the two strongest groups in the legislature, using each as opportunity occurred to further its own interests. Two ministers were defeated.

Suicides in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.—With a stick of cyanide of potash clenched in his teeth and a glass that had contained a solution of the same chemical by his side, the lifeless body of A. H. Another case of suicide occurred Sunday when Robert Townley, a plumber, married but two months, drank a quantity of carbolic acid. He died while being taken to the hospital.

ENGINEERING STANDARDS

The work of the British Engineering Standards Association is still proceeding steadily. At the request of British makers of small tools and of machine tools the Association recently undertook an inquiry into the standardization of milling cutters and reamers. After a very exhaustive study the Association issued a report setting out the standards decided upon. Another interesting report from the same body deals with standard specifications for electric cooking ranges. The two sizes standardized are suitable for five persons and ten persons respectively. It may be added that when, quite recently, engineers in the United States decided to arrange for standardization on a systematic plan they adopted the model built up by the British Engineering Standards Association.

Kearns Says Terms Are Arranged for Big Bout

Cumberland United Win Fourth Straight Game

TERMS ARRANGED FOR CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT

Jack Kearns Is Authority for Statement—Carpentier and Dempsey to Meet in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Terms for a boxing bout for the world's heavyweight championship between Jack Dempsey, the title-holder, and Georges Carpentier, the French pugilist, have been virtually agreed upon, Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, announced today.

Kearns said a "final conference" of interested parties would be held tomorrow or Wednesday, and added he was confident the agreement would be signed before Carpentier leaves the United States a week from Saturday.

It was reported the bout would be held in the United States, probably in Madison Square Garden, New York, and that the date would be either in January or June, 1921.

PRESENTS CHALLENGE CUP

St. Andrew's Young People Held Enjoyable Hallowe'en Party Last Evening

Last evening at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Schoolroom the Young People's Society held their first Hallowe'en social evening. About fifty members, masked and dressed in flowing white gowns, participated in the event and the room, which was adorned with the usual seasonable decorations, presented a truly festive appearance. The programme consisted of playing games, guessing competitions and several sing-songs led by Neville Goff, of the Y.M.C.A. The presentation by Mr. George Cruickshanks, of the St. Andrew's Tennis Tournament Challenge Cup, donated by Mr. Arnold W. Trevets, and won by Gordon Stacy and his partner, Miss Nesta Owen in the mixed doubles competition, was the chief event of the evening. The ceremonies commenced at 8:30 and later refreshments were served, when a surprise was given to Mr. Neville Goff in the form of a birthday cake.

Three ladies, Miss Phyllis Knapman, Miss Dorothy Hay and Miss Nesta Owen, were jointly responsible for the very enjoyable time spent by the young people.

AMATEUR HOCKEYISTS TO MEET AT Y. M. C. A.

General Meeting Tonight Will Discuss Several Important Issues—Big Attendance Requested.

Tonight the Senior Amateur Hockey Association will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock when plans for the coming season will be discussed, and it is requested that representatives of all teams who are desirous of entering the league and those interested in the game, be in attendance.

Secretary Percy Watson announced yesterday that the following teams have sent in their applications: Senators, Elks and G.W.V.A., while the V.I.A.A., Yarrows, Fitz's Billiard Parlors and Two Jacks Dope are considering entering, but up to the present have not sent in their entries. Mr. Watson requests that all those teams seeking a franchise, should there be any vacancies, must have their application in prior to the meeting tonight.

Everything seems bright for a banner year, and amateur hockey enthusiasts are getting interested in the question of which team has the "real" players. The Elks have a fast team lined up, but Captain Darrel Spence is keeping quiet. George Straith, manager of the Senators, is another "dark horse," and refuses to make any statement. The G.W.V.A. started a campaign after players about the middle of June, and are still looking for new blood, and, if the saying, "It's the early bird that catches the worm" is true, they must have a whirlwind team, and should have no trouble in clinching the Dudley Cup.

There promises to be some live issues up for discussion tonight, but Secretary Watson stated that he did not like to make any statement until the matters came up before the meeting.

The meeting will be held in room "L" at the Y.M.C.A., and is to start at 8 o'clock sharp.

NEWSY LALONDE IS CANADA'S BABE RUTH

Vancouver Writer Tells of How He Has Been Winning Fame and Shekels in Sport

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 25.—"Newsy" Lalonde, the Flying Frenchman, hailed as the "Babe" Ruth of Canadian sport, has gone East again to take his place in the lineup of Les Canadiens of Montreal in the National Hockey Association race. "Newsy" has just helped Vancouver cop the famous Minto Cup in the recent series with the New Westminster Salmonbellies. The noted Eastern lacrosse and hockey player received, it is said, $4 per minute for the 180 minutes' play in the recent three-game lacrosse series. Altogether, "Newsy" got something like $750 for the three contests.

"Newsy" has been winning fame and glory and gathering in shekels by the sackful for many years in hockey and lacrosse, and while other stars have passed out, Lalonde's light appears to be brighter than ever. His playing during the last lacrosse season shows that the Flying Frenchman is a long way from reckoning up with Father Time. First it was "Dad" Turnbull, who played lacrosse for thirty-four years, to take the count, and then followed "Cyclone" Taylor, hockey wizard. Who's turn will it be next? Not Lalonde's, athletic followers agree.

Lalonde has been before the sport public for the past fifteen years or more, and easily ranks as Canada's all-round athletic star, commanding the same attention in Dominion sportdom as "Babe" Ruth in baseball. "Babe" gets the coin for delivering in the American diamond pastime and Lalonde does the same in lacrosse and hockey on this side of the border.

The Flying Frenchman has been on world's champion teams in lacrosse and hockey on several occasions, and he's traveled back and forth across the continent more times than any other athlete, making on an average of one or two trips each year. He plays his lacrosse out here and his hockey in the East, and whenever Les Canadiens win a hockey title he's good for another trip West. And all the time the wise Frenchman is salting the beans away for that coming rainy day.

SOCCER PROS MAKE HANDSOME INCOMES

Are in Receipt of Good Wages All the Year Round, and Work at Other Trades as Well

LONDON, Oct. 25.—It is generally agreed that the right man—the man who looks well after himself, keeps himself fit, and does not marry too early—can, in the ten years which is about the average playing life of a professional footballer, make a very substantial sum out of the game.

Considering the present rate of wages, bonuses for victories and drawn games and his benefit, a player, if he steers clear of serious accidents, should be able to save anything from £750 to £1,000 by the time he is 32 or 33 years of age. And how many trades are there where a young man can save that amount in the same time?

But it is not quite as easy to become a first-class professional as it appears to be. Club managers in the aggregate receive thousands of applications every season from young men for trials, but in the majority little notice can be taken of these. They frequently do not contain such important details as age, height, weight, and, sometimes, even, the player's actual position. The only applications that can be seriously considered, as a rule, are those sent by club scouts, generally the best judges.

Scouts Are Active

And before these "watchers" send in the name of a player they have probably seen him play several times and under all kinds of conditions. If satisfactory, the young player is called up to headquarters and there follow one, two or more trials. As a result he may sign on for a month or longer period.

By the rules of the Football League, starting from May of this year, a player in his first full season receives £5 a week all the year round, in his second, £6 a week; in his third £7; in his fourth, £8.

The maximum wage allowed by the league is £9 a week all the year round, but in addition a first team player receives a bonus on results. Players in reserve teams receive a bonus on results on a lower scale. Thus a first-class player in a winning side can obtain as much as £11 a week. The others, of course, receive varying amounts.

In addition there is his benefit. Practically every first-eleven player receives a benefit nowadays, but he must have five years' unbroken service with his club before he can do so.

Big Sum Guaranteed

The general practice now is to guarantee a player £500. A match may be set apart for the joint benefit of two or even three players, but whatever the receipts may be each receives his £500. After long and exceptional service a player may receive a second benefit, but these are the very lucky ones. A benefit, however, is not compulsory by a club, but it is the general custom to grant one if it falls due.

Many of the players follow other occupations. It occupies their time and keeps them out of mischief. At least half the members of one London First League premier team have other occupations beyond football. One is a master builder, another a sports outfitter, a third a clerk in an insurance office. Their work has never interfered with their ability to do their club justice. Some of the players like Ducat, of Aston Villa, are first-class cricketers and play regularly for their county in the Summer.

ENTRIES NUMEROUS IN QUOIT HANDICAP

Finals to Be Played Next Saturday—General Meeting of All Quoiters Called for Tomorrow

The large number of entries in the quoit handicap made it impossible to finish the games on Saturday last, and the finals will be played off next Saturday. D. McCaig will meet Billy Wallace, one of the novices, whose good pitching surprised all who were present, and T. Buchanan will play J. Leiper. Two more heads are being put in for practice games, and all those who are learning the man's game.

A general meeting of all quoiters is being held on Wednesday, Oct. 27, at 8 p.m., in Room 25, Atlantic Hotel. A large attendance is requested, as several matters of importance will be discussed. Any player desiring a pair of quoits for private use can purchase them very reasonably through the club secretary, who is ordering a supply for the club, in the near future.

MAN O' WAR IS HORSE MONEY CANNOT BUY

Offers Up to Nearly Half Million Have Been made for Great Thoroughbred—Owner Is Adamant.

Man o' War, the celebrated three-year-old, has been the most sought for horse ever bred on the American continent. A son of Fair Play, Colins great three-year-old rival in 1908, and Mahubah, she a daughter of Rock Sand and Merry Token, and a product of Major August Belmont's Nursery stud, which is domiciled in the blue grass of Kentucky, Man o' War fetched a beggarly $5,000 when the Belmont yearlings were sold under the hammer in the paddocks of the Saratoga racecourse in August, 1918.

One yearling stable companion of his, the Vulcain colt Fair Gain, which has been only an indifferently successful racehorse, brought $14,000. Another, Rouleau, a son of Tracery, bred on the other side of the Atlantic, brought $13,000. Rouleau has not been as successful as has Fair Gain. The bidding would have been brisker on Man o' War if the strapping chestnut had not had racing for a couple of seasons a fast but very erratic own sister called Masda. Several horsemen who attended the Belmont sale and bought liberally passed the "horse of the century" by because they were afraid he might prove as hard to handle as Masda had. One of these was Samuel C. Hildreth, the developer of Masda. Another was Joseph E. Widener, of Philadelphia, the man who paid $14,000 for Fair Gain.

The First Offer

The first big offer for Man o' War was made in the Summer of 1919 after the colt, by winning the United States Hotel stakes at Saratoga, confirmed his earlier Belmont Park and Aqueduct form. Montford Jones, one of the new oil millionaires of the southwest, who had passed the Fair Play colt the season before and bought Rouleau for $13,000, offered Samuel D. Riddle, of Philadelphia, $100,000 for the colt. "I have the money right here," said Mr. Jones, sinking a hand into one of the pockets of his trousers, "if you want to sell the colt." Mr. Riddle smiled. "If," he returned, "Man o' War was in the market, Mr. Jones, you could lead him to your stable now and pay when you liked."

The biggest specific offer for Man o' War was made at Belmont Park last June after the great chestnut had established a new mile record (for the United States and Canada) of 1:35 4-5 in the running of the Withers stakes, but before he had established a new world's record of 2,14 1-5 for one mile and three furlongs in the running of the Belmont stakes.

Joseph L. Murphy, like Mr. Riddle, a Philadelphian, offered through James Healey, trainer and manager of his horses, the sum of $260,000 for Man o' War. Mr. Murphy is a son of the late Michael Murphy, a Pennsylvanian oil man of the strenuous days of Standard Oil combination. The elder Murphy, who campaigned trotters and runners in all parts of the United States and bred thoroughbreds on a small scale for a while, was the first man to buck Standard Oil and win. Joseph L. Murphy has never cared seriously for trotters, but he has always liked runners. Having sold Flittergold, a half brother of Fair Play, Man o' War's sire, Mr. Murphy sought Man o' War to put him at the head of a stud he proposes to organize. He intended before retiring the horse—in case he purchased him — to exhibit Man o' War at the great fairs throughout the United States as an object lesson to the American people.

When Mr. Riddle told Mr. Healy that there was nothing doing he offered the additional information that he might have sold his great colt half a dozen times for sums ranging from $200,000 to $250,000.

Since turning down Mr. Murphy's offer Mr. Riddle has had one American sportsman, a man whose name he says he is not at liberty to divulge, hand him a signed blank cheque and tell him he might fill it out to suit himself if only he would consent to part with Man o' War. Within the month a syndicate of British breeders has offered Mr. Riddle $400,000 for Man o' War.

The greatest price for which a thoroughbred was ever sold was $256,000, that having been the sum paid by a breeder of the Argentine Republic for the American bred horse Tracery, a product of the Belmont Farm, from which Man o' War came, Edward F. Simms recently paid $250,000 in France for the stallion Prince Palatine, which is now standing at his Xalapa farm in Kentucky.

Kearns is Honest

Jack Kearns is honest if nothing else. Kearns admits the Dempsey-Carpentier fight will not go a round. At least that's Kearns' opinion.

Kearns saw the Carpentier-Levinsky match; saw the manner in which the French champion came tearing in more open than the democratic convention in San Francisco, and saw where Georges would be a mark for that terrible right hand of Dempsey.

Kearns' statement, however, is unusual in view of the fact that Carpentier is Dempsey's only goal to big money. Why belittle the chances of the man with whom the big money is to be made?

MAN O' WAR OF ENGLISH ANCESTRY

Toronto Mail and Empire.

No sporting event ever held in Canada attracted such wide interest as the race at Kenilworth Park between Man o' War and Sir Barton. It had a slight international flavor in view of the fact that one horse was owned by a Canadian. Both were bred in Kentucky. Now let the eagle scream, and the claims go forth that Man o' War is the greatest thoroughbred ever foaled. It is the custom of many American writers to say the "best in the world" when they mean the "best in the United States," and the "best in history" when they mean the "best of the year." Each champion is enthusiastically hailed as a marvel, putting to shame all previous champions. It is difficult, if it is not impossible, to fairly compare horses that achieved their triumphs at different times. The watch itself is not a decisive test. Some horses run only as fast as they are obliged to run. The courage of other horses more than makes up for the speed of rivals. Courage was the only question concerning Man-o'-War, and he answered it emphatically in the affirmative.

Man o' War Is Through

In some quarters the hope has been expressed that it might be possible for Mr. Riddle to issue a challenge to any horse in the world to decide the supremacy next year, but the owner of Man o' War explains that this is impossible, as it would take several months, perhaps a year, for his horse to cross the Atlantic and become thoroughly acclimatized and trained for a race, and the same thing would happen, of course, if an English or French thoroughbred were to invade the United States. In the past there have been American horses go to England and win great races like the Derby, and English horses have performed well on American tracks, but it undoubtedly takes time for them to reach their best form in a new environment, and Mr. Riddle wishes to send his champion to the stud. He is not likely to race next year, because the American turf provides no weight for age events, and Man o' War would simply be anchored by the handicapper.

Mostly English

Giving him credit for being the greatest three-year-old living, and perhaps one of the greatest ever seen, the breeders of England might well claim greater credit for his production than the breeders of the United States. He will, of course, be referred to as the "American superhorse," but he is not one of those 100 per cent Americans which have cropped up in recent years. Both his sire and his dam were born in the United States, but both the sire and the dam of his dam, Rock Sand and Merry Token, were bred in England, and trace back through purely English ancestry to the Arab founders of the English thoroughbred. The sire of his sire was Hastings, bred in the United States, but the sire's dam was Fairy Gold, bred in England, and like Rock Sand and Merry Token, she comes of the purest of English ancestry. Thus three of the American colt's four grandparents are pure English, and of all his grandparents, breeders seem rather inclined to give greatest credit to Fairy Gold.

Sir Barton Also

Hastings, the only American grandparent of Man o' War, who at this point in the investigation is revealed as only a 25 per cent American, had for his grandsire another Englishman, to wit, Australian. The only strain of real American blood in Man o' War comes from Lexington, his great great great grandsire. Sir Barton, the defeated but undisgraced champion four-year-old, is slightly more American than Man o' War, but not much more so than George Sylvester Viereck. His sire, Star Shoot, was an Englishman, scion of a noble race that comes through Isinglass, Isonomy, Sterling and Oxford in the male, and Hermit, Newminster and Touchstone in the female line. His dam, Lady Sterling, was bred in the United States, but her dam, Aquila, was imported from England, so of the three grandparents of the Ross horse three were of strictly English breeding.

The American Strain

The American grandsire was Hanover, representing the best line of racehorse ever developed in the United States. Hanover is about as pure an American as you can find, but one of his four grandparents was an Englishman, Bonnie Scotland, the horse that did so much for bloodstock in the United States. Through Hanover, Sir Barton also traces to Lexington. The best of American breeders do not trust implicitly what might be called the pure American blood. They desire to cross and blend it with the English, and it is not often that you will find a real American flyer that has not at least one English grandparent. In both countries tremendous improvements have been made in the development of the racehorse from the day of the Darley Arabian. Had this famed progenitor of the modern racehorse been a contender at Kenilworth on Tuesday his time might have been caught on a sun dial.

RETAIL CLOTHIERS WILL LOWER PRICES

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 25.—The retail clothing dealers throughout the United States have determined to forget all about profits this Fall, according to a statement made today by Andrew Burkhardt, new president of the National Association of Retail Clothiers.

This organization claims 7,000 members, who are estimated to do about 75 per cent of the volume of the men's wear business in the United States. Mr. Burkhart said that continued increases in costs during recent years have brought consumers to the state where they cannot any longer be appealed to by sheer reason.

SKATING RINK WILL OPEN TUESDAY NEXT

Thousands of Devotees Will Welcome Manager's Announcement—Sessions Five Evenings and Afternoons.

Tuesday evening next will see the re-opening of the "Arena," and skating will again come into its own. It is almost eight months since local devotees to the ice blades have had a chance to perform and, judging by the many inquiries of the past few weeks, it is expected that this year will be a banner one for skating.

Lester Patrick, the popular manager of the Arena, stated to a Colonist representative yesterday that he was doing everything in his power to make skating the principal pastime this Winter. He refused to make any statement regarding the signing of players for professional hockey.

Amateur hockey promises to take a prominent part in this Winter's sport; a meeting tonight at the Y.M.C.A. of all enthusiasts will decide arrangements.

The skating rink will be open to the public five afternoons and evenings each week. Monday has been reserved for the amateur hockey matches, and the Victoria Skating Club. There will be a large band in attendance every evening and Saturday afternoon. Lester announced that prices were to remain the same, though overhead expenses were going up by leaps and bounds.

Within a few days the large freezing plant will start running to prepare the ice, as it takes over four days to get the ice into condition to skate on.

CUMBERLAND UNITED WIN FROM GRANBY

Have Now Won Four Straight Games — Expected to Remain Provincial Champions on Soccer Field.

CUMBERLAND, B.C., Oct. 25.—Cumberland United soccer team won their fourth straight victory in the Upper Island League yesterday, when they defeated Granby by two goals to nil on the home grounds. James scored both goals, adding to his long list. Carrol, the new centre forward on the local team, and Horne were the stars of the day. Wiley played a great game also, and Bobby Brown, the old war horse, played a great come-back game, after being off from injuries.

The B.C. champions are now well in the lead and should repeat their success of last season. Cumberland meet their old rivals, Nananmo United, next Sunday.

RICKARD SAYS CHAMPS ARE GOOD DUCKERS

Cannot Get Them Into Ring for Decision Bouts — No-Decision Bouts Bring Just as Much Money.

The right of Pete Herman, Johnny Kilbane, Benny Leonard and Johnny Wilson to their championship crowns may be disputed, but Tex Rickard, New York promoter, is willing to concede them all as the best champions the world has ever seen—at "ducking bouts."

Rickard, who, as the manager of Madison Square Garden, New York, has become the foremost of American promoters, has found it almost impossible to induce any of the champions outside of Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight king, to get in the ring for a decision bout.

"We expected to have some real fights in New York under the new boxing bill, but the champions have suddenly become deaf," he said.

Ignore Letters

"I have written numerous letters to Johnny Kilbane and he ignored them. I even went so far as to let him pick his own opponent. I have tried to get in touch personally with Johnny Wilson and have sent representatives to him only to have them told that he is not ready to talk business. I had Benny Leonard and Eddie Fitzsimmons matched and the bout was called off. Pete Herman has been very slow in agreeing to meet the winner of the elimination series that is being conducted among the bantams."

Rickard, however, plans to force them into the ring. He has two plans in mind—one through the provisions of the Walker bill and the other by taking the radical stand that they are no longer champions, and offering a club belt of his own to the winner of an elimination series among the contenders.

The Walker bill is very clear on this subject.

"Any boxer winning a championship under the international rules must defend his title in a bona fide bout to a decision against the best available contender within a period of six months from the time of winning his title and thereafter every six months if a qualified challenger appears, unless he is prevented by circumstances beyond his control, in which case the time may be extended by the board of boxing control," the section reads.

Has Offered Belt

Rickard has already offered a belt to the winner of the return engagement between Jack Sharkey and Joe Lynch, who fought a furious 15-round draw recently and are matched to meet again November 5 in Madison Square Garden.

Rickard also promises to make some interesting disclosures about the weight of several champions who are in a class heavier than their title.

While some excellent bouts have been staged under the New York laws and while there is little doubt that the future will see many just as good, it is a fact that the champions will have to be coaxed a great deal to step into a ring with their crown at stake on a decision since they can go across the river in New Jersey and fight a 12-round no-decision fight and get almost as much money.

FORMER KAISER'S PLANS OF CONQUEST

Ex-Finance Minister Lifts Veil From Proceedings of Meeting Between War Lord and Parliamentarians

The former German Emperor William confidently expected to emerge victoriously from the world war, and then marshal his continental armies against England, in what he termed "the second Punic war," says Mathias Ersberger, in his volume of war recollections just published at Stuttgart. The Emperor evidently used the term "Punic war" in the sense of a conflict for world supremacy between two great nations.

Ersberger, who was formerly minister of finance, but now has temporarily retired from public political activities, set forth in detail the meeting between the then Emperor William and the Reichstag leaders, after the fall of Chancellor Bethmann Hollweg, and following the adoption of the peace resolution in July, 1917.

He says the Emperor became enthusiastic over the phrase "peace or compromise," which, he assumed, was what the Reichstag majority demanded.

"Excellent word 'compromise,'" William stated. "It means," he said, "that we take the money, raw products, cotton, oil and ores out of the pockets of our enemies and transfer them to our own."

The Parliamentary leaders, Herr Ersberger says, were astonished by this unexpected display of imperial mentality, and felt that they were being made the victims of his mockery. The Emperor's further remarks were in the same channel, he declares.

England the Obstacle

William asserted that the United States and England had entered into an alliance for the purpose of reckoning with Japan after the war. He was also reliably informed that Russia would join Japan in warding off the Anglo-Saxon blow. He admitted that England would not emerge from the war defeated, but said the final accounting would come when he led his continental armies against her in "the second Punic war."

The amazement of the Parliamentarians grew as the Kaiser continued, Ersberger reports. The monarch asserted that "a complete understanding would be reached with France when the war was over."

Referring to a battle in Galicia, which occurred only a few days previous, the Kaiser claimed that the Prussian guard under the command of his son Fritz had "brushed the democratic dust off the vests of the Roumians. Wherever the guards appear there is no longer any democracy left," he exlaimed.

The Roumanians got their just deserts the war lord told Ersberger when the latter suggested that the poor Roumanians had probably lost everything but their shirts.

Ersberger adds that the whole meeting between the Kaiser and the Parliamentary leaders was not only a grave misfortune, but it proved "the deepest cut with the spade that ultimately resulted in the overthrow of the prevailing regime."

He concludes the chapter with the statement that the Reichstag veterans, who up to that time were opposed to the parliamentary system, that very night openly avowed that the old system would inevitably plunge Germany into disaster.

QUEER DELUSIONS

By A Medical Correspondent in The London Daily Mail

Some of the symptoms attributed to M. Deschanel, who has just resigned the Presidency of France, would suggest that his condition is one of micromania.

Micromania is one of those various delusions which arise even in minds of the highest intelligence and cannot be removed by any amount of reasoning proving their absurdity.

In micromania the patient believes that his body, or some part of it, has become reduced in size. In a case that came under my notice some years ago, a most intelligent man got the fixed idea that his head had shrunk to the size of an orange. He thought himself so ridiculous that he would seldom go out of doors, yet he periodically bought hats of the large size of 7 1-4. A delusion of this kind may arise from a sensation of tightening of the skin, giving rise to the belief that the part has shrunk.

Delusions of persecution are very common. A man has a constant bad taste in his mouth or an unpleasant odor in his nose, owing to some diseased condition, and he attributes these to persecution by his enemies: people, he thinks, are poisoning his food or pumping evil-smelling gases into his room.

Others, from some affection of the hearing apparatus, hear voices speaking insulting words to them, and they attribute these voices to persons who pass them in the street or sit with them in a room. They may even hear them through the wall from the next apartment.

Another form taken by this mental affection is a belief on the part of the victim that someone is torturing him by magnetism or electricity. The explanation is that, owing to a nervous disease, he feels prickly sensations in the skin, and, being unable to account for their constant presence, he comes to the conclusion that the Postmaster-General is torturing him through the telegraph or telephone systems. Lately such persons have ascribed their sensations to wireless telegraphy!

A person who suffers from a delusion may be perfectly sane with regard to everything outside it, and even use his reason in dealing with his delusion. Thus a patient who believed himself made of butter would not go near a fire, while one who thought he was composed of glass would not let anyone touch him, lest he should break.

Eccentricity sometimes comes very near to delusional insanity, but the eccentric recognizes that he is behaving in an absurd way, while the delusionist cannot be convinced of his error.

PATENT MEDICINE SALES IN ENGLAND

The British Proprietary Medicines bill, which has just been published, provides for the registration of patent medicines and appliances and of the owners thereof, and places stringent restrictions upon the sale of articles so registered. A patent or proprietary medicine is defined as one "which is held out by advertisement as of use for curative or remedial purposes, and which is either sold under a trade name or manufactured by a secret process."

The manufacture or sale of "remedies" for certain ailments is prohibited altogether. These include cancer, consumption, lupus, deafness, fits, epilepsy, diabetes, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, Bright's disease, and rupture. The bill prohibits the sale, and advertisement for sale, of "remedies" or appliances purporting to be effective for the prevention, cure or relief of these and certain other complaints. Further provisions of the bill forbid the sending of advertisements of one kind of remedy in packages containing another, and it is also forbidden to the owners, vendors, or agents of registered remedies to offer to treat sufferers, or to publish false testimonials, or to suggest that proprietary medicines or appliances are recommended by duly qualified practitioners without giving their names and qualifications and, if alive, their addresses. The Minister of Health is given authority to remove from the register any remedies or appliances held to be injurious, but the owner has the right, under the bill, of appealing to the High Court. The bill does not apply to Scotland or Ireland.

In this connection it may be noted that the British Dangerous Drug bill, prepared as an outcome of the International Opium Conventions, passed the committee stage in the House of Commons on July 27. This bill places restrictions upon the importation and exportation of opium, cocaine, morphine and other dangerous drugs.

U. S. Shipping Laws

It is the natural desire of the shipping kings of America to drive British and other foreign ships out of American ports, and to substitute their own ships; and this end they propose to effect by abrogating thirty-two treaties and taxing foreign vessels out of their ports. That is a policy which might thrust upon other countries the necessity of retaliation, however repugnant the method and theory of retaliation may be. It would challenge a trade war incompatible with President Wilson's or any other conception of world peace.—London Daily Chronicle.

Porcelain currency, now circulated in Germany, is not new, but was used a century ago in England, and for centuries for gambling purposes in Siam.

WANT MAN O' WAR TO RUN AT TIJUANA

Coffroth Offers $10,000 for Exhibition Runs Against Time—Big Meet Opens November 25

Racing folk of the Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain states who annually support the Winter meetings at Tijuana are burning to see Man o' War in action. And to gratify the desire, if the thing can be done, James W. Coffroth, managing director of the Lower California Jockey Club, has submitted to Samuel D. Riddle, of Philadelphia, an offer of $10,000 and expenses to bring Man o' War to Tijuana for one or two trials against time at one mile, or at any other distance, on a bright day when the track is fast, between Thanksgiving and next April 1.

If Mr. Riddle should elect to accept Coffroth's offer, Man o' War would not have to wait long for a bright day and a fast track. They seldom have otherwise than bright days and fast tracks at Tijuana and in Lower California. Inasmuch as Mr. Riddle has turned a deaf ear to the appeal of the Kentucky Jockey Club to bring Man o' War to Latonia or Louisville to race one mile and a half or farther with Exterminator for a purse of $50,000 it is improbable that he will favorably consider an offer of $10,000 to race the great Fair Play colt against time at Tijuana.

Man o' War is now at Glenriddle farm, which is on the eastern shore of Maryland, only a few miles from the Atlantic coast line. Glenriddle farm is about as remote from Tijuana geographically as any place in the East.

The Lower California Jockey Club Winter meeting under Coffroth's direction will begin on Thanksgiving and continue until April 1. It will be marked by the distribution among horsemen of a matter of half a million dollars in added money. There will be plenty of both Eastern and Western support for the meeting, and racing at Tijuana will attract great crowds of sport loving Winter tourists and sojourners to San Diego and Southern California.

Half Million in Prizes

Tia Juana, the real racing centre of the Pacific Coast, will open its next season on Thursday, November 25, which is the American Thanksgiving Day. The meet will be run under the auspices of the Tia Juana Jockey Club, of which Jim Coffroth is the directing genius. There will be 125 days, or more, of racing and, according to the stakes blank, $500,000 will be given in prizes.

There will be 17 stakes races, the real melon of which is the Coffroth handicap, a $20,000 smash. The Coffroth will be run over the mile and one-quarter route.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Jockey Club has declared all racing off this week on account of the strike, and consequently the Cambridgeshire stakes at Newmarket will not be run Wednesday next.

COBB'S LITTLE FAILING

Ty Is Fine Fielder, Batter and Baserunner—He Can't Pitch

Like all mortals, Ty Cobb has a weakness. It isn't fielding, batting or base running neither. It's pitching.

Walter Johnson, the Washington American League speedball flinger, also has a weakness. His is playing shortstop. Other stars have similar traces of eccentricity. Some outfielders long to pitch and some catchers would rather play the infield.

There's a story told about Ty Cobb's pitching, though, that's worth a tumble. Whenever Detroit plays an exhibition game, Manager Hughey Jennings and Cobb almost come to blows. Ty insists on doing some of the pitching and Jennings balks, saying pitching ruins an outfielder's arm.

Cobb at one time had one of the strongest and most accurate arms in baseball. Today it's a different story. Cobb isn't a poor thrower, or anything like it, but his arm isn't like that of Tris Speaker, either for strength or for accuracy. Hughey Jennings, Detroit skipper, blames it on Cobb's hobby for pitching in off-season.

The chances for Cobb pitching one of the exhibition games on Doc Strub's tour is practically assured. Unlike a real pitcher, Cobb hits just the same whether he's pitching or playing the outfield.

FINNISH SHOT-PUTTER IS BOY HERCULES

Phenomenon Unearthed at Olympic Games Still in His Teens—Knows Nothing of Form

The Olympic games unearthed another phenom. To break some of the existing world's records requires a super-man to do the trick, and while Porhola, of Finland, did not break the world's shot put mark of 51 feet officially at the Olympic games, he actually did break it in practice and unquestionably with the next two years will displace the late Ralph Rose's mark.

Ralph Rose made his record of 51 feet in San Francisco in 1909 and since that time has been the only man in the world to equal it. Strange as it may seem, on four different occasions—three of them in one day—Rose lobbed the shot right on 51 feet, but he could never get it a fraction of an inch over that mark. There is not a man in sight in this country who is able to equal Rose's mark, but the victory of the Finn Porhola and his remarkable size, weight, youth, height of put of the shot and power behind it all go to assure the world that this boy will be the next record holder for this event.

Porhola is only a boy, still being in his 'teens." His win in the Olympic shot put, defeating Pat MacDonald, whom America thought a sure winner of the event, was one of the big surprises of this event. American experts who looked this Finn boy over at once saw in him the possibilities of a real champion. One day prior to the Olympic contest the various shot putters were practicing and the Finn heaved the shot 51 feet 4 inches. The story goes that Pat MacDonald witnessed the heave and the measurement took all the sap and pep out of Pat and he was beaten before he entered the circle.

The remarkable thing about this champion Finn is that he knows absolutely nothing of "form" in putting the shot, and depends absolutely on his height and strength. He is a giant in stature and in the athletic world of Finland is known as "The Boy Hercules."

FEDERAL LEAGUE IS BLAMED FOR SCANDAL

In This League Gamblers First Got Influence Over Players—Club-owners Are Also Censured

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—What caused all this scandal in baseball? Was it the war that drove the players money mad, or was it just plain greed, the outgrowth of the World War?

J. Cal Ewing, talking before some seventy-five baseball fans at the beefsteak dinner given by Edward R. Maier to the Vernon pennant winners, gave his ideas on what he thought to be the proper explanation.

"The Federal League is to blame for the turmoil in baseball today," said Ewing. "If ever a league was corrupt it was the Federal. Big gambling interests practically controlled every club in that organization, if it may be called such.

"It was in the Federal League where players first met the big gamblers who learned for the first time ball games could be 'fixed.' After the failure of the Federal League organized baseball made its biggest mistake by taking back those ball players who 'jumped.' They had been under the influence of the gamblers and saw what 'easy money' there was to be made if they played according to the dictates of the crooked gentry."

Blames Club Owners

Ewing blames some of the major league clubs for the dishonesty of ball players. He points out that even in the Coast League some of the club owners have not been on the square with their fellow owners. "How many club owners kept within the salary limit of this league?" said Cal. "Didn't they have two agreements with their players, one by which the players would be paid enough money to keep within the salary limit, and the other a personal agreement so as to give him more money in order to hold him?

"It isn't fair to expect such a ball player to be honest with his boss, when the boss isn't playing the game on the square with his fellow owners."

That a thorough cleanup of the Coast League gambling and bribe charges must result from the inquiry of the Los Angeles grand jury probe, was the statement by Charlie Graham, manager of the Seals, who is a member of the special investigating committee appointed by the league to assist the grand jury in its investigation. On behalf of the Coast League, Graham promised to advance whatever money was needed to make the inquiry most thorough and complete.

"This whole mess has to be cleared up this winter if we are to resume play next season," he stated. "If there is any trace of bribery on the part of gamblers who are said to be associates of Borton, then the grand jury ought to unearth it. If there is any concrete evidence to show that the Vernon club raised a slush fund as Borton says, then those facts must be brought out and proper punishment rendered," said Graham.

May Be Candidate in Atlin

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.—O. B. Bush, a mining man from Atlin, is in the city and has announced that he will allow his name to be placed in nomination for that constituency. A curious point about this is that Mr. Bush will have to conduct most of his campaigning in this city, as there are more Atlin voters here at present than there are in Atlin.

Maple Leafs Make Big Hit in First Night of Revue—Victorian, Ernest Petch, Holds Prominent Place

One forgot, as one saw last night at the Royal Victoria Theatre amid beautiful settings and in fine costumery, the Irish colleen, the Summer girls, the vampire, the Oriental and Spanish dancers, the stenographer, the debutante, that these were not really what they seemed—that not only were these girls not the the characters they represented, but they were not girls at all—it was all merely "Camouflage."

The many Victorians who took the opportunity of witnessing the first night performance of Capt. M. W. Plunkett's 4th Canadian Divisional Troup in their overseas review were delighted. They had gone prepared to laugh at the attempts of mere men to successfully imitate the fairer sex. So faithfully did the players depict mannerisms; so excellent was the makeup and so beautiful the costuming, that the house forgot to laugh; was lured into momentarily believing the actuality of what it was.

The troup had a special interest to Victorians, as one of its principal members was Mr. Ernest Petch, well known local singer, who has been touring the continent with the Maple Leafs. In his Yiddish part he made a great hit. The greater part of his work was in the role of comedian, but Victorians had an opportunity of hearing his excellent baritone in the vocal numbers rendered by Graham, Williamson, Petch and Kelly, as a soldier quartett.

Sentiment and humor alternated throughout the evening. In the first scene was a chorus of "girls." In the second turn of the revue was a chorus of aged men with beards and sticks and aches. As a bewitching maiden, Leslie Benson sang an alluring song of sentiment entitled "I'm All of Aooh."

"Swing Me In the Moonlight" was beautifully staged, the Summer girls being seated on swings, the ropes of which were strung with colored lights. All sang as the girls moved to and fro.

Mr. Petch made his first appearance as a "Yid" in "Sullivan Will Be There." His many friends in the audience had no difficulty in recognising the local singer.

"Mountains of Mourne" was an Irish scene and an Irish song.

The large number of ex-service men in the theatre last night enjoyed to the full the various skits upon the army and the Government and they alone could fully appreciate what the Madamoiselle from Armentiers meant when she said she had been cooking for the soldiers, trying to make Finker's Jam into Boston Cream.

Bob Anderson got any amount of sympathy in his "Six Days of Leave" when, between chasing the elusive cootie, he outlined some of his woes, and prayed for "six months 'ard" in place of leave.

Ormond Perley made a hit as a vampire in "Just Dance, My Dear," and "At the Ball." His Oriental dance was also appreciated.

Two short skits were staged during the evening, one being "The Papers," in which an "awkward squad" of original humor appeared, and the other, "Ginger," which brought the revue to a close. In the latter skit Pat Rafferty as Ginger proved a great favorite, his tumbling adding much to the performance. He also gave VARIETY THEATRE "Are You Legally Married?" the photoplay now being run at the Variety Theatre is one of the most enlightening that has ever been shown on a local screen, exposing as it does the chaotic and ridiculous condition of the marital laws of the different states. The story is based on facts brought about by two years of careful research on the part of Miles Dobson, B.A., into the marital and divorce laws in force throughout the United States. The Supreme Court of the United States, at Washington, D.C., has handed down a decision that makes bigamists of hundreds of thousands of men and women who think themselves lawfully married; it puts the stigma of illegitimacy on more than half a million children, and so confuses property interests that many persons are in possession of property for which they have paid and to which they have no legal title. This decision is handed down in the case of Haddock vs. Haddock, and is upheld by the Supreme Courts of all of the several states who have tried such cases.

COLUMBIA THEATRE The conditions that resulted in the death of Czar Nicholas of Russia, if published reports of his death may be believed, are graphically depicted at the Columbia Theatre in "The Right of Happiness," a film story of the hour. The story opens in the St. Petersburg of nineteen years ago. The spectator evades the guards and enters the council chamber where the two notorious Russian agitators plan the world's destruction; he sees a young girl start out for America with a commission to wreck American industry. How she failed; yet won—is just one of the themes interwoven with intense dramatic emphasis in "The Right of Happiness." Dorothy Phillips, whose work in "The Heart of Humanity" was another Vimy Ridge for the Canadians, is the star of this unusual photodrama. William Stowell, who supported her in "The Heart of Humanity" also plays opposite in "The Right to Happiness." The following popular Universal players are also members of the supporting cast: Robert Anderson, Hector Sarno, Henry Barrows, Winter Hall, Margaret Mann, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Alma Bennett.

PANTAGES THEATRE What could be more appropriate than that Charles Ray, who has played so many country boy heroes on the screen, should be the leader in an old-fashioned barn dance held recently at the big Thomas H. Ince motion picture studio? The occasion was the completion there of a monster "dark stage" for the taking of night pictures. Mr. Ray and his company had just finished their new picture, "Red Hot Dollars," showing today at Pantages Theatre. Several days were spent in turning the "stage" into an exact reproduction of a big country barn. When all was finished, chickens perched on the beams, horses were in the stalls, and a real rural orchestra struck up the music. Mr. Ray and his pretty leading woman, Gladys George, led the dancing. They were appropriately clad and went through the measures of the "Virginia reel" and "lancers" with true bucolic abandon. Hard cider was the chief refreshment, and the party lasted until well into the morning.

"HUMORESQUE" IS ACCLAIMED

Wonderful Picture Adapted From Fannie Hurst's Novel, Attracts Capacity Houses at the Dominion Theatre.

The answer to the critics who lament the artificiality of motion pictures is "Humoresque." This photoplay is real life faithfully portrayed. It has an intense appeal to the heart equalled by few works of literature and fewer stage productions. Last night's audience at the Dominion Theatre, where "Humoresque" opened a week's run, was alternately moved to laughter and something closely akin to tears. The picture has the humor of "Potash and Perlmutter" and the pathos of "The Music Master."

Fannie Hurst, author of the novel upon which the picture is based, shows in "Humoresque" why she is one of the highest-paid and most popular writers in the country. The story is simplicity itself in plot. Leon Kantor, a child of New York's humble East Side with a soul for music, is the central figure. Under the watchful and loving eye of his mother he develops into a world-known musician. At the height of his popularity, he goes to war and returns with a wounded shoulder that, the doctors tell him, will prevent him from ever playing a violin again.

Music is Leon's life. Without it, he becomes morose and, believing himself a cripple for life, is unwilling to marry the girl he loves. But in a wonderful manner the clouds clear away and he is once again made happy.

Alma Rubens, Vera Gordon, Gaston Glass and Dore Davidson in the chief roles in the picture could not be improved upon. Frankie Borzage, Jr., also deserves honorable mention. "Humoresque" is a Cosmopolitan production released by Paramount Artcraft.

"CHU CHIN CHOW" PLAYS FIVE NIGHTS AT ROYAL VICTORIA

"Chu Chin Chow," the famous extravaganza of the Orient which has been playing for five years at His Majesty's Theatre, London, will be offered for the first time in British Columbia, on Nov. 9th, when it will begin a five days' engagement at the Royal Victoria Theatre. Originally scheduled for a full week, the Monday performance had to be cancelled in order to have ample time to make the first setting, which requires twenty-four hours. This attraction appears in but three cities in Western Canada—Winnipeg, Calgary and Victoria. Owing to the lack of a theatre with proper stage facilities, there will be no performances at Vancouver as was originally announced.

Coming with its original production and cast intact and with a company that numbers 200, "Chu Chin Chow" will set a mark for banner theatricals and will prove the most important event in Victoria's theatrical history.

Farmers in South Africa

Farmers in South Africa seem rapidly to be approaching the stage when their industry will be as completely organized on co-operative principles as is the case in Denmark, and to a lesser degree in some other European countries. For years the advantages of the co-operative system have been enthusiastically preached, and a network of societies now covers the Union of South Africa and Rhodesia. There has followed the inevitable fusion of the general interests of local societies into a central federation.—Bulawayo Chronicle.

edly applauded. A flattering ovation greeted him when he entered the ball room and after the applause had died down after he rose to speak, a group of McGill graduates, seated in the centre of the hall, welcomed him with the college yell.

Mr. John Cochrane, president of the Canadian Club, introduced Sir Arthur. He said:

"The conditions now existing in Canada present the most difficult national problems which have ever confronted the public men of our country.

Mr. Cockrane Speaks

It is well to remember that while the problems affecting our national life are subject to variation as to their number and character, the principles of justice, duty and self-mcrifice by which these problems may be solved remain permanently unchanged.

These principles received ample vindication in and emerged triumphant from the great world-conflict.

It would seem, therefore, that the successful solution of our national problems depends upon the practical application to the conditions of our civil life, of those high principles which carried the Allies to military victory in the great struggle.

"If this is so, there is a responsibility resting upon our successful military leaders to accept commanding positions in our civil life, to inculcate these principles in the rising generation and to render to the state in time of peace, that same magnificent service so freely and so loyally rendered in time of war.

We are indeed highly honored and gratified, in having as our guest on this occasion, a former fellow-citizen who, through his intrinsic merits as a soldier and the brilliant services which he rendered to our Dominion, our Empire and the Allied cause in the late war, rose to occupy the most distinguished and responsible military positions ever attained by a Canadian. His zeal for service did not terminate with the war, for he has recently accepted another and perhaps a wider responsibility as commander-in-chief of one of Canada's educational institutions.

Incomparable

"There is perhaps no institution within our national structure, to compare with a university in conserving and propagating those principles which carried the Allies to a triumphant issue in the late world-conflict and McGill University is to be congratulated in having secured as commander-in-chief, one who has so strikingly exemplified these principles in his own record in the war, who has recently proclaimed Canada's call for trained men in all departments of national service to be insistent and imperative, and who will, as head of that great university, inculcate those principles so vitally essential to the achievement of the highest ideals of our Canadian citizenship."

Recalling at the outset the occasion of his last address before the Canadian Club on his return from overseas, Sir Arthur again paid tribute to the men who had represented Victoria in the fighting line.

"British history," he said, "does not disclose anything more inspiring than the deeds of Canadians over there. When I returned to Canada and was placed in charge of the reorganization of the militia, I did all I could to perpetuate the units that had helped to make history in France. I felt that the Canadian Scottish belonged to Victoria. Some people seemed surprised to think that other regiments were not allocated here, too, but let me tell you that in one week the Canadian Scottish created more tradition than other regiments of Canada in all the days of their existence. I believe and hope that the Canadian Scottish will have a most successful life here."

Early Days of McGill

Speaking of his present mission, the subject of his address, Sir Arthur touched briefly upon the history of McGill University, traced its development from the days of its foundation and remarked that next year the centenary would be celebrated. The existence of McGill, he pointed out, was due to the far-sighted generosity of Hon. James McGill, who had endowed 46 acres and $50,000 for the university that was to bear his name and become regarded as the national university of Canada. Not until 1855, he said, did the university begin to make substantial progress under the principalship of Sir William Dawson. Its annual expenses in those days, however, were counted only in the hundreds, while last year it cost $1,000,000 to maintain the university and this year it was proposed to add $250,000 more, this suggestion being made in anticipation of the success of the campaign now being inaugurated.

"I ask you to judge McGill by its products," declared Sir Arthur. "It is and has been a great and useful university. The men it has turned out, professional men and men of business, have served their country brilliantly. But it has been handicapped. It has had to depend almost exclusively on the fees of students and benefactions by men of means, many of them graduates. The time has come when more means must be found of strengthening the university financially. It is too important an enterprize to be allowed to languish. We want to be able to pay our teachers and professors on a better basis. There are extensions that have to be made, and these things will cost money. We are out for $5,000,000, and we should get it. Other universities are facing the same problem, and feel obliged to ask for more. Harvard has raised $15,000,000 and Cornell $10,000,000. Princeton is seeking $16,000,000."

Needed by Nation

The speaker stressed the national importance of McGill University and said that never in history had Canada been faced with so many and so difficult problems demanding a speedy and sound solution. The problems were social, economic and political; they were problems of the church, the home and school. Every phase of life was affected.

"Men of knowledge and spirit are needed to solve these problems for us," he declared. "The call for trained men today is imperative. Canada today asks the universities to produce men for leadership and direction. The nation and the university are inseparably linked together. The nation is the field for the exercise of citizenship. The university prepares men for citizenship of the highest order. There are two essential laws—the law of self-culture and the law of service. The university provides the opportunity for the law of self-culture. The state gives scope for the law of service. It is the bounden duty of all Canadians, of all men who would make the most of themselves, who have pledged themselves to service, to do all they can to improve themselves and store up their knowledge and virtue.

"Ideas govern the world," he went on. "Where there is no vision the people perish. Seers and prophets are the makers of history. The university is the home of the vision of ideals. Education for utilitarian purposes may be justified, but education that does not go farther than that is lacking in an essential element. Education should kindle the visionary power and blaze new trails. Here we find the university's loftiest function. That is our summit-mount. It is the university's duty to send out new life and hope that another civilization shall not be destroyed."

Skilful Methods Essential

To retain her economic robustness, Canada must produce and distribute her production along scientific lines, Sir Arthur said. During the five years of war destruction of wealth had proceeded at an incredible rate, and to make up for the loss the energies of the whole nation must be put forward in such a way as to achieve the best results.

"Strength of muscle and labor are not enough," he declared. "Ignorance is one of the most prolific causes of waste. It would be courting disaster to accept the counsel of demagogues and the unlearned leaders of the masses. Surely the call is for men of intelligence, who understand the economic laws. This is one of the cardinal lessons of history. Knowledge and education is what we need. Knowledge stands for power over nature; causes the soil to yield bountifully, the ore to leap from its bed, the waterfall to respond to the call of the mill and loom, the forest to rejoice at the touch of the skilled mind and the trained hand to coax the treasure from the earth."

He said that once the world of business felt that the university was of no particular help. The prejudice has been built up against the college graduate in business because, perhaps, of unsound methods in the university. This time had now passed, he declared with conviction.

Business and the University

"The requirements of business are for men of accuracy and observation, quick to seize opportunities and make the most of them, who have a conception of the right, the honest and the truthful. From one-third to one-sixth of Harvard's graduates enter business, and one-eighth of them are pronounced successes. No matter what the opinion of businessmen may have been in the past, most of them who can afford it send their boys to the university.

"What the world needs today is balance," he continued. "The world must get back its equilibrium, its poise. The men who will give it this are the men who have a firm grasp of history, of social and economic problems, who grasp laws and races. The government that depends solely on the will of the people surely must have its strength in the intelligence of the people. The success and security of the nation depends on education. Education is like water. Pour it at the base and saturation and destruction is the result. Poured at the top, germination of every seed and life to every root, and blossoms and fruit are the results. The university must be strong to force its way through every system of society. Its influence should be felt in every phase of school life and not only at the end of it. It should be reflected in the text books and the methods of primary training through the medium of men and women who have enjoyed the blessings of a university education."

Develop Latent Wealth

Development of unusual talent and latent intellectual wealth that had never had a chance, and developing it for the service of the nation, were prime functions of the university, in the opinion of Sir Arthur, and he went on to speak of the importance of university training to the country's lawmakers.

"It is a deplorable thing," he said, "that politics seem to be something to be avoided by the talented, educated and respected men of the community. Surely there is nothing in government that is essentially degrading. It is indeed the highest function of the state, and surely the men of learning and knowledge should take an interest in it. Politics needs men of judgment and clear vision, men of ideals who are not to be influenced or swayed by ill-considered popular enthusiasms, men of courage and integrity prepared to stand or fall on what they consider is right. Criticism of public men is only justified when it is fair and moderate. From contempt of the legislator there is but a short step to contempt of the law, which means ruin.

"Public virtue in the country's citizens will soon require the same quality in government. Our leaders should not be counsellors only, but [illegible] to the people."

While dwelling on the subject of politics, he made a plea for the elimination of the party spoils system and exhorted law-makers to come, forward with a desire for public service based on patriotic love of government for its own sake. The opportunities in statesmanship, he pointed out, were unrivalled, and he referred to the high standard maintained in Old Country politics, where corruption and political chicanery were practically unknown. Behind the Houses of Parliament were the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge. The structure of parliament had for ten centuries been moulded with the brains and learning built up by the universities.

The spiritual side of education and of national life was something that should never be overlooked, he said. It must not be forgotten that the nation and the university were born of religion.

Need Men of Character

"In the final analysis," said Sir Arthur, "what we need most of all is men of character, and production of men of character is more the concern of the university today than is the desire to turn out a multitude of men without a soul. Someone had written: 'God give us men of strong minds, true hearts and steady minds.' This is the task of the university, and it is a task that must be borne by the whole nation as well. It must influence every stratum of our national life. In Canada we do not need many universities, but our equipment must be of the best and for that we must look to our governments, our graduates and men of vision. When the people get the vision of the university moulding our national life we need not fear the future. Education is one thing the people never paid too much for. Ignorance is the most costly thing in the world today. I can affirm with confidence that the wealth of nations is in ratio with the support given by those nations to their systems of higher education."

A vote of thanks was moved by Hon. J. D. MacLean, Minister of Education, and seconded by Mr. A. E. Foreman, president of the McGill Graduates' Society of Victoria.

In the selection of Sir Arthur Currie as principal, the trustees of McGill University made "the wisest choice that possibly could have been made," said Dr. MacLean.

That Sir Arthur had shown a thorough grasp of the relationship between education and national prosperity was the testimony of Mr. Foreman, who said he was proud of being a McGill graduate and proud of its new principal.

The luncheon was closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

HOME GARDENING

Successful Results of Intensive and Intelligent Cultivation—Effects of Storm

A considerable percentage of those who entered into the work of amateur gardening during the war period have continued the practice since, and many of them have become expert gardeners, successful producers of vegetables, roots and fruits of high quality. One of these is Mr. Charles Richards, 2319 Blanshard Street, who has made gardening his chief pleasure and hobby, and in the result has proved it beneficial in every sense.

The past season has proved satisfactory indeed. Not content with the vacant ground surrounding his residence, for the past two years he has cultivated an adjoining vacant lot. About 36x120 feet of this was planted in potatoes, giving a return of 2,500 pounds. The remainder, in cabbages, corn, parsnips, carrots, celery, squash, pumpkins, etc., which produced over 1,000 pounds, 400 of which was cabbage and cauliflower. On the residence portion was grown two beds of onions, which would be prize takers anywhere, averaging a pound in weight and of fine flavor and exceptional firmness. Garden peas of early, middle and late varieties were also choice and beautiful—pods five and six inches in length, and the peas proportionately large. In connection with the pea culture was a peculiar incident. A double line of tall peas, fifteen feet in length and ten in height, was being specially grown for exhibition at the fair. These were climbing square poles, braced at either end of the line. During the somewhat cyclonic gale in the latter part of July the twisting wind tore the peas up by the roots, poles, braces and all, and carried them in the air twenty feet, smashing them down on an onion bed. They were not exhibited. Barring this unfortunate accident his various crops were all perfect, and it is interesting to note the large variety of roots and vegetables grown, as follows: Cabbages, Brussels sprouts, cauliflowers, broccoli, Scotch kale, spinach, onions, peas, five varieties of beans, corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, leeks, carrots, turnips, parsnips, beets, potatoes, celery, marrows, pumpkins, lettuce, mint and parsley. The residence gardens are inclosed with boards, with boarded paths, and present a tidy appearance, besides being convenient for cultivation purposes. Success in gardening is only attained by hard and intelligent work and continual vigilance in the war against weeds, and the many insect pests that Nature provides so that the production of luscious vegetables will not be one glad sweet song. When it is considered that Mr. Richards and the many other home gardeners achieve their success by working in the hours before and after their downtown occupations and on the holidays, they are certainly entitled to all the credit and profit they may secure. Mr. Richards attributes his success to deep trenching of the soil, careful selection of tested seeds, regular cultivation and thorough weeding, and being "always on the job."

WOMEN WHOM MEN REALLY ADMIRE

By May Isabel Fisk, in The London Daily Mail

The type of woman men profess to admire and the kind that really appeals to them are as far apart as the poles.

That is because masculine common sense and masculine imagination are never in accord. Men are very illogical and contradictory beings.

They love the woman of experience but they hate her experiences.

They demand all the unsophistication of the babe in arms, combined with the most complete equipment of the accomplished mondaine. They want the innocence of the dove, the wisdom of the serpent, and the dash and daring of the devil. And they expect to find them all in one woman! If she fails to respond to each one of these acid tests, the man tells himself, "Well, she never did understand me," and betakes himself elsewhere.

If you question a man he will probably avow, with a certain amount of complacency, that the traits he most admires in his ideal are goodness, modesty, honesty, unselfishness, and—if he has a wife in mind—the careful expenditure of money.

But if that same man sees across a room a dowdily-dressed woman, discreetly "V-ed" at the neck, with straight, badly-done hair, cotton stockings, and "sensible" shoes, does his eye sparkle as he says to himself, "There's a glorious woman, exhibiting all the characteristics I most admire in her sex; she looks good; she is not making an unnecessary display of her body; she is honest, because she has done none of those funny things to her hair to make it crinkle when nature has made it straight; her hands are unmanicured—indeed, they are a trifle rough-looking, as though she may have cooked the dinner and helped with the housework. That indicates unselfishness, and her cotton stockings and flat shoes show she is not extravagant"? Nothing of the sort.

And does he hasten to find someone to introduce him to this concrete example of the feminine virtues he most admires?

He does not. If he sees such a catastrophe imminent, he quickly flees.

If a woman comes swishing and slithering across a floor, blatantly proclaiming extravagance in every fold of her gleaming gown, with her silk stockings flashing, her high heels clicking, her hair artificially waved, her nails polished and hands carefully tended, does that man turn aside with contempt and say, "What a horrible example of everything I most dislike in woman"?

Certainly not; he probably seeks ravenously to make her acquaintance.

The fact is that when a man closes his office door at the end of a strenuous day, he wants to shut it on everything dull and worrying, colorless and practical. He wants lightness, and brightness and beauty, forgetfulness of the drudgery of existence and the weary soul-tearing grind of his daily round. It is then his common-sense sleeps, and his imagination is vividly awake—he is doubly sensitive to every impression, particularly that of the eye.

Any woman with a little intelligence can run a house successfully, but she who can amuse and fascinate a man—not only attracts him but also—greatest of triumphs—holds him!

ALCOHOL MOTOR FUEL RESEARCH IN BRITAIN

Vigorous efforts are being made by British men of science and engineers to discover all the possibilities of alcohol as a motor fuel. The increasing scarcity of petrol, and the prospects that the supplies from all visible resources will gradually shrink until they disappear in twenty-five years or so, lend a special urgency to the problem of finding a cheap and plentiful substitute. Realising how serious the situation was, the Royal Automobile Club and the Commercial Motor Users' Association, both of Great Britain, united in paying the cost of an ambitious programme of research, at the University of Manchester, into the value of alcohol as fuel. At the request of the Alcohol Motor Fuel Committee, appointed by the British Government to survey the whole question, the programme was put in the hands of Professor Dixon, who recently gave the results of his investigations in a lecture delivered in London. A scientific study was made by Professor Dixon and his assistants of the behavior of alcohol and of mixtures of alcohol and benzole after ignition. The main object was to find out the conditions which would give the highest efficiency with existing internal combustion engines when run on alcohol or alcohol mixtures. Information of the greatest value to designers has been collected. British investigations in this field have extended to the value of potatoes, beet, maize, and other sources of power alcohol. It is quite possible that many tropical and sub-tropical plants which have hitherto been regarded as a nuisance or as of little value will prove to have a high yield of the substances out of which, by fermentation, alcohol may be produced in large quantities at a low price. The research now being conducted may therefore be the means of transforming the economic prospects of more than one country.

DISCOVERIES OF GOLD REPORTED IN RUSSIA

In Buchara (Afghan frontier) on the upper waters of the Amu Darya and its tributaries, rich placer-gold deposits are reported to have been located and further successful prospecting has been made on the Safeti-Darya and Yatchan.

Placer-gold has also been discovered in the Ussuri district in the Imen Basin (Eastern Siberia).

In several other parts of Siberia prospectors have lately found not only placer-gold but rich gold-bearing quarts, say the reports.

After normal conditions are restored in Russia and Siberia, foreign experts will need to spend much time and money reconstructing and developing commercial enterprises before Siberia's pre-war export figures again can be realized. Practically all of the great enterprises conducted by foreigners in Siberia before the revolution—mines, dairy exports and farm machinery concerns—have been destroyed. The work of rebuilding them will be a matter of years.

Because of the difficulties of railway transport in Russia, it was decided that the exchange of goods, principally wool, flax and furs, for Swedish farm machinery, is to be undertaken by the water route from Central Siberia. Raw materials gathered at Omsk have been loaded on river barges and shipped down the Irtish and the Obi to the Kara Sea, where the goods will be transferred to ocean-going schooners, and taken to Sweden by way of the Arctic Ocean.

stituted "a glaring example of incomprehensible inexactitude."

"The irresponsible utterances of the Leader of the Opposition," said the Premier, "are an illustration of how completely partisan blindness can paralyse the human mind."

The Premier spoke in high terms of service to the state rendered by Sir Robert Borden, and paid tribute to the memory of Sir Wilfred Laurier, who taught public men, he said, lessons of self control, of cheerfulness of mind and heart, kindliness of manner, and of dignity of bearing.

Government's Record

Reviewing the record of the Government, the Premier said that as trustees for the people they were proud to account "for every day and every hour of the conduct of our trust."

"The members of the Union Government," he went on, "both former Liberals and former Conservatives, believed the bonds of principle that bound its members and its followers together were more important and more vital than any differences that had parted them in other days. They believed there was a far wider gulf between them and those who had opposed us through the war than any variance of views on matters of lesser independence.

"A common ground was found; on that ground a platform was built, a platform upon which Liberal and Conservative could stand because it embodied principles to which each had adhered and could still adhere."

Of the men who joined the Union Government in 1917, only one—Mr. Crerar—was now in opposition, and he had left on the principle of tariff policy. There were seven former members of the Government consistently supporting the administration in the House of Commons now, and Mr. Meighen claimed this did not indicate "that a variance of views," had been the dominating spirit.

"Wild and Wayward"

The leader of the Government dealt in some detail with Western speeches by the leader of the Opposition—"wild and wayward declamations" of Mr. King, they were termed. Mr. Meighen asserted that Mr. King had no case when he charged the Government with using autocratic measures.

"The authority of Parliament over its executive is just as complete, just as final, just as supreme at this hour, and has been at every moment of the last six years, as it ever has been in the history of Canada or in any country on earth," he said.

"There has never been a single day when Parliament could not by a majority vote have voted the Government from office or forced it to a general election."

The Premier answered criticisms which he said were made by Mr. King that the Government spent in shipbuilding money that was not voted in Parliament. Asserting that the Auditor-General would not have passed a single cheque for which Parliament's authority had not been given, Mr. Meighen said Parliament passed in February, 1917, a supply bill for five hundred million dollars, out of which $25,000,000 was set aside for building ships.

Announcement to this effect was made by Sir Robert Borden in March, 1918, and there was no criticism. For the following year $40,000,000 was specifically voted by Parliament, and a further sum was voted last session for the same purpose. Every care was taken to get the construction done at the lowest possible cost, but the tender system was not workable, he claimed, as one or two ports would have got all the contracts, and the work "had to be distributed through various firms or it would not have been done at all."

Parliament's Control

The Premier quoted Mr. King as asserting that the acquisition of the Grand Trunk Railway "was a glaring example of autocratic control," and went on to say that Parliament had discussed the bill fully and all members had the right to make amendments. The proposal had been before the country for a year and five months, and had been freely discussed, so that there was no element of surprise.

The Premier defended the calling of a special session of 1919 to ratify the peace treaty and quoting Mr. King as saying a good part of last session was taken up with the new franchise bill, for which there was no need; he declared that in the discussion of the bill in Parliament the Liberal leader had admitted the bill's necessity.

"Whenever," the Premier summed up, "the leader of the Opposition has condescended to come down from his ethereal wanderings and meaningless exhortations, from the habit of prating platitudes with an evangelistic fervor, when he comes down from words to concrete allegation, he can be refuted in every case just as easily and just as decisively as the instances I have selected tonight."

The Premier answered criticism that the Government was reactionary, and pointed to its policy of land settlement, its vocational training and re-establishment policy, the nationalisation of nearly 30,000 miles of railway, the granting of franchise to women, the part taken by Canada in the peace treaty, the League of Nations and the framing of the Labor conventions; its scheme of technical education, its road and house construction.

Tariff Question

The Premier then proceeded to deal with the tariff. There were only two tariff principles, he said, protection and free trade. "I believe the protective principle can be abused," he said. "I certainly believe it can be too high. I believe it has been abused. I believe in places and at times it has been too high, but I do not believe it could be abolished. There are many who believe that there is nothing to be lost, and much to be gained, by a protective tariff. With that opinion the Government of Canada holds no sympathy, and against the prevalence of that opinion it will stand just as firmly as against the prevalence of the opposite opinion, the theory of free trade. If we abandon the principle of protection we will have paid a sure and heavy penalty, and every class will share in the calamity. We do not intend any system of shutting out imports. We must hold the level of our tariff down to the minimum that will maintain fair but active competition with industries outside."

Under Two Flags

The speaker declared that Mr. King was trying to get the free trade votes as well as the votes of those who expect a protective tariff. "He says," declared the Premier, "that he wants union with the farmers, and he says I am trying to keep them from uniting. In the name of common sense, what could I do to keep them from uniting? If the farmers' party want to 'take account of the needs of industry,' then I tell them they want a protective tariff, and they ought to get out in the open and say so. I say let them unite if they want, and when they do, let them tell us just where they all stand and do not try to hold up two flags, and don't try to get votes on two utterly antagonistic policies. You can't mix salt and moonshine."

Mr. Meighen stated that when Mr. King himself was in office the tariff on implements averaged 20.18 per cent, and was now 14.64 per cent. The average tariff now was scarcely 23 per cent on dutiable goods.

Definite Programme

"The national Liberal and Conservative party," said its leader, "presents a definite programme, a definite principle, and unmistakably defines where it stands. We present the record of a long list of vigorous legislation. We hold out a programme of reform really accomplished unprecedented in the history of this country. I appeal to the citizens of Canada, East and West, whose vision of this country is one of a great unit and not a collection of sections. I appeal to all to measure forces and to look ahead, to have regard to performance and to principle, and to know well where they are going. I ask you to consider as citizens of a great country whether it is better to adhere in reason and in moderation to policies that have stood the test of 40 years, that have been weighed in the balance of the two great parties and have not been found wanting—whether it is better to put your trust in men who have stood true in the days of trial and through the night of tragedy and terror rather than to follow the uncertain vagaries of an orator who promises all things to all men.

Development Task

"The big task of the next few years is the development of the resources of Canada. Constructive plans that bring results in the development of our resources must be thought out and got under way, and policies consistent with these plans must be pursued.

"Do not let the West of this country get the idea that the East must remain the business centre or even the manufacturing centre of this dominion. A territory that has the coal and the ore and the mineral wealth of Western Canada is bound to become a great industrial land.

"There are those who continue to dote upon the old partizan hatred, who would divide our politics into narrow groves over bigoted thought, who want a return to the old futile quarrels. These men do not take into account the new spirit created by the war. Do you believe that men and women are not profoundly affected when they see about them the tragedies and the sufferings of a scourged and bleeding world? Surely it should teach us to avoid harsh extremes, to avoid the rigid, narrow mould of partizanship, which crushes and warps and blinds. Surely it should teach us to stand still firmly together while storms rage around, to march with courage, but to march with care, to remember that experience is better than theory, that performance is better than promises, and to hold fast to that which is good."

Government Control

Sir,—The people have spoken, and in no uncertain voice; and, sir, "to the power of the press" the chief credit is due. At no time, I venture to say, in British Columbia has so much interest been taken. This was evident by the number of letters printed in the columns of the daily press, which allowed the expressed opinion of both sides.

The question now at issue is, can the Government control be made a success? I believe it can, for this reason. The liberty of the subject will not be interfered with, as was the case under Prohibition. There will be no need for the hypocrisy preached under the old act. I believe, sir, that the Moderates and Prohibitionists can now join hands. There will be then the minority and the majority, which will mean the unanimous effort to fight for one cause, viz., Temperance. The Moderates' battle-cry, "Liberty," means the free legitimate use of one of nature's gifts, but not abuse.

Government Control can be properly administered because every "Moderate" will become a watch-dog for the Province, and instead of blame being placed upon the police, the blame will be ours. There will be a thousand to originally one to stop bootlegging, and the illegitimate use, because every Moderate will say, "Here you have a legitimate method for purchase and the use; we will not allow you to abuse our privileges."

The saloons have gone out, and the one trouble the Moderates will have is the drunkard—and the one trouble the Prohibitionists will have is the extremist. The drunkard and the extremist are both dangers. They are the gluttons who by their actions injure any good cause. Then let the Moderates and Prohibitionists, the large majority, set an example by their actions and methods to support the Government, and perhaps then we can show our cousins over the line they have been making fools of themselves, and that the greatest mistake ever made was in 1846 in the state of Maine.

I believe, sir, if you were to allow your columns to be open for correspondence much good would arise (I mean for a short time), for out of the expressed opinions some satisfactory method of Government Control may ensue. We can only look for the suppression of intemperance to the gradual spread of education, to measures of sanitary reform, and to the slow but steady—but sure—progress of public opinion.

CANADA HAS GREAT DEPOSITS OF COAL

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—"Canada has sufficient bituminous coal within her borders to supply not only her present population, but also that of the future," stated F. W. Gray, editor of The Canadian Mining Journal, at the first of the three-day meetings of the second annual Western convention of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy today.

The coal deposits of the West were so large, he said, and the world need for coal so pressing, that it might well turn out that an export trade in coal would precede the development of the Western coal field for the purpose of providing fuel for local manufacturing industries. Because it had hitherto been unusual, the possibility or rail-hauling Western coal for export shipment at Vancouver and at Prince Rupert was not thereby lessened.

INDIAN SUPERSTITIONS CAUSE MANY DEATHS

To Sneeze Portends Calamity and Also Holiday as Precaution Against Ill-Fortune

Sneezes and superstition cost many lives annually in India. This was the statement of Dr. Anna Degenring, of the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, who has just returned to New York, on a year's furlough after 14 years as a doctor in India.

"A sneeze means a great impending calamity to the Indian mind," said Dr. Degenring. "Whatever happens on the day that one hears a sneeze is sure to turn out ill, and the Indian will enter upon no undertaking of importance on such a day. Many of our patients have refused to have operations on which their lives depended on the day that had been arranged for, because they happened to sneeze that morning, or even to hear someone else sneeze."

Indian belief in auspicious days is another "hobgoblin" in the path of the medical missionary there, Dr. Degenring said. Soon after an Indian child is born, the soothsayer reveals to the family its lucky star and its lucky days. Indians who fall ill or are hurt in an accident persist in waiting for their auspicious days before sending for a doctor.

The Indians, the physician explained, attribute epidemics to the wrath ing "there is a goddess of malaria and of various goddesses of ill-health, add- a goddess of smallpox—a goddess, in fact, of every recurring epidemic." Though they believe in goddesses, they are hard to convince concerning germs, and they have no idea of quarantine for contagious diseases, Dr. Degenring said.

Plead for Blind People

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 25.—L. M. Wood and Capt. E. A. Baker told the Canadian Club today of the work being carried on in Canada on behalf of the blinded soldiers and blinded civilians, pointing out the need for financial assistance to secure the best results. Both disclaimed any necessity for patronizing of the blind, declaring that all the blind required to become successful citizens was opportunity.

State Aided Shipping

Shipping is a peculiar industry, which does not flourish and acquire strength and develop a high standard of efficiency under artificial conditions or state-imposed restrictions. Moreover, any favors, as we discovered in the past, granted by the State to native shipowners with the idea of bolstering up the industry have necessarily to be paid for by native merchants, and by them are passed on to the community. These, among other reasons, led to the abrogation of our Navigation Laws, and from that event we date the steady growth of our maritime interests, until we come to possess half the shipping of the world on the eve of the war. We have proved that the freedom of the seas in association with freedom of the ports represents the only policy which promotes economic health, and protects us from becoming periodically embroiled with other countries. Now that the United States has adopted what our experience suggests to be a mistaken policy, it is not our business, or the business of any country, to attempt to interfere, so long as treaty obligations and other obligations of a mutual character are respected.

Mr. Balfour's Treasure Trove

Correspondents who say that Milton made the literal acceptance of the Fall, with serpent, apple, and all, the foundation of religious belief in this country, ought to visit the Chambers Street Museum, in Edinburgh, and examine the amazing treasure trove of Roman-Gaulish silver which was recently dug up at Traprain Law, on Mr. Balfour's East Lothian estate. Experts agree that the silver dates from 300 A.D., that it was probably made in Northern France, and that it must have come to Traprain as the loot of some old Saxon or British corsair—let us say Hengist's great-uncle, working in partnership with King Arthur's immediate forebears. Most of it is the ecclesiastical or the household plate of Christian or priestly families, and one beautiful vessel depicts the Fall of Man in low relief, with Tree and Serpent complete. Apparently the Saxon or British pirate approved the subject, for the goblet is not cut to pieces and prepared for the melting-pot in the same drastic way as most of the trove. — Westminster Gazette.

You Can't Escape

Tooth troubles if you leave a film

All statements approved by authorities

You should try this new method of teeth cleaning. Try it ten days without cost. It combats the film which dims the teeth and causes most tooth troubles.

See and feel the results. To millions they are bringing cleaner, safer, whiter teeth.

The tooth wrecker

Film is the great tooth wrecker. A viscous film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not end it. Old ways of brushing leave much of it intact. And very few people have escaped the troubles which it causes.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea—a disease now alarmingly common.

A new dental era

Dental science has now found ways to combat that film. The methods have been amply proved by years of careful tests. Now millions employ them. Leading dentists everywhere advise them.

The methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And, to let all know how much it means, a ten-day tube is being sent to all who ask.

Five desired effects

Pepsodent brings five desired effects. It combats the teeth's great enemies as nothing has done before.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. The saliva's alkalinity is multiplied also. That to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere. Every application repeats these results.

Send the coupon for the 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

What you see and feel will be a revelation and the book we send will explain how each effect is natural and necessary. It is important that you know this. Cut out the coupon now.

General Wrangel's Progress; Menace to Red Power

By a Military Correspondent in The London Times

Baron Peter Wrangel is at present the unknown factor in Russian politics, and that he is a factor at all is perhaps the most striking tribute that can be paid to his powers of organization and leadership, which have produced victory out of the ruins of defeat.

When General Denikine after his disastrous retreat from Orel to the Black Sea gave up the struggle, and handed over his command to Wrangel, he apparently left his successor nothing to do but surrender the remnants of the White armies on the best terms he could win from the triumphant Soviets. The latter had already turned the main strength of their forces towards the Polish front, believing that the Whites of the South were finished with, and that they were conferring a favor on their leader by contemptuously offering him and his disorganized followers the guarantee of their lives as the price of an otherwise unconditional surrender.

Wrangel, soldier first and politician afterwards, devoted himself to the improvement of his military position. Favored by the respite afforded him—a respite which was none of his asking or making—he succeeded by the most rigorous and thorough methods in refashioning the chaotic mob of treacherous, corrupt and inefficient officers, and disheartened, mutinous and untrustworthy soldiers, who had flocked sheep-like into the haven of the Crimea before a few thousand Soviet horsemen, and in forming of them a well-disciplined and homogenous army, purged of its baser metal, led by tried and trusted commanders, and ready, not only for the defence of its actual positions, but for offensive operations on a limited scale if these should become necessary.

The Soviet Higher Command, which had been surprised to see that its nucleus of troops, left on the Crimean front during the Spring of 1920, had been unable to force the lines of Perekop and Chongar, and make an end of White resistance in the South, now prepared a great and decisive effort. Learning of these preparations, General Wrangel decided to strike at and break up the Red concentration before it could be completed for his own discomfiture. Furthermore, a food shortage was making itself felt in the over-crowded towns and ports of the Crimea, and the occupation of the fertile corn lands of the Taurida Province would enable this shortage to be remedied, failing which his army would shortly be faced with the alternatives of surrender or starvation. Early in June he commenced a general attack along the isthmus front, combined with landings on the coast to east and west, which ended in a series of resounding defeats for the surprised Bolshevists, and placed the Whites in a strong position, with their left front covered by the broad Dnieper and their right resting on the sea.

In this position General Wrangel was successful in dealing with continuous attacks delivered throughout the Summer, which resulted in nothing save defeat and loss for the assailants. He was even able to extend his area of occupation, moving first towards the east, where a small detached force of picked troops operated successfully in the territory of the Don Cossacks, who were smarting under the defeat of the preceding Winter and restive under Red tyranny. He then sent small columns southeast to the Kuban coast, where they were hailed as deliverers by the people and so swelled their ranks as to be able in a few days to raid far inland and threaten the main lines of communication.

In this way Wrangel has become a serious menace to the Red power in the south. His position at the moment is favorable. He has been recognised as supreme chief by all the anti-Bolshevist elements in the Ukraine and the Caucasus, and has thus secured the support of those turbulent fighting men, of whom the best known is Makhno, who have always fought fiercely against the invaders of their country, and would have none either of the Reds or Whites as long as they claimed to repress local independence and restore a centralised Russia ruled from Moscow.

The Land Question

In addition to this, he has, by his recognition of the peasants as real owners of the land they now occupy, obtained a firm hold on the most numerous section of the Russian people—the section which has, amid every political change, hungered for the land, seized the land, settled itself on the land, and fiercely opposed all who seemed to it not to acquiesce in its perpetual tenure of the land. Determined to fend only for themselves, the peasants have shut themselves up in their villages, armed themselves to resist all invaders, and produced just enough for their own needs and nothing more, pending the day something more acceptable than Bolshevist paper money will be offered to them in payment for their surplus grain.

General Denikine, unable to promise land to the peasants in perpetuity for fear of offending some of the interests which supported him, by his failure to comply with their wishes forfeited the support of the mass of the country people who might have saved his armies from disaster. General Wrangel has been wiser in his generation; and if the Soviet Government, which controls all news services in Russia proper, has been able to keep from the mass of its subjects the truth as to Wrangel's land policy in the regions occupied by him, those peasants who do know that under his leadership they can hope permanently to hold the land bestowed upon them, may be expected to afford him that ungrudging and heartfelt popular support which has so far been lacking to the White cause.

And, indeed, the most striking feature of Wrangel's policy is that sense of reality which inspires it all. Wrangel has not put himself forward as the ruler of all Russia, and shrunk from bargaining for military assistance against the Bolshevists now, for fear of affecting the strength of the position which he hopes to enjoy when he has achieved full supremacy. He has always kept his immediate aims foremost before his eyes, and realized that he must teach his followers to walk before they try to run. He has never aimed at marching on Moscow, but has been content to establish himself solidly in the Crimea, and thence to extend his zone of occupation slowly and gradually. He has confined his aims to the establishment of a nucleus of adherents of the White cause in the fertile regions of the South and their maintenance there, pending the decision by internal causes of the fate of Bolshevism in the barren North. It is, in a word, a practical object, and not a dream, that guides Wrangel's steps and forms the basis of his policy.

TUBERCULOSIS AND LEPROSY TREATMENT

Refined chaulmoogra oil, which experts of the government public health service say has arrested the progress of leprosy, is soon to be used by them in the fight against tuberculosis. The experiments with tubercular patients will be conducted in Hawaii.

Dr. J. T. McDonald, superintending physician of the leprosy investigation station at Kalihi, in Honolulu, with Dr. A. L. Dean, chemist and president of the University of Hawaii, will start the fight against tuberculosis, at the same time continuing their work against leprosy.

No concrete result of the use of the chaulmoogra oil in tuberculosis cases has yet been reported to the headquarters of the public health service here, but from their investigations with tubercular bacilli, isolated from a patient, Drs. McDonald and Dean have hopes of successful treatment of patients themselves.

The bacilli of leprosy and tuberculosis, according to government scientists, have been found to have similar characteristics, and the fatty acids of chaulmoogra oil seemingly have proved poisonous to the leprosy bacillus. This is the basis for the scientific hope that these acids likewise will be deadly to the germ of the "white plague."

Dr. McDonald has not yet made any formal report of his work with the tubercular germs to officials here, but unofficial reports from Honolulu quote him as saying that scientists at the University of California have discovered that the fatty acids of chaulmoogra oil are bactericidal to an acid-fat bacillus, in which class are the leprosy and tuberculosis bacilli. The inference, according to the doctor, is that what has been done to end the dread of leprosy may possibly be repeated to relieve the world of tuberculosis.

The public health service maintains a tubercular hospital in Hawaii separate from its leprosy stations, and the experiments with tuberculosis are to be conducted at the former. Health officials here refrain from any prediction of results, but express hope that chaulmoogra oil will prove a specific for curing tuberculosis.

CURING A COLD

By A. P. Garland, in The London Daily Mail

It must have been for me an unguarded moment when I blandly asked the group in the smoke-room: "Anybody got a good cure for a cold?"

The effect was electrical. Earnest men, who had been working out racing form, laid down their "Horses Worth Following," and drew up their chairs.

Robinson, who had been explaining, almost with tears in his eyes, how his own faultless play at Auction the previous evening had been nullified by the crass stupidity of his partner, dropped the subject instanter and turned eagerly towards me. All the others cleared their throats and made demonstrations of readiness to hold forth.

But Brown, like the Ancient Mariner, held me with his glittering eye and I could not choose but hear him first.

"Go to bed," said he. "Go straight to bed and don't touch a drop of liquid of any sort for at least twenty-four hours. After that a few spoonfuls of cold water only. In less than two days you'll be——"

"Probably stone dead," interposed Robinson, ruthlessly. "My dear chap," he continued to me, "you can't beat the old-fashioned remedies. Get a good fire in your bedroom, heap on the bedclothes, and drink a stiff glass of rum-punch, as hot as you can drink it, before getting into bed. In the morning you'll be——"

Words here failed him, but his expression gave me to understand that the morning after the foregoing operation I should probably be booking a passage to New York to knock pieces out of one Dempsey.

Higgins, who had driven a volunteer ambulance car in London for some time during the war, was inclined to be pontificial on account of his medical qualifications. He smiled supercilliously.

"Aspirin," said he. The best drug in the Pharmacopoeia." I cannot say if he pronounced the latter word correctly. Frankly I don't know. But the fact that he had pluck enough to tackle it reveals in some degree how we Britons won the Great War.)

"One of the biggest specialists in Europe told me one day when I was chatting with him—he asked me for a loan of my cigarette lighter, in fact—that you can't go wrong with aspirin. I always carry a supply with me," continued Higgins.

He drew from his breast pocket a miscellaneous bundle of articles and searched for the magic drug. Great was his disappointment when neither there nor in any other pocket was it to be found. I was sorry for him, as I felt sure that his day was spoiled.

After that the conversation became general, and I learned to my surprise that there is scarcely an article that canont be employed in curing a cold. The most interesting of all the suggestions was a sulphur-mud-bath, but for that I should have to go to New Zealand, which I thought rather far. The most appalling cure of all those suggested was a boiled Spanish onion, loaded to the gunwale with red pepper.

Incidentally, I still have the cold.

WINTER DIET FOR CHILDREN

By Walter M. Gallichan, in The London Daily Mail

The average child is a vigorous feeder. It is said that a boy between the age of 9 and 13 requires as much food as a man, and that the diet in adolescence, from 14 to 20, should be more liberal than that of an adult. Before the age of 12 a girl will eat as much as her brother. About the age of 13 she will require the same amount of nourishment as her mother. After weaning, children require, relatively speaking, more fat and body-building foods than their parents.

In the Winter the amount of fat in the diet must be increased. Children who are fastidious about fat meat and bacon should be encouraged to obtain the requisite amount of fat from suet puddings, margarine, butter and milk.

Sugar is to some extent a "fat-sparer," and it forms an important material in juvenile diet. I do not recommend that children should be always sucking sweets and munching toffee and chocolate, but these dainties may serve occasionally as dessert. Jam, syrup, and dried fruit will provide sugar. They must not, however, be regarded as true substitutes for fat. Bread-and-dripping is a better food for children than bread-and-jam.

Some writers upon juvenile hygiene state that a schoolboy requires about 9 oz. of meat daily.

Meat is the most convenient medium for providing the body with proteid, or tissue-making substance. But fresh meat is unfortunately high in price, and there are many thousands of children who are more or less deprived of proteid from flesh food. Rice, tapioca, and sago cannot take the place of meat, though they are useful in the child's dietary.

The hot fat of bacon is relished by many children if it is given with fried bread. There is a combination of fat and proteid in dried herrings, eggs, tinned sardines, and notably in cheese. Nuts are good for children in the Winter, as they contain a high percentage of oil.

There is not much fear that a child will overeat if porridge and milk, a scrambled egg, bread and butter, and a cup of cocoa are given for breakfast. If porridge alone forms the morning meal, there must be plenty of it, with sugar, syrup, and about half a pint of milk.

The child's nutritive meal of the day should be the midday dinner of meat, macaroni, cheese, fish, curried eggs, or omelette, with potatoes, a green vegetable, or parsnip and carrot, a suet pudding with jam or treacle, or pancake.

Milk puddings can be made occasionally from barley meal, semolina, flaked maize, and cornflour, instead of rice.

SELECTING A KNIFE

Picking a good pocket knife or razor is an art known only to a few. Even the experienced cutlery buyer is taken in occasionally. But there is an old rule that the better the polish the better also the blade. Not only does the lower grade steel not take as high a polish as the high grade article, but it would not pay the makers to expend upon inferior steel all the work and time that is required to give to the blade the fine polish associated only with the best.

Good steel is not only hard but it has also an energy of its own. The cutting ability of a knife, a razor or a pair of shears is derived from the fineness of the edge. A fine edge can be produced only of steel that is full of life and springiness because the blade must not only cut, but must select the most suitable spot for entering the material.

A high-class razor cuts the beard without bending the finest hair, an inferior razor pulls the hair before cutting it, hence the unpleasantness connected with its use.

High-class steel has a voice of its own. The finest tuning forks of olden days were made of the best steel possible. So the blade of a knife will speak to you when you are able to understand its voice.

Escaped an Operation

There is nothing in the world a woman so much fears as a surgical operation. Often they are necessary, but often not; and many have been avoided by the timely use of that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you are suffering from some dread ailment peculiar to your sex, why not profit by the experience of these two women whose letters follow?

These Two Women Saved from Operations.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—"After the birth of my last child I had such painful spells they would unfit me entirely for my housework. I suffered for months and the doctor said that my trouble was organic ulcers and I would have to have an operation. That was an awful thing to me, with a young baby and four other children, so one day I thought of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it had helped me years before and I decided to try it again. I took five bottles of Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and since then I have been a well woman, able to take care of my house and family without any trouble or a day's pain. I am ready and thankful to swear by your medicine any time. I am forty-four years old and have not had a day's illness of any kind for three years."—Mrs. H. Kosma, 617 Ellis Blvd, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Sandusky, Ohio.—"After the birth of my baby I had organic trouble. My doctor said it was caused by too heavy lifting and I would have to have an operation. I would not consent to an operation and let it go for over a year, having my sister do my work for me as I was not able to walk. One day my aunt came to see me and told me about your medicine—said it cured her of the same thing. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and they have cured me. Now I do my own housework, washing and ironing and sewing for my family and also do sewing for other people. I still take a bottle of Vegetable Compound every spring for a tonic. I recommend your medicine to others who have troubles similar to mine and you can use my letter if you wish."—Mrs. Paul Papenfuss, 1825 Stone St., Sandusky, Ohio.

IMPERIAL PRESS TOUR

Canadian Correspondent London Times

The Imperial Press delegates visited every Province of the Confederation except Prince Edward Island, and were hospitably entertained by the Dominion Government, the Provincial Governments, and the councils of many towns and cities. They had urgent invitations to visit the United States, but it was the deliberate decision to maintain the Imperial character of the conference and not to leave Canada as an organized body.

The suggestion was made by Lord Atholstan at the dinner to the delegates at Montreal that in future conferences the press of the United States should be represented. To this proposal there has been no dissent in Canada, but manifestly to meet the suggestion some changes in the name and character of the conference would be necessary. In very many of the speeches delivered by public men of Canada at dinners to the delegates emphasis was laid upon the good relations which exist between the Dominion and the neighboring country, and the obligation resting upon Canada so to interpret the British Empire on this continent as to promote understanding and co-operation between Great Britain and the United States and bind the English-speaking peoples together for all the good ends of civilization.

Racial Unity

Noticeable in many of the addresses was the appeal for a good understanding between French and English in Canada. The truth is that there is a great and common desire throughout the country for an abridgment of any differences which the war produced. This has been the keynote of all the addresses which Mr. Meighen has made since he became Prime Minister. A like spirit animates the speeches of other political leaders and the utterances of the English press in all the Provinces. That Sir Lomer Gouin has become political director of La Presse, the most widely circulated of French journals, and, indeed, of all newspapers published in Canada, is regarded as a great gain for political sanity and national unity.

As Premier of Quebec Sir Lomer Gouin held the confidence and respect of French and English. He is a Liberal but of conservative temper and practical political judgment. If La Presse under his direction should express his sound national outlook and patriotic conception of the position of Quebec in the Confederation, a vital contribution will be made to the unity of Canada, and the authority of Quebec in the national councils will be greatly enhanced. The press delegates have discovered that whatever may be Quebec's interpretation of the Imperial relation, devotion to the Throne and the Empire is as sincere and pervasive there as in the other Provinces. There are those who contend that Quebec will be the last refuge of monarchy and conservatism in Canada, but the phrase perhaps has no significance except as an extreme and almost envious recognition of its freedom from social ferment and political unrest.

Spurious Imperialism

In the deliverances of the press delegates there has been no jingo Imperialism. Nothing that has been said excited hostile criticism even by the extreme autonomists. There are signs in Canada of weariness and impatience with vocal Imperialism. The people are not calling for missionaries of Empire from Great Britain or elsewhere. They think of our action in the war as the final answer to separatists and independents, and are willing to leave the future to the natural processes of evolution by which the Empire has been created and consolidated.

Unquestionably Canada will reap the chief benefits of the conference. A body of representative journalists from Great Britain and the other Dominions will have acquired a far greater knowledge of its peoples and its resources. They will have discovered that settlement in the Western Provinces is no longer an experiment, that the older Provinces have developed many of the characteristics and institutions of a finished civilization, that the mineral resources of the country have not been exaggerated, and that there is land available for millions of people from other countries and opportunity for the fruitful investment of millions of capital. So, through the conference, the press of the other portions of the Empire should be able to give wiser counsel to those who would invest capital in Canada, as well as to those who would emigrate to this country.

Problems of Immigration

It is doubtful whether we have any adequate organization to handle a great increase of immigration or to ensure that immigrants will be placed on the best lands and guarded against avoidable mistakes and unnecessary losses during their first years in the country. Unquestionably there should be closer co-operation between the Federal Department of Immigration and the Provincial Governments to provide such accurate information in regard to farms available for settlers in older Canada as is afforded in regard to opportunities and conditions in the Prairie Provinces. In this whole connection the press of other British countries can do valuable service for prospective settlers in Canada, and need not even hesitate to give frank counsel to the Canadian Government.

Incidentally, no doubt, the conference has accentuated and stimulated the common feeling of patriotism which pervades the Empire, and through a better knowledge of the attitude and outlook of this country all the problems of Empire will be more clearly understood by those who have made this journey across the Canadian Provinces.

Upon whatever else the delegates may differ, they are united in grateful and hearty recognition of the conveniences and comforts of travel provided by the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern Railways, and the very complete organization of the pilgrimage in every detail by the Canadian committee, of which Lord Atholstan was chairman, and whose dinner at Montreal in honor of the delegates was, perhaps, the outstanding event of the conference.

CARE FOR THE ERRING

Jane Barclay in Toronto Globe

From all sides comes the appeal for improvement in methods of dealing with the man, woman and child commonly called a criminal or a delinquent. Some anti-social act, or maybe the mere outburst of animal energy, brings the individual face to face with courts, judges, lawyers and into institutions which he must enter for a period of discipline. The kind of process by which the courts, judges and lawyers arrive at a decision and at a disposal of the individual is what we are all clamoring about. The legal profession has had the benefit of Judge Coatsworth's review; the Juvenile Court of Toronto has had the survey or "paper" of the Bureau of Municipal Research; the newspapers have presented various addresses of individuals directly connected with the courts of the city.

The Causes Fundamental

When an expert speaks we are inclined to take his statements with the assurance that they are correct. It may be that a judge is too far removed from commonplace detail to appreciate its application. Judge Coatsworth's statements do not emphasize the fact that a social diagnosis is fundamental whenever we deal with human entanglements. The law pays no attention to the little things which gradually created in the individual the habit of stealing, deserting wife and children, wife-beating, cruelty to children, etc., or whatever the habit may be. It deals with the act and the results, and measures out what is mistakenly called justice. Judge Coatsworth may not have been properly informed concerning the territory covered by the Juvenile Court in Detroit. This court is a County Court. It was not, as he states, established for Detroit at the time when Detroit was the size of Toronto. It serves not only Detroit but the whole county of Wayne.

Detroit's Method

It is urged by persons interested in the establishment of an institution by the city of Toronto for the observation, training and discipline of delinquents that we follow the plan and purpose of the Detention Home in Detroit. This institution is maintained by the county, which also maintains the Juvenile Court under the same roof. It merely detains children the shortest possible number of days until the case is heard by the court. It aims to release the child inside of a few days. It is not a training or observation centre. It has been reported that the psychiatric clinic is under the management of the Detroit court. It is, instead, an extension of the State University of Michigan, and is maintained partly by the state and partly by private funds. Is the Medical Department of the University of Toronto or the psychiatric clinic of the Toronto General chiatric clinic capable of a similar extension of work?

The Clamor for Institutions

This is an age, fast upsetting the old idea that institutions are needed for children and adults. Toronto is a city of institutions, and the citizens hang on firmly to the belief that a child can be made normal in an institution. Every group of philanthropic individuals clamors for a building.

The Boston Juvenile Court offers us a marvelous example of good work done without a detention home. Judge Cabot's letter should reach everyone interested. It will steady the strenuous effort which some devotees of the Juvenile Court are making for an institution for juvenile delinquents. The delinquent child of Boston—a city of 800,000—finds his way into a carefully selected private family, and is in the midst of a normal family, instead of marking time in an institution. The court has the services of trained social workers from many private and semi-private organizations, who select the homes and supervise them. Justice Frederick P. Cabot of the Boston Juvenile Court states as follows:

How Boston Does It

"When arrested the police notify the parents and boy or girl is released to parent, unless the child is known to be a runaway or a warrant has been issued directing the detention of the child, except in marked cases of sex-offending by girls. The ones not released to parents are released to probation officer, and for that purpose probation officer is in telephone connection with the police throughout the day and night, and goes for the boy or girl in event of he or she not being released to parent. The boy or girl is then taken to a private family whose home has been investigated and selected for the purpose of receiving children for temporary care, and remains there until the case is heard the next day. In the case of girls a matron, usually the lady to whose house the girl is to be taken, goes during the night with the probation officer to get the girl. The child is not detained if there should be a continuance of the first hearing if it can possibly be avoided. The presumption being that if not a runaway the child will stay at home and come to court when told. If there is likelihood of detaining a child, the hearing is held immediately unless the presence of necessary witnesses requires a postponement. The disposition is not made until a thorough investigation has been made. If the child is to be held between the finding of delinquency and final disposition the child then goes to a temporary home, unless needing special physical care, when the child goes to one of the appropriate hospitals. Sometimes in the case of a girl she may go to one of the societies' homes especially caring for girls, whose cases are continued for a short time. Very few boys or girls are held more than one or two days. As soon as the investigation, including a physical and mental examination by the doctors, is made, the court makes its order of disposition. In some instances this involves custody away from the parents, which may be as a condition of probation; by placing out in some private family in the state or temporary commitment to the Department of State, which does such placing out of children, or to the Department of State which maintains state reform schools in the country for boys or girls."

The Too Easy Way

The people of Toronto are at heart as good and generous and sensible as the people of Boston. All that is needed is the intelligent handling of a programme of education and an awakening of the interest of the people. The use of an institution is always an easy way out, but it can never develop and test out a growing boy or girl. Segregation of certain mentally and morally abnormal children may be essential, but the average delinquent boy or girl is capable of redirection provided he is given carefully selected environment in which to overcome his bad habits. The effort must be his own. We need a careful and unprejudiced review of the whole field of delinquency and very sane judgment on the part of enthusiasts who would remedy our social ills.

Suicide While Insane

NELSON, Oct. 25.—Twenty-four hours after Mrs. Mary Yanik, wife of a rancher of Athabasca Landing, received a remittance of $100 from her husband, her body was found floating in the lake here. The woman was a guest at the Lakeview Hotel, and she occupied her room Saturday night. No inquest will be held, the coroner regarding it as a clear case of suicide while temporarily insane.

WATCH YOUR GUMS—BLEEDING A SIGN OF TROUBLE

Medical science knows how serious is the sign of bleeding gums. For it knows that tender and bleeding gums are the forerunners of Pyorrhea, that dread disease which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

If the disease is unchecked, the gum-line recedes, the teeth decay loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the Pyorrhea poisons generated at their base—poisons which seep into the system and wreck the health. They cause rheumatism, nervous disorders, anaemia and many other ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult your dentist immediately for special treatment.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

REAPING THE SOMME CORN

By Newman Flower, in The London Daily Mail

It sounded like a distant aeroplane. And it seemed the sort of noise one associated with the Somme. But it was a threshing machine up between La Boiselle and Fozieres, perched like some new-fangled thing of civilization on the fringe of a waste of weed-scrambled trenches and shell holes. Its appearance was as surprising as was that of the first tank in the High-street at Flers.

As far as I could discover, there are two threshing machines on the Somme just now working from one harvest patch to another.

Some agricultural experts who went out to the Somme during the war gave their opinion that corn would not grow there again, that the ground was poisoned.

But just now they are reaping the first post-war harvest of Somme corn. It stands in red-gold stooks in patches over the Somme, full in the ear, plentiful and beauteous to look upon. One comes upon a patch of it amid a heave of chalk and weeds and the thistz of England.

An ancient Somerset was surveying his "farm" carefully. It was all he had, so he told me. When the war-tide came it just washed out his home and everything that was his. He does not know now even where his house was. Trenches massed with wire and wild convolvulus and poppies and red-eyed wild mignonette have changed the geography of his lands.

But he was proud of his ten acres of corn and his five acres of roots; never had he been so proud of a crop. His wife was dead, his sons killed, but nature had given him back this little bit of solace.

"It's fine corn," he told me. "This land never knew better, and I grew corn here for forty years."

"But the poison—?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "The Boche could not kill France," was all he said.

* * * *

It is true. Ten thousand guns concentrated on a patch could not hinder the miracle of seed-time. The soil of Foxieres, every inch of it raked yards deep by Australian and German guns, was giving back better corn than it had yielded for years.

The Somme is the earth as it was when the first tares were put into it. Its weed-wastes show spots of gold where little harvests are gathering. Up at Le Sars a motor plow was at work today, bumping and rocking like a laboring boat—sludgy, heavy work. But there will be grain at Le Sars next year.

Down by Delville Wood, in which they are still searching for dead, and have 3,000 yet to find, they are stooking the new corn.

It is like that. Death and Life as neighbors—as they always were.

ALL DOORS OPEN NOW IN RUSSIA

Door keys are considered unnecessary in the Bolshevik scheme of life in Russia. Only privileged persons are supposed to possess them. When the Associated Press correspondent, who recently crossed Russia, asked for a door-key in one of the nationalised hotels at Omsk, he was informed by the hotel "commissar," formerly the owner, that under the Red regime doors are not supposed to be bolted. An appeal to the Omsk Bolshevik commandant resulted in the American correspondent obtaining an official document granting him a key and the privilege of locking the door of his room.

INTERESTING OILS BY GIFTED ARTISTS

Some Very Fine Works Shown in Connection With Annual Exhibition of Island Arts and Crafts, Belmont Block.

More than 200 visitors attended the annual exhibition of the Island Arts and Crafts Club on the opening day, yesterday, at Belmont House, and the signs all indicate an unusual amount of enthusiasm on the part of the public. In all departments of the exhibition the keenest interest was displayed, and a number of sales of pictures and crafts took place during the afternoon. The special point around which the visitors congested was the spinning demonstration in the first room devoted to the display of handicrafts, although smaller groups were to be seen any hour of the afternoon admiring various pictures hung in the three rooms devoted to oils and water-color or some of the numerous works of art which were found in the section devoted to crafts.

The tardy arrival of the catalogues was a slight drawback to the pleasure of those who had to leave early, but these have now been received, and with the additional information which they give, visitors for the remainder of the week will be able to enjoy a tour of the exhibition very much. The fact that tea is served every day makes it quite possible to spend the whole afternoon examining the collection, and anyone who visits the place will at once recognize that it will require several hours to see all that is to be seen.

Well Arranged Exhibition

The exhibition is very well arranged. The Board room, the largest devoted to exhibits, contains the water-color work. Including the three collections of miniatures sent in by Mrs. E. W. Izard, Mrs. Arthur Paget and Miss Grace Rosher, there are close upon 250 pictures in this section alone. The oils and pastels, about seventy in number, are hung in the smaller rooms; while the crafts are staged in the last two rooms.

There are some unusually fine things among the oils this year. Among the most noticeable is a life-size portrait of a lady with a black velvet cloak, grey muff and stole, and a black hat trimmed with a green feather. The subject is charmingly portrayed, the drawing being strong without detracting from the elegance of line and the fine modelling of the face and hands. This is the work of Miss Three Wylde, whose absence in England for several years robbed these annual exhibitions of some very beautiful things.

There will be noticed at once in the same room a very fine canvas from the brush of Mr. Arthur Burchett, whose predilection for moonlight studies is apparent both in his "Coming Storm" (No. 17), and the even more beautiful "Loch Carron, Scotland" (No. 32), in the adjoining room. These are dignified, have fine distance and depth, and there is life even in the serene calm of the latter, which shows misty clouds moving across the face of the moon.

Mr. Gore's Work

Mr. T. S. Gore's 'At Smuggler's Cove" is a very pretty scene, and the atmospheric effect is very clever, the light being bright although hazy, as is so often seen in late midsummer. In "The Creek," by the same artist, green is all-prevalent, and is handled in a very pleasing way.

There are two "animal" pictures in this section of the collection; one is a white pomeranian, "Pongo," by Mrs. Lilian Sweeney, which is apparently a faithful picture of a family pet—painted facing the artist;—the other is a painting of a goat, done by Miss Wylde.

To return to the portraits, however. Everyone admires Ms. P. Taylor's study of a girl's head. The drawing is beautiful, and there is a simplicity about the whole picture which is very pleasing.

There are a number of things by Mrs. L. A. Loveland in this section of the exhibition. One of the most charming is a little seascape called "With the Seagulls," where the eye wanders lazily past the deep shadows and sun-tinted red of some giant rocks out to the shimmering sea. It will be possible to refer later in the week to some of the other canvases from the brush of the same artist.

Girl's Work

Nearby is a portrait by Dorothy Dean, a girl of fourteen, who displays quite remarkable talent. Although the subject is portrayed in profile, the easiest position to draw, there is very fine free line and the modelling is excellent. This young artist should be showing some beautiful things in the course of three or four years as her talent matures.

Pastels are not numerous, but among them will be seen some interesting work. One is a portrait by M. K. Raynard which is worthy of special note. It is hung almost beside a work in oils by the same artist, and there is no doubt as to which is his happier medium of expression.

Mr. W. F. H. Copeman is very happy in some of his little pastel sketches on brown paper. They are actual portraits, and show much character and a facility with the pencil which is not stereotyped.

There is a life-size portrait of himself by Mr. Joseph Carrier, and this will particularly appeal to those who are friends of the artist and recognize the strength of the likeness. As a portrait "of an unknown person," however, it is by no means lacking in interest, the workmanship showing a trained hand and eye.

Decorative Art

As might have been expected, Mr. Semeigu's contributions to the exhibition are interesting. They are mostly decorative in design. "The Modern Knight," for example, shows a mounted soldier of the late war bearing a banner in his right hand. It is medievalized by the treatment, however, and comes almost within the "poster" class by virtue of the solidity and separation of the colors.

There is a delicacy of color about "The Afterglow" which draws attention to Miss D. B. A. Denough's work, while one or two other things from her brush are found in the same group.

Mrs. Dennis Harris is an indefatigable worker, and there is something of hers in practically every section of the exhibition. "Tulips and Polyanthus," which adorns one of the walls in the oil-room, is a bit of rich color, and for a still-life study is very happily done. "The Dawn, Shawnigan Lake," is also by this artist, who has portrayed the well-known resort in one of its oft-seen moods.

The exhibition will be open all week, and someone will be in charge each afternoon to give information.

The officers elected, who will call the next meeting for the further enrolment of members, are: President, A. E. Spencer; secretary, E. G. Cavalsky; treasurer, Samuel Gough.

ROAD MAKING

The spraying of roads with tar has now become almost a standard means of rendering them waterproof and free from dust, but the process has certain difficulties attached to it. One is the difficulty of keeping traffic, both vehicular and pedestrian, off the road until the tar has been covered by chippings. Several ways have been devised for carrying out both operations at the same time, and perhaps the simplest and most effective is that recently adopted by a British road engineer. He used a 5-ton tractor to haul a 320-gallon tar tank, followed by a 5-ton tipping wagon filled with chippings. At the back of the wagon is a V-shaped trough through which the chippings fall upon the freshly tarred surface. To prevent the choking of this trough, it is traversed by a shaft with projecting spikes, and this shaft is rotated by a chain geared to the rear axle of the wagon. This simple equipment is a great labor saver, and it spreads the chippings much more evenly than can be done by hand.

Electric Welding

Electric welding has already been applied in Great Britain to the building up of the cutting edge of high-speed tools which have become worn or chipped. A later development of electric welding in this connection is provided by a British machine which actually welds a tip of hard cutting steel on to the shank of the tool. The process takes only a second or two, and the weld, which is made under pressure, is the strongest part of the completed tool. This device should appeal to users of machine tools in all parts of the world where facilities for repairing tools are not ample.

ALL PARTIES SHAPING FOR THE ELECTION

Both Liberal and Conservatives of City Will Fix Dates for Nominating Conventions —Independents Offering.

With the date of the Provincial general elections announced for December 1 and nominations on November 10, political activity is becoming pronounced. Premier Oliver stated yesterday that he will open his campaign next week by a series of meetings in the Interior. He will leave next Saturday or Sunday and will open his campaign at Golden, speaking on following days throughout next week at Invermere, Fernie, Cranbrook, Creston and Nelson. He will return to Victoria and leave immediately afterward on another tour, the details of which are not yet arranged.

Premier Oliver was busy yesterday on matters political. Besides local party supporters who claimed a goodly part of the time, he was busy sending and receiving telegrams from various parts of the Province, and long-distance calls were numerous. One wire was from Mr. Charles Nelson, Liberal member for Slocan in the recently dissolved House. Mr. Nelson professed to see a party win in that riding, the language of his wire intimating that he believes the Government has what, in the parlance of the street, is known as a "cinch."

Premier Reticent

Premier Oliver stated he had nothing to announce as yet as to where he will run. He refused to admit that he is likely to chose Victoria as one of the seats for which he will run, nor would he consent to announce whether he will again be found a candidate in Dewdney, for which he was elected in 1916, or, instead, in Delta, his old-time stamping ground in the earlier political fights he was wont to wage for Liberalism.

"I have no announcement to make as yet," Premier Oliver stated.

The members of the Oliver Cabinet will be found running in their old ridings. Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, left last night for the North to prepare for the contest in Prince Rupert riding. Hon. William Sloan, who will run again in Nanaimo City, will leave for Fernie today or tomorrow to take a hand in the Liberal cause there and will meet Premier Oliver at that point when the latter reaches there toward the end of next week. Hon. Dr. King, Minister of Public Works, shortly leaves for Cranbrook, where he will again run, and Hon. Dr. MacLean, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Education, will be the Liberal nominee in Greenwood. Hon. J. W. deB. Farris, Attorney-General, will, of course, contest the Vancouver seat, being one of the six Liberal candidates there. Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, will head the Liberal ticket in Victoria.

Politicians Busy

Both political parties in Victoria are getting busy preparing for their nominating conventions. A meeting of the Conservative executive is scheduled for next Thursday evening in the rooms, Arcade Block, and it is understood the convention will be held on Thursday of next week. The Liberal organization meets tomorrow evening in the Liberal headquarters, Arcade Block, to fix the date of their convention. Both parties, it is certain, will have a complete slate of four candidates in the field, but at present it is only speculation as to who they will be.

Mr. William Ivel, president of the local Liberal organization, stated definitely yesterday that he will not be a candidate at the Provincial contest. It is rumored he is reserving himself for the nomination in the Liberal interests at the next Dominion general election.

Now that the women have a vote it is but natural that the political parties will see fit to include one of the fair sex on their tickets. Mrs. Spofford's name is being mentioned as a likely choice for the Liberal ticket. She was one of the women whom the Government selected to act on the commission which investigated the question of mothers' pensions, sick benefits, state insurance, etc., and on that body's report legislation was brought downe at the last session covering the question of mothers' pensions. For her services she and other members of the board received $20 per day and travelling expenses.

Mr. Henry Hall, Liberal representative of Victoria in the last House, will be in the running again. Mr. George Bell, at present in Scotland fighting for the Prohibition cause, has not yet been heard from, but it is likely his name will also go before the Liberal convention.

Conservative Possibilities

The Conservative nominees are, as yet, purely speculative. There is a lengthy list for the nominating convention to choose from, all citizens of prominence in the city, and all having taken a foremost part in the business and social welfare of the city, chief among them being Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Harold Fleming, Mrs. Kent, ex-Mayor Stewart, Gen. R. P. Clark, Col. Lorne Ross, Mr. R. S. Day, Mr. James Forman, Mr. William Moresby, Mr. H. M. Grahame, Mr. Ernest Miller, and others. Col. Bapty, whose name was mentioned, will not be a candidate.

Some of the Government supporters who occupied seats in the late Legislature will not again be candidates at the coming contest. Mr. G. G. McGeer, member for Richmond, has informed the Premier that he will not again be in the running. He will probably direct the fortunes of The Victoria Daily Times, which will continue to be the chief Government newspaper organ in the Province.

Mr. J. S. Cowper, one of the Vancouver Liberal candidates, is another Government supporter to drop out, and, report has it, Mr. J. W. Weart, Liberal member for South Vancouver, is likely to be found in the Independent column when the ballots are cast on December 1 next, along with Mr. J. W. Wilson, elected in 1916, as a straight Government candidate in Rossland. In late sessions of the Legislature Mr. Wilson displayed unwonted independence and at the last session his vote was found almost continuously being cast with the Opposition.

Mr. Whiteside Retires

Mr. David Whiteside, New Westminster, has announced that he will not again be found seeking the Liberal nomination, having retired.

Mr. W. R. Ross, Conservative, who represented the Fort George riding in the last House, will not be running at the coming election, it is stated.

Lieut. G. G. Hanes, elected a Liberal in North Vancouver at the 1916 contest, has been a thorn in the side of the Liberal administration, his determination to force an inquiry into the P. G. E. situation, having developed him into the stormy petrel of the House. Mr. Hanes maintains that he is the only one of the Government members who stuck to the Liberal principles upon which they were elected. But in view of his persistent fight with the Premier at every session it is hardly likely that he will figure upon the straight party ticket at the next election, and if he runs it is probable it will be in an independent role.

In the North Country

In Atlin, the riding represented by the late Mr. Frank Mobley, a woman is already in the field in the person of Miss Kate Ryan. Conservative candidates spoken of are Capt. Ross, M.C., son of Mr. W. R. Ross, member for Prince George, and Mr. Charles Tubman, formerly of Victoria. The Government supporter is likely to be Mr. O. B. Bush, a prominent mining man, one of the discoverers of the famous Premier mine. Mr. Bush was in the city last week and has left for the north with Hon. T. D. Pattullo.

In Cariboo Mr. John Yorston, Liberal member in the late House, will be the Liberal nominee, while John P. McConnell, former newspaper man and now interested in mining in that section, may run as an Independent. The name of Colonel Boyle is being mooted as a likely Conservative nominee.

In Kaslo it is probable Hon. John Keen, the Speaker of the last Legislature, will not be in the running owing to his physical condition. Conservatives there favor the candidature of Colonel Fred Lister, C.M.G., who made an excellent record overseas and was the superintendent of the Lister Camp soldier settlement area when that work was first undertaken.

In Victoria there is bound to be a number of Independent candidates. Besides the name of Alderman A. E. Todd, who is at present away in the East, those of Mr. H. W. Davies, Dr. Ernest Hall, Canon Hinchcliffe, A. J. Morley and others are being mentioned.

NEW TRIPLE ALLIANCE IN POITICAL FIGHT

Farmers.-Soldiers-Labor Organization Plan to Place Candidates in Forthcoming Provincial Election.

A combination of soldiers, labor and farmers in the forthcoming Provincial election contest is apparently an assured thing, according to Mr. J. H. Hawthornthwaite, Socialist Labor member for Newcastle in the last Legislature, and who announces he will again be found contesting that riding.

Already negotiations have been opened between the three elements and steps taken to place candidates in the field.

The Farmers' organization, of which much has been heard of late, is well organized throughout the Province and boasts of its ten thousand affiliated members. Its leaders have already announced the determination of the organization to get into the political arena and place candidates in all the rural ridings.

The Grand Army of United Veterans, the latest of ex-service organizations to be formed, has also political aspirations, and for some time past there has been a rapprochement between it and the Labor forces, chiefly through the medium of the Soldier-Labor Council, a body upon which the ex-service organizations and the labor bodies have representatives.

Mr. Hawthornthwaite stated yesterday that plans are now under way whereby the three bodies can be brought together for the coming fight. It is proposed to place candidates in every one of the thirty-nine ridings of the Province, the farmers to be left the rural ridings and the Soldier-Labor forces the urban centres on a fifty-fifty basis. On that understanding there will be two Soldier and two Labor candidates nominated in Victoria.

It is proposed to hold a nominating convention in Victoria shortly to select the nominees who will represent this newest triple alliance in the coming fight. A joint platform will be drafted upon which the Farmers'-Soldiers'-Labor party will make its appeal to the electors. Organization work has been under way on the Island for some time under the direction of Mr. Copeland, who has been holding meetings throughout the Island ridings.

The platform of the triple alliance, Mr. Hawthornthwaite stated, will be constructive, broad and comprehensive while not being extreme.

The main points upon which the farmers take their stand and which will constitute the basis of their platform are the following:

1. Co-operation. The influencing of legislation in furtherance of co-operation and co-operative trading for the benefit of the whole community.
2. Roads. The appointment of a road board for the maintenance of existing roads and the development of further requirements.
3. Natural resources. The development of natural power resources according to local requirements.
4. Immigration. More efficient control of immigration.
5. Rural credits. The establishment of rural credit systems.
6. Civil service. Reform of the system of civil service with adequacy of pay and pensions, with a view to increase and maintain efficiency.
7. Reforestation. Reforestation of logged off lands unfit for agricultural purposes.

Mr. Hawthornthwaite stated he has just made a tour of Vancouver Island and everywhere he found the greatest possible enthusiasm for the new party, the membership of which is rapidly growing. He said the opinion is being generally expressed that the haste with which the Government is going to the country is to forestall the Farmer-Soldier-Labor movement and secure a decision before that organization is fully in shape. But, he said, he is convinced that from Vancouver Island alone the candidates of that body will hold the balance of power in the next Legislature.

Likely Veteran Aspirants

Last evening the members of the Grand Army of United Veterans met at their rooms in the Hibben Block and discussed the holding of an early convention, at which their two representatives on the Farmer-Soldier-Labor Party ticket in Victoria should be nominated. The nominating convention will be held on Thursday evening of this week.

Candidates whose names are being mentioned as likely choices for the Grand Army of United Veterans include Mr. R. B. McLernan, who took an active part in support of Mr. T. A. Barnard, at the last federal bye-election here; Miss Helen Stewart, Chief Librarian of the city; Mr. Christian, a well-known printer and a very fluent speaker; Captain Gaddsden, Mr. Thomas Dooley, Mr. J. Orford, and others.

Labor Gets Into Line

The Labor interests here are also getting into line. Already the various valor organizations have been requested to name delegates to attend a nominating convention to be held next Monday evening, at which Labor's share of the joint ticket will be named. Among likely labor candidates are Mr. A. Pike, president of the Trades and Labor Council, who came out strong for Prohibition during the recent plebiscite campaign; Mr. E. S. Woodward, former president and now secretary of the Trades and Labor Council; Mr. Christian Siverts, and others.

Seek Mr. Day's Candidature

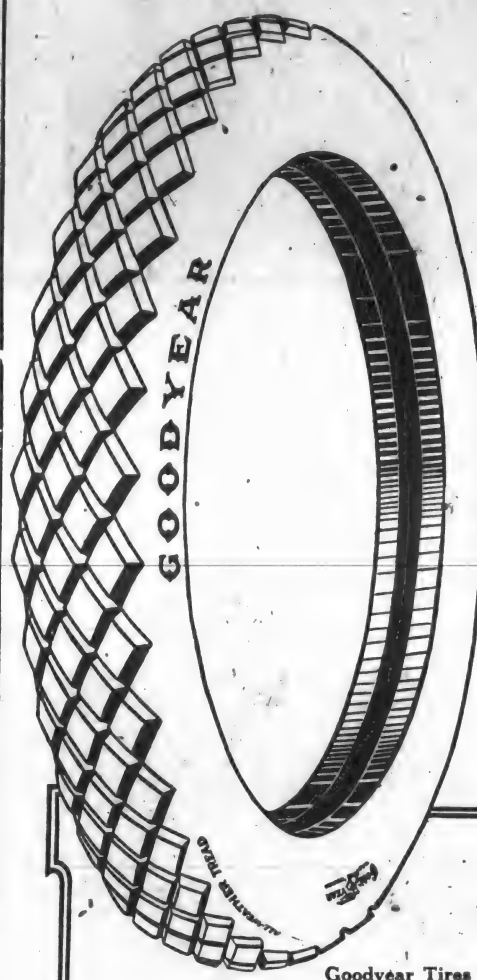
Last evening a deputation waited upon Mr. John Day, at his home at 880 Madison Street, among them being several prominent citizens, and urged that he allow his name to be placed in nomination at the forthcoming Provincial election. One of the spokesmen alluded to the fearless stand Mr. Day has always taken on all matters of public interest.

Mr. Day thanked the delegation for the honor done him and the confidence they showed in him, but he stated he has no intention whatever of running in the coming contest.

Miracle of Seed Time

Just now they are reaping the first post-war harvest of Somme corn. It stands in red-gold stooks in patches over the Somme, full in the ear, plentiful and beauteous to look upon. One comes upon a patch of it amid a heave of chalk and weeds and the last traces of hell. The shells and brokenness of war lie piled beside this patch of stubble; heaped-up wire marks the boundaries of the field. Ten thousand guns concentrated on a patch could not hinder the miracle of seed-time. The soil of Poziores, every inch of it raked yards deep by Australian and German guns, was giving back better corn than it had yielded for years.—London Daily Mail.

Goodyear Tire Mileage Costs You Less Than Before the War



Goodyear Tires cost you less per year or per mile than they did before the war.

The price of Goodyear Tires in that time has increased less than 2% on some sizes, and only 15% on any size—while most commodities have increased over 100%.

We have been able to keep down the price of tires largely because of Goodyear's economical system of distribution (direct from factory to Service Station, saving jobber's profit and reducing shipping cost).

This slight increase is overshadowed by the greater mileage made possible by increased Goodyear Quality and broader Goodyear Service.

Owners now report cost-per-mile much below that of five years ago.

You, too, can secure fair Goodyear prices and long Goodyear mileage by calling on the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer.

UNITED VETERANS PROMISE ACTIVITY

Are Discontented With Measures of Government for Returned Men—Promise Plenty of Political Action

Although Major R. J. Burde, the promised speaker of the evening, was not on hand to deliver to the Grand Army of United Veterans the powerful message he had promised them, the meeting of the organization last night was not without interest.

"We will give you fight from now on," promised President R. P. McLernan, in his opening remarks, pressaging political action by the G. A. U. V. in the very near future that will satisfy the most ardent criticiser of governmental inaction regarding returned men.

"The returned men," declared Mr. J. H. Hawthornthwaite, M.P.P., "with their women's vote, control the destinies of this Province." He predicted that the farmers would line up behind any combination of soldiers and Labor and make a party strong enough to better conditions. The returned men, he said, have to go over the top once again in the fight for freedom. Referring to Old Age Pensions, he declared that the State has a long way to go yet in this respect. The soldiers' demands, too, he considered, most reasonable, but they by no means completed the demands of the country's needs. Everyone has a right to work with a fair return for the work done, and industrial reform must be carried on with that object in view.

That it is now time for the returned men to take the country that they fought for was the opinion of Tom Dooley, who claimed that property has been legislated for too long, and it is now the turn of men and women. He appealed for careful consideration in the use of the ballot at forthcoming elections.

Miss Helen Stewart decried the labor conditions of the past, and said the public opinion is demanding that burdens be taken from the backs of those unable to bear them. It is an absolute necessity, she said, that the worker shall know the conditions and results of the work done. The Government has fallen down, in the opinion of Miss Stewart, in appreciation of the services and sacrifices of soldiers. She urged the assembled veterans to unite in an effort to make Canada a country worthy of the great sacrifices that had been paid.

Discontent with Government action was also expressed by Comrade Christian, who urged each member to constitute himself a committee of one for purposes of membership. As for the political outlook, "We are prepared," he said, "and before the week is out, we will launch a programme that will make them sit up."

FEATURES ARRANGED FOR HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Camosun Chapter Welcomes Two New Members—Many Activities Planned for Dance

The Camosun Chapter, I.O.D.E., held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the Jones Building. The regent, Mrs. Andrew Wright, was in the chair, and there was a good attendance of members.

The business consisted chiefly of arrangements for the chapter's Hallowe'en party. The grand march will take place at 8:30 instead of at 9 p.m., as previously announced, and it is particularly requested that every young maiden shall remember to carry her vanity case, or at least a mirror of some description. At 9 o'clock the Wizard of the North will suddenly appear and perform some wondrous acts, the Queen of Hearts will also be present, a consultant for the future, and spooks with original costumes will flit hither and thither, while at one end of the hall a huge pumpkin head will distribute "Pumpkin Feed."

Colonel Andrews will play the dance music for the little folk between the hours of 6 and 7, after which Heaton's orchestra will supply the music. Mr. George Bushby will be master of ceremonies during the early part of the evening. Mrs. R. S. Day is in charge of the decorations and will be assisted by a large committee, while Miss Agnew convenes the mysterious bowls of fate and fortune telling.

Fancy Dress will be optional, but the joy of "make-believe" will appeal so strongly to the young children that doubtless all will be in costume.

Two new members were welcomed into the chapter yesterday, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Adams-Beck, whom the regent presented with a bar pin, a gift from the chapter to all who had sons at the great war.

IMPORTANT C.P.R. SCHEDULE CHANGE

New Schedule Calls for Vancouver Boat Out of Here Sunday Nights, But Not Saturdays

Commencing next Saturday the B. C. Coast Steamship Service schedule will be changed to give a night boat out of Victoria for Vancouver Sunday night, but not Saturday night. In the past there has been a steamer out of this port at 11:45 o'clock every night of the week except Sunday.

Under the present schedule a C. P. R. boat reaches here from Seattle at 1:15, and another leaves for the Sound at 4:30 every afternoon except Mondays when the Sol Duc makes the trip from Seattle and Victoria and return on the C. P. R. schedule. Under the new schedule the Sol Duc will fill in on the Seattle run on Sundays instead of Mondays, the C. P. R.'s own steamers taking up the regular service on Mondays.

LONDON GAINS

Annual Report Shows That Shipping Business Is Increasing in Big Port

It is very satisfactory to find that the Port of London continues to recover some of the ground lost during the war, even though there yet remains much leeway to be made up. From the eleventh annual report of the Port of London Authority it appears that the total net tonnage of vessels which arrived and departed with cargoes and in ballast from and to foreign countries and British Possessions and coastwise during the twelve months ended December 31 last was 26,335,191, which is an increase of 11,771,183 tons compared with 1918. The net register and deck cargo tonnage of shipping which entered and left the port and paid river tonnage dues during the twelve months ended March 31 last was 20,899,577 tons, as against 13,210,603 tons, an increase of 58.2 per cent. Both as regards the foreign and the coastwise trades the figures represent a marked improvement. In the former case the advance was from 9,670,230 tons to 15,224,787 tons, or 57.4 per cent, while in the latter, where a serious falling off occurred in the previous year, there was an increase from 3,540,282 tons to 5,674,790 tons, or 60.3 per cent.

BRITAIN'S WIRELESS LEAD

The leading position which Great Britain has attained in wireless telegraphy and wireless telephony is due largely to enterprise inspired by commercial motives and that disinterested study of science by a few able men for which England has always been distinguished. During and since the War, however, more than one Government department has had to interest itself in "wireless." The Admiralty, the War Office, the Post Office and the Air Ministry are all concerned from one point of view or another; and the Government has formed a Radio Research Board which will act as a clearing house for all the experience gained by each department. Four sub-committees have been formed, and these will carry on research according to programme. The services of several independent British men of science have been secured on these committees.

The Time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish High Water from Low Water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

Equimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the Drydock at any time, add 19.0 feet to the height of High Water as above given.

REVENUE SOURCES CAMPAIGN ISSUE

City Council Takes Initiative in Getting Municipal Problem Before Political Party Leaders—More Money Needed

Provision of additional sources of income to the municipalities will be one of the big issues of the approaching political campaign in British Columbia, if the proposal submitted to the City Council last night by Ald. W. J. Sargent, and endorsed, finds favor with municipalities in other parts of the Province.

Ald. Sargent, who is chairman of the Finance Committee of the City Council, brought in his suggestion in the form of a resolution, seconded by Ald. Joseph Patrick, and in explaining the objective sought recalled the futile attempts of the municipalities to obtain satisfaction from the Oliver administration in the matter of new sources of revenue. Repeatedly, he pointed out, representations had been made, the argument being that the cities and towns of British Columbia had been forced to place an unequal and excessively heavy burden on land and improvements. Access to other means of taxation had been asked for, but the Government had invariably refused.

The alderman proposed that action should be taken with a view to placing the revenue needs of the municipalities before the political parties seeking endorsement at the polls December 1 so that reasonable treatment might be expected at the next session of the Legislature. He also proposed that Mayor Porter should communicate with other municipal bodies in the Province for the purpose of assembling a conference to discuss the whole situation and finally establish a basis for a concerted plea.

Psychological Moment

"We would be neglectful of our duty to the citizens if we let an opportunity like this slip by," said Ald. Sargent. "This matter is vitally important to the people of Victoria, as well as to all the municipalities of the Province. This council has taken up the question time and again without getting adequate relief. It would be folly now and unfair if we, believing as we do, should allow a general election to take place without putting our position before the people and appealing to the electors for support.

"This is a problem that does not end in Victoria," he went on, and then he spoke of the artificial tax rate set by the council for this year, which did not really represent the actual financial situation of Victoria. "We made our taxes as low as possible. We set a tax rate of 26 mills by recovering from a previous local improvement loan some $92,000. The rate this year is not illuminating as to actual costs. Another year with the same assessments and costs and without new means of revenue we will have to charge two mills more to equalise the balance sheet. Some-seven hundred pieces of property reverted to the city at the last tax sale, their total assessment being nearly $1,500,000, although I am without definite figures. If we base our estimate on a tax rate of 26 mills, then we have cut off an appreciable amount of potential taxes (roughly $40,000)."

Other Provinces Better Fixed

Ald. Sargent quoted facts relating to the sources of revenue enjoyed by municipalities in other Provinces. British Columbia had only taxes on real property, roads and licence fees. Alberta taxed real property, personal property, business, income, and had licence fees. Saskatchewan enjoyed taxes on property, business, income, special franchises and licences. Manitoba had real and personal property taxes, income, poll and trade taxes. Nova Scotia taxed real and personal property, had a poll tax and trade tax. Quebec had taxes on land, merchandise, licences and poll taxes. Ontario taxed real property and business, gross receipts of telephone and telegraph companies, trade licences. Toronto had an additional income tax.

"When we consider the basis of our resources, we can understand why we are buying in now all the lands for sale," said the alderman.

He suggested that one way out of the difficulty would be for the Government to take over the schools and hospitals, maintain them and keep the revenue. The municipalities might then be able to carry on without further assistance. "This might be a workable and satisfactory solution," he said.

Ald. Fullerton, supporting the resolution, said that the Provincial Government seemed to be out for revenue and didn't care how it got it. The cities were blamed for the sins of the Province, and it was time they were given a "square deal."

Relief Refused

"Whereas, it has been generally known for some considerable time that this city's sources of revenue are altogether inadequate to provide sufficient funds to meet the fixed charges for the indebtedness of the corporation and defray the continually increasing costs of constructing and maintaining the streets and bridges, establishing and maintaining the schools, hospitals, the police and fire departments and the many other necessary items of expenditure which go to make up the city's services to the public.

"And whereas, these unsatisfactory conditions have repeatedly been explained to the Government of the Province and the plea made for those additional sources of revenue which naturally belong to the city and now appropriated by the Province, and so far these pleas have not resulted in any tangible relief;

"And whereas, the tax sale of last year from which nearly 700 properties reverted to the city and the tax sale of this present year, from which many, if not more, properties are sure to revert to the city, thus materially decreasing the assessment and automatically increasing the taxation of the remaining properties, all point to the unavoidable disaster which must follow if the present plan of endeavoring to collect from land sufficient taxes to meet all the requirements of the city if persisted in;

"Therefore, be it resolved that as it is at this particular time of vital importance to Victoria and its citizens, this Council should place before the political parties which will be contending at the approaching election for the right to govern the Province, the grave and threatening menace which confronts our city with a view to securing the necessary relief at the first session of the new Legislature.

"And be it further resolved that His Worship the Mayor arrange with the leaders of those parties a time or times in the early days of the coming month when these matters so important to the welfare of Victoria may be placed before them, and that he also communicate with the councils of the other cities of the Island and Mainland, which doubtless have similar difficulties to our own, inviting them to join with this Council in a united appeal for substantial relief."

FIGURES SHOW U.K. PASSENGER MOVEMENT

Travelers to Canada From Old Country During Six Months Double Those Bound the Other Way

A Board of Trade return showing the passenger movement from and to the United Kingdom during the first six months of the year makes interesting reading, states Syren and Shipping. The figures give the number of passengers carried outwards and inwards between United Kingdom ports and British North America, Australia, South Africa, India, United States, etc., during each quarter. From these particulars of the passengers carried it is possible to arrive at some pertinent data respecting the present condition of the ocean passenger business. Thus we find that the number of British subjects and aliens carried to Canada during the first half of the year was 67,316, while the homeward number was 34,793. The figures for the United States were 50,691 outwards and 56,421 inwards. Adding these totals, the volume of travel between United Kingdom ports and North America is 209,221, which does not represent an overwhelming amount of business, considering the companies there are to share it. Roughly, it means the equivalent of 4,000 westward and 4,000 eastward bound passengers per week. Of course, in normal times the first half of the year was not the best season for Atlantic travel, but it is hardly likely at a time when ocean trips are confined mainly to business necessities that the latter half of the year will show a very substantial increase. Included in the passengers carried between our ports and British North America were 3,810 aliens, the non-British subjects travelling to U. S. and U. K. ports being 51,504. The total number of passengers carried inwards and outwards between British ports and places abroad outside Europe, was 314,805, of whom 243,361 were British. The totals for South Africa were 13,135 outwards and 12,857 inwards; for Australia and New Zealand 23,256 and 9,485; for India 7,415 and 9,701; and for other British possessions 7,226 and 6,788. As regards the movements of aliens between this country and non-European countries during the first half of 1920, an inward balance of 30,594 is shown, as against 4,026 in the corresponding period of 1919. In the traffic between the U. K. and the continent of Europe, the number carried outwards was 308,838 and 295,026 inwards. With regard to alien passengers the Home Office reports that the number landed from all countries exceeded the number embarked by 18,291. It would be foolish to take any optimistic view of these figures of travel during the first half of the year, though compared with those of the corresponding period of 1919 they show big increases. In the case of the United States, for example, against the 50,791 passengers who left our ports for there between January 1 and June 30 last, the corresponding total for 1919 was only 11,788, and in other cases the disparity was even more marked. In 1919 there was a shortage of ships, which resulted in long waiting lists. That shortage has now been eliminated, but another barrier to anything like general ocean travel has arisen in the shape of the high fares which shipowners are compelled to charge in order to recoup themselves for increased running expenses. At present there is little, if any, prospect of these being reduced. With a cost that has

MILK AND DISEASE

By A Professor of Medicine, in The London Daily Mail.

Evidence collected in foreign lands shows that tuberculosis does not exist in places far removed from contact with civilised people, and that when it is introduced by "carriers," or infected people from civilised countries, it has a deadly effect on the "unsalted" population. This was the case, for example, in the South Sea Islands.

Colonel Cummins, the Professor of Pathology at the Royal Army Medical College, has recently pointed out that native troops suffered in France from consumption far more than our troops, although under the same conditions, or, in the case of worker battalions, better conditions. These troops were much less "salted" to the disease than highly civilised people.

Young children are similarly "unsalted," and if massively infected with the germs, fall victims and die from acute generalised tuberculosis.

A test can be applied by rubbing into the skin dead tubercular germs, which shows whether a person has been infected with living tubercule germs at any time during his life. This test and also post mortem examinations, show that 90 per cent of our city people by the time they have reached adult age have been infected.

Children continually receive slight doses of infection from drinking milk derived from tubercular cows or by inhalation of germs scattered by tubercular people.

Such infections in the healthy child produce trifling reactions—for example, a swelling of a lymphatic gland—and these help to protect the child against further infection, just as vaccination protects against smallpox. Children, as they grow up, thus become "salted" against the disease.

The danger lies in massive doses for young children—they must be protected against close contact with cases of consumption, and the lowering of the resistance to the germ by unhealthy conditions of life.

It is these unhealthy conditions, the overstrain of work, lack of fresh air and exercise, ill-feeding, which allow the germ to triumph over the bodily resistance or immunity of the adult person, and occasion consumption in him or her, either by the growth of the germs which infected them as children and have lain latent since, or through fresh infection by contact with consumptive patients.

A great deal of effort has been made to free dairy herds from tuberculosis and secure milk free from tubercle bacilli. But it is now suggested that the cow strain of tubercle bacillus is less dangerous than the human strain, and may act better as an immunising agent. The conclusion then is reached that it is impossible in crowded communities to avoid infection, and that small repeated doses of infection immunise children, and that such doses given in milk may perhaps be better than doses inhaled from consumptive people.

We need not trouble so much, then, about the milk as about seeing that young children do not get massive doses from those nearest to them—as times its pre-war dimensions, and with wages high and increases demanded, owners can hardly reduce their passage rates. We hear of a passenger liner booked full to Calcutta and yet losing £10,000 on the run, and of an Australian liner whose round voyage resulted in a loss of over £30,000. This does not suggest that ocean fares can rationally be lowered. And yet, if reductions cannot be effected in the price of ocean travel, we shall, we are afraid, soon find ourselves with idle passenger ships on our hands. The bulk of present-day ocean travellers are making voyages from sheer necessity, and the rates are certainly not calculated to foster pleasure voyaging. It would be a pity indeed if circumstances continue to exert a restrictive influence upon this important section of our ocean-carrying trade.

DECLINE IN PRICES FEATURE OF BUSINESS

Downward Trend Has Been Established, But Credit Situation Is Strong and Future Reassuring

The downward revision of prices continues to be the factor dominating the general business outlook, says a financial circular of the National Bank of New York. The movement is a natural and inevitable corrective of the unstable condition created in the previous period of rising prices, reckless public buying and widespread speculation. Falling prices are not a recent development. Before the close of 1919 the prices of a number of important commodities had begun to decline. By Spring of 1920 a definite downward trend had been established. Since then the movement has been accelerated, until within recent weeks it has forced general recognition that the period of excessive buying at rising prices has definitely ended. Business must now go forward on a lower price level. This readjustment cannot be effected without embarrassment in individual cases. It will be effected, however, without serious general results by reason of the inherent strength of the credit situation and the assured co-operation of the banks with business.

The banks are amply prepared to finance business while it is working out a more normal basis of operation and a stable level of prices. This process will require the employment of a large volume of credit. Inventories cannot be disposed of abruptly. In many lines, owing to general indisposition to buy, their liquidation must be effected very gradually. Meanwhile, they must be financed. The long run effect of the downward price movement, however, will be to ease the credit situation. The freedom from disturbance with which the readjustment is effected depends largely on the willingness of business to recognize the changed conditions.

Stabilization on a new price basis does not involve a return to the pre-war price level. For nearly two decades prior to the war, prices had been rising steadily. On economic grounds this rise might reasonably have been expected to continue, had there been no war. Moreover, the improvement effected in our credit and banking machinery since the inauguration of the Federal reserve system now enables a given gold reserve to finance a greater volume of business at higher prices than was practicable in the pre-war days. The country's present gold reserve greatly exceeds the pre-war reserves, and this enlarged and concentrated gold reserve will have a sustaining influence on the new price level. The actual level at which prices will be stabilized can only be worked out gradually on the basis of actual transactions over an extended period.

STOKERS MEET DEATH ON FRENCH STEAMER

HAVRE, France, Oct. 25.—Six stokers aboard the French liner France, which left here Sunday evening for New York, were killed, and three others injured, in an accident to the stoking machinery of the vessel, according to a wireless message received today.

Brides-Elect Reach Montreal

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—About forty brides-elect were among the 467 cabin passengers who disembarked Saturday from the White Star-Dominion liner Canada, which docked here from Liverpool. Most of the grooms-to-be were on hand to meet them and take them out west, where most of the ship's passengers were bound.

Automobile Fatality in Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Miss Edith Manchester, twenty-six years old, of Ottawa, was killed almost instantly, and D. A. Hart, a young farmer from North Gower, was seriously injured on Rideau Street Sunday afternoon, when an automobile in which they were driving, collided with a street car. The rear wheels of the street car passed over Miss Manchester, inflicting fatal wounds.

Victory by Force

Neither in international nor domestic affairs will the application of the principles of the League of Nations be permanently effective until all men realize in their hearts the futility of force and recognize from a new point of view the valuable security provided by impartial judgments, even though they may occasionally be wrong. "Who overcomes by force," said Milton, "hath overcome but half his foe." But the time is surely coming when to overcome by force will be an expression without meaning. Either that or nothing. Either the world will be governed by peace issuing from reason and humanity, or it will destroy itself.—London Daily News.

Rural Revolution

A social and economic revolution in the rural areas of England is being accomplished in the sale rooms. The land is changing hands, and agriculture is becoming a highly organised modern industry. The land is now passing chiefly into the hands of those who cultivate it. They will alter the face of the rural landscape. They will sweep away the picturesque patchwork of irregular fields and straggling hedges, and food will grow where now are nurseries for noxious weeds. This is one of the stern necessities of the times. The lean days of the farm worker are over; at long last he will take his rightful place as a skilled man, with the pay of his rank, and a future before him and his family.

BULL EFFORTS MEET WITH SMALL SUCCESS

Prices Fail to Respond to Price-Raising Endeavors of Professionals—Industrial Situation Remains Uncertain.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Efforts on the part of professional traders to create a pre-election boom in the stock market today met with scant success, financial and industrial conditions acting as a check upon speculative excesses.

The money market reflected last week's higher rates for call loans, and the heavy deficit in actual reserves of clearing house banks. Today's opening rate was 8 per cent, with an advance to 10 per cent in the last hour.

Cables from London strengthened the belief that events were shaping toward an early solution of the British labor situation. These were supported by a brisk rally in sterling exchange, which rose 6½ cents over recent low quotations. Steels were among the few active issues of the session, including the premier stock, United States Steel. Directors of that corporation meet tomorrow to act on the dividends and make public the financial report for the year's third quarter.

Oils, coppers, sugars, utilities and sundry specialties embraced the other prominent and higher stocks, but rails were dull and mostly heavy, with tractions and shippings. United Fruit featured the late decline at a net loss of 7½ points, and Coca Cola lost 4⅝ points on rumors of unfavorable dividend action.

Sales amounted to 475,000 shares.

Trading in bonds was light. Total sales, par value, aggregated $13,550,000. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKETS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—A heavy tendency was again in evidence on the local market and wheat prices were ranging about 4 to 5 cents lower, with the cash spreads weaker, the premium on No. 1 northern disappearing entirely.

The demand for wheat was extremely poor, and at the same time offerings were much larger. There were no reports of any new business being worked, and absolutely no demand from exporters, and very little from millers, either American or Canadian.

The coarse grain market was far more active than wheat. Offerings were somewhat heavy, and prices declined in sympathy with wheat. There was a fair demand for all cash coarse grains. October wheat closed 3½ cents lower, November 3⅜ cents lower, December 3¼ cents down, and May 3 cents lower. Oats Closed ½ cent lower for October, ⅛ cent down for December and unchanged for May. Barley 1 cent up for October, 2⅜ cents higher for November, ⅜ cent up for December and 1⅛ cent lower for May. Flax 2¼ cents lower for October, 1½ cent down for November and 1½ cent lower for December. Rye ⅜ cent down for October.

RUSSIAN COTTON INDUSTRY RUINED

Russia's great pre-war cotton industry has suffered to such an extent during the revolution that it is doubtful whether many of the mills ever will be able to operate again, says Sir Charles Macara, an English authority in the world's cotton trade, in an interview in The Yorkshire Post.

Based upon information obtained from an Englishman who recently returned from Russia, where for 14 years he was the manager of a large cotton factory near Moscow, Sir Charles estimates that of the 9,000,000 spindles running in Russia before the revolution not more than 200,000 or 300,000 are now operating.

The experiences of the English manager of the Moscow factory were told as an example of the methods employed by revolutionists in dealing with one of Russia's great industrial assets, the textile factories in the Moscow district. This particular mill carried on all the processes from cotton spinning to the finished product, 17,000 workers having been employed under normal operating conditions.

When the Bolsheviki assumed power the whole cotton industry was nationalized. At every mill committees were formed and finally, in October, 1919, a degree was issued that all who had been connected with the former owners would have to leave. With the experts gone the mill stopped. After a time attempts were made to restart it, but it was almost impossible to obtain raw cotton. Small quantities were obtained, which after being diluted with 75 per cent waste, was put through the processes.

The machinery now is in a very bad state, in such a state, in fact, that it would be almost impossible to operate the factory properly, according to the information given Sir Charles. Whenever machines are damaged, other machines are denuded of parts to repair them.

Sir Charles stated that there was little possibility of English workmen going to Russia for employment in textile factories. Mills in Germany and Austria were turning out only from 25 to 30 per cent of the normal production, he said, and English workers faced the almost impossible task of making up for the four and a half years' stoppage of textile manufacture owing to the war.

HE HAS NEVER FELT BETTER IN HIS LIFE

Winnipeg Man Gains Fifteen Pounds by Taking Tanlac—Health Is Restored

"Thanks to Tanlac I have actually gained fifteen pounds in weight, and am just as good a man today as I ever was," said Peter Wold, of 391 Logan Avenue, Winnipeg, well known contracting carpenter.

"For more than a year," he continued, "I suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble, and lost my appetite so completely that I ate little more than enough to keep body and soul together. Even the smell of food nauseated me, and at times I could scarcely retain a thing on my stomach. The little I did manage to eat caused me terrible cramping pains, and gas formed and pressed up against my heart until I had to gasp for breath. I often became so dizzy I couldn't stay up on a ladder, and I was so restless I never got a good night's sleep. I was so weak I could hardly saw a plank, and simply felt miserable all the time.

"Well, sir, Tanlac began building me up from the very start, and three bottles of the medicine has given me an enormous appetite, and relieved me entirely of that awful indigestion and stomach trouble. Why, I never felt better in my life than I do now, and I'm greatly indebted to Tanlac for what it has done for me."

DOGMA—WORDS AND SPIRITUAL TRUTH

By A Correspondent, in The London Times

Nothing shows more clearly the divided state of the national mind today than the discussions now going on about religious dogma. Several generations of industrial and materialistic life have had their inevitable effect upon our ways of thought and sense of language. We now, as it were, think from below, from the ground, from material things; our thought is geometric, and our expression of reality mechanical. Factories and their products have not only usurped much of England, but much of our mind. The sordid earth, and the engines that make it vibrate, are more actual to many of us than the air and the light of Heaven. So that all our thoughts tend to become rigid like the first, instead of having an elastic quality, an ethereal play like the second. Perhaps traveling through the air, when it becomes general, may give us a lift in the right direction.

There is a chasm, as it were, between the world of thought and the world of spirit, across which the mind of man in his happier moods, flies with ease upon "winged words," and returns with light and insight. And however he may argue—and he has always argued and always will—about what he brought back; however intellectually and even logically he may strive to express it for his delight and conviction, he never quite loses the saving grace of the mind that has seen. There is a living quality in his speech; he does not use words as if they were bricks or paving-stones to be pressed home square in their places and never move—no, his speech is of the nature of the air, carrying with it light and color, freedom and movement. His expression must seem to bind him, but only for a moment, as a bird perches on a bough for us to see him—he is always just come from one flight and ready for the next. There is a feeling of life and Spring in the words of anyone who has really seen. And there must be some tincture of the same quality in the mind of anyone who desires to understand religious dogma.

When the human intellect endeavors to express its vision of the spiritual world, it is doing an impossible thing. It is compelled to use a logical form for what is beyond logic. At its best it is showing us a live bird in a cage, when what we most desire to see is its flight; at its worst, the same bird stuffed and in a glass case. In either instance only a lover of birds, who has seen for himself, can gain anything; and he, by the magic of memory, can see the living creature again flitting through its native wilderness.

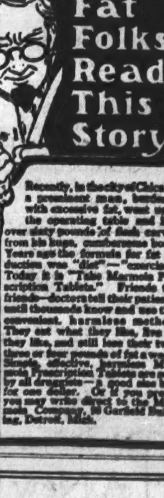
So it is with the understanding of dogma. It requires a kind of intellectual charity, a feeling for poetry, almost as it were a Divine humor, to interpret fairly these splendid adventures of the intellect that we call dogmas. When they are treated in this generous way they are seen to be not statements of the body, but of the soul of fact; they are seen to be an attempt to suggest the sum of the movements on which our life is carried; and for this purpose they will sacrifice all the properties and probabilities of history, language, and common sense—all to make an absolutely simple and clear picture of their essence. They are willing, like St. Paul, to "speak as a fool" if only they can arrest our attention. Who has not smiled with sorrow and pity for the atheist orator, and his audience, when these grand abstractions are being summarily dispatched and their contents shown to be foolish and contradictory?

If we consider the Doctrine of the Fall, of which we have heard so much lately, some of us today cannot understand it owing to its quasi-historical setting. But this is the method of poetry, which sees history not as a matter for the intellect merely, but as part of the Divine vision. Where else can it settle, and show us its face, if not in the past? Others fail to understand through a biological bias—man has so obviously risen, they say. In one way or another, starting from the ground of sense and matter, it is easy for logic to show the doctrine as meaningless. But those who have had a sight of the spiritual world—as anyone may, if he will believe he may—descend on the doctrine from above, and to them there can be no question of its truth. That which is nonsense to the practical mind is an axiom to those who have seen.

Is there any remedy? Our way of life has become materialized, and our sense of language has followed our way of life. Until there is a spiritual movement in the one, how can there be in the other? Both in the churches and the schools we need a new life; especially a new birth of poetry, a new love of our mother tongue. Nothing would do more, if we could command this miracle, to heal our differences. At present England is a Babel, and the dissonance of minds and tongues painful.

Command of the Seas

If we command the seas in time of war, our national defence will be automatically assured. No enemy will ever be able to approach our coast if we follow the naval principles of Mahan and his successors in our navy, and use our naval power in time of war to strike the enemy immediately. Our fleet to be successful, must be made up of a sufficient number of all necessary types, must be fully manned by adequate crews, and ably directed by trained officers in accordance with carefully prepared war plans.—Providence Journal.



Fat Folks Read This Story

Recently, in the city of Chicago, a prominent man, burdened with excessive fat, went upon the operating table and had over sixty pounds of flesh carved from his huge, cumbersome body. Years ago the formula for fat reduction was "diet"—"exercise." Today it is "Take Marmola Prescription Tablets." Friends tell friends—doctors tell their patients, until thousands know and use this convenient, harmless method. They eat what they like, live as they like, and still lose their two, three or four pounds of fat a week. Simple, effective, harmless Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists—a good size box for one dollar. Or if you prefer you may write direct to the Marmola Company, 86 Garfield Building, Detroit, Mich.
